PRESIDENT MAPS NO TAX RAISE, ROBINSON SAYS

Party Chief Predicts Spending Cut.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov 26.—[Special]—The New Deal legislative program being whipped into shape at the Little White House for presentation before congress next January does not contemplate substantial increases in existing taxes or the imposition of new taxes.

This assurance was given today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, senate floor leader, after a four hour conference with President Roosevelt. At the same time he held out little hope of balancing the budget now one billion dollars in the red for the year.

Senator Robinson said he was not at liberty to discuss in detail the subject matter of the conference other than that it embraced general conditions and important legislative matters. These, it was understood, included relief expenditures, unemployment insurance, finances, and possible passage of the bonus over a presidential veto.

Government Expenditures.

"I believe expenditures for normal governmental purposes will be kept well within the national income," Senator Robinson said. "I do not anticipate that an effort will be made to make substantial increases in existing taxes or to impose substantial new taxes."

It was understood the additional taxes of the New Deal administration will be continued in force another year. These include the taxes on gasoline, electricity, bank checks and the like.

Of the deficit Senator Robinson said there is little probability of balancing the budget as a complete project because of relief and expenditures to create employment.

"We can't quit relief now," he declared. "I don't know what would happen if we did. People should not be permitted to starve."

Expects Curb on Relief.

Senator Robinson indicated the administration will attempt to curb the extraordinary expenditures for unemployment aid and relief. He scoffed at estimates of such an outlay above the ten billion dollar mark.

"Unemployment relief is to be preferred to the dole," he said. "A reasonably conservative program should be adopted with a view to tapering off the deficit."

Senator Robinson said that the bonus was discussed at some length but no conclusion was reached. Intimates of the White House have expressed the fear that a bonus program of calling for expenditure of more than two billion dollars may be passed over a veto.

He declared that nothing was said to indicate any program for the payment of bonus in the extraordinary expenditure class is in contemplation. Advisers of the President have indicated he will fight for payment of the bonus, if passed, out of the regular revenue, which would mean that new taxes would have to be created to meet the payment.

Harrison Also Attends.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, who was also present at the conference, left for Washington to begin a study of unemployment insurance. He raced from the conference for a train, leaving his colleague as his spokesman.

Senator Robinson reported that Senator Harrison will call a meeting of the finance committee to work out unemployment insurance legislation. This is to be ready for presentation in congress early in the session.

Robinson said that while it is not contemplated that this social security phase of the New Deal will eat tax money, "people have grown so accustomed to seeking federal money I have given up being a prophet."

President Roosevelt later conferred with Rudolph S. Hecht, president of the American Bankers association. The banker reported that he does not believe interest rates have reached an irreducible minimum as he expressed support of the administration's drive for expansion of credits.

3 KINGS AND 3 QUEENS SIT AT BRIDAL FEAST

George and Marina Guests of Honor.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, Nov. 26. — Kings were three for a penny in London today and minor royalties were even cheaper. Buckingham palace was booked up for the reigning sovereigns and members of former royal families who are close relatives of the British monarchs. They have come over to see "young Georgie," as the communist newspaper Daily Worker insists on calling the duke of Kent, fourth son of King George, lead the "Greek Marina" down the aile on Thursday.

This afternoon a couple of monarchs—King Haakon VII. of Norway and King Christian X. of Denmark—were seen emerging from an elevator in Claridges' hotel. This hotel spent a large sum on new plush breeches for the flunkeys who are all over the place "yessing" and "noing" their various majesties.

Have Office Work to Do.

It is true their majesties themselves eat and sleep in Buckingham palace, but even kings today have some office work to do and their suites are housed at Claridges' hotel.

Meanwhile, Princess Marina spent a busy day receiving visitors at Buckingham palace. She received her eight bridesmaids for the first time, talking with them for nearly an hour. They are Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, little Princess Elizabeth of York, granddaughter of the king and queen; Lady Iris Mountbatten, Lady Mary Cambridge, Grand Duchess Kira of Russia, Princess Catherine, Princess Eugénie and Princess Irene, all of Greece.

The duke of Kent also spent a busy day. He worked overtime receiving various deputations and members of the diplomatic corps bringing wedding gifts. He missed lunch and snatched a sandwich and a glass of sherry with his guests.

Royalty Pours into London.

While the rush and bustle was going on in Buckingham palace and York house, royalty continued to pour into London. These included King Christian and Queen Alexandrine of Denmark and Prince Waldemar. They arrived on the maiden trip of the new Danish motorship Jutlandia. A special train, smothered with Danish and British flags, rushed them to London, where the duke of York received their majesties on behalf of his father and mother.

The first official function of the three day festivities took place tonight when the three kings—King George of England, King Christian of Denmark, and King Haakon of Norway—with their queens sat down together at dinner in Buckingham palace given in honor of the duke of Kent and his bride-to-be. Ninety-eight guests were present.

Famous Gold Plate Used.

The great ball and supper room on the first floor of the palace was specially decorated for the occasion and the royal servants wore full liveries of scarlet and gold with knee breeches. The famous royal gold plate was used and huge bronze and gold crysanthemums and other autumn flowers were brought from Windsor gardens for decorations.

London is taking the wedding festivities to its heart and rapidly dressing up. All the principal streets are being decorated with masses of streamers, flags and garlands of roses to which huge fancy paper bells are attached.

There is a business angle to the wedding. All the big hotels and restaurants are arranging special wedding "breakfasts." They will begin at the same time as the Buckingham palace function, using exactly the same menu. It is estimated that England will benefit to the extent of $20,000,000 in trade as a direct result of the royal wedding.

Two Wedding Ceremonies.

There will be two wedding ceremonies on Thursday. The first will be a glittering affair at Westminster abbey. The second—the Greek Orthodox, will follow immediately afterward. This ceremony, much shorter and performed before only a select company of royal witnesses, will be solemnized in the private chapel of Buckingham palace, built by Queen Victoria in 1843 as a conservatory.

The service is expected to last less than thirty minutes. It will be solemnized by the archmandrite of the Greek church in London, Archbishop Germanos.

AS THE HAPPY COUPLE START ON THEIR HONEYMOON

TWO MORE DAYS AND NEIGHBORS CAN SLEEP AGAIN

Policemen John Moroney and William Durkin of the Englewood station hurried there yesterday on complaints of midnight cock crowing. In the yard of John J. Englert at 1245 Roosevelt road they found the offender.

"We bought him two weeks ago," Mr. Englert explained with some embarrassment. "He was well behaved then, but the fatter he grew the louder and longer he indulged in his midnight crowing. Fearing he was lonely we bought him a hen, but his voice merely grew more exultant. I'll admit he's been pretty bad, but——"

Mr. Englert glanced significantly toward an ax sticking in a chopping block. Policeman Moroney did some calculating with his fingers. He and his partner left, trusting the neighbors would not organize before tomorrow, for Mr. Englert promised them the problem would come to a timely end then.

ASK ROOSEVELT FOR CASH TO BUY WEDDING LICENSE

Salt Lake City, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Two unemployed, matrimonially minded Utah men who applied to President Roosevelt for loans to obtain marriage licenses still were bachelors today.

A copy of their letter was received by the Utah Emergency Relief administration today from Jasper J. Mayer of the Federal Emergency Relief administration at Washington. Mayer wrote that the president had instructed him to refer the men to the Utah office.

"We have been out of a job for a year and it is impossible for a single man to get a job," the president's correspondents had written.

"We would appreciate it very much if you could make us a loan for our marriage licenses."

REFUSES TO TAKE OATH TO HITLER; ORDERED TO TRIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The only German known to have refused to take an oath of fidelity to Chancellor Adolf Hitler personally as reichsfuehrer and chancellor was revealed today as Karl Barth, a professor of theology at Bonn university. Minister of Education Bernhard Rust ordered him suspended and tried in court.

Barth said he had not been informed of his suspension. He added that several weeks ago he offered to take an oath of allegiance to Hitler with the proviso "in as far as I can answer for doing it as a Protestant Christian." The minister of education refused to accept the proviso.

Official Finds U. S. Treasury 'Tax Fix' Ring

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A conspiracy between two treasury department officials and a firm of New York accountants to defraud the federal government and taxpayers of hundreds of thousands of dollars was disclosed today by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Both federal officials have been suspended and are before the District of Columbia grand jury for indictment, Secretary Morgenthau said. Other officials and members of the private New York accounting firm may be involved later.

Treasury Presses Inquiry.

Still uncertain of how many thousands or millions of dollars it may have lost through the fraud ring, the treasury was busily checking all tax cases ever handled by the implicated officials. One case alone involved "several hundred thousand dollars" Secretary Morgenthau said.

Through the New York accounting firm members of the ring would offer to "fix" income tax suits pending in the bureau of internal revenue. If the taxpayer agreed to the ring's fee the two officials, one of whom held a responsible position, would fix the case.

"One taxpayer," Secretary Morgenthau explained, "was approached by a stranger who said, 'I understand you have a case pending, and, if you give me 25 per cent of what I save you, I can get the case quashed.'

"This man, being a high class business man, brought me the facts.

"Naturally, I was terrifically shocked and asked him to go through with it. Through his cooperation we were able to discover who was selling us out."

In Bureau 20 Years.

One of the two discharged employés is understood to have been in the bureau of internal revenue for 20 years. There is a possibility, therefore, that his peculations may aggregate millions of dollars.

"It runs into a lot of money," Secretary Morgenthau conceded.

Still uncertain just how much the treasury may have lost, Mr. Morgenthau has sent out instructions to check every case that the two officials have handled and also to scrutinize any case with which the New York accounting firm had any connection.

"I wish it were life," was Secretary Morgenthau's terse retort when reporters asked him what the penalty would be for the officials. He said that the formal charge would be defrauding the government and that "nothing could be too severe."

The treasury head refused to disclose the names of the officials or of the business man who brought the first clew to the treasury. One of the officials, however, is understood to have occupied a position of responsibility in which he could pass upon the advisability of sending tax cases to trial.

One of the angles of the case which still is bothering treasury officials is that, although the business man who approached Secretary Morgenthau prepared to go through with the case on the secretary's instructions, the conspirators were tipped off, and the deal never was consummated.

Secretary Morgenthau said he believed that the fraud ring "headed up" in New York, but agents still are digging into its other possible ramifications. Evidence against the officials was obtained by the treasury's own investigative force under Elmer L. Irey.

Beer Baron Would Settle.

Discussing another angle of his tax activities, Secretary Morgenthau disclosed that lawyers for "Dutch" Schultz, former beer baron, who is under indictment for income tax fraud in New York, have approached the treasury seeking to make a cash settlement. The lawyers have offered to produce Schultz if the treasury will settle, but Morgenthau told them that "we want Schultz without any promises."

RIOT IN DOWNTOWN LOS ANGELES MARKS STREET CAR STRIKE

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—(AP)—A riotous downtown demonstration in which 25 Los Angeles railway cars were stalled and hundreds of persons cheered or booed was broken up tonight by police tear gas bombs as announcement came of a possible truce in the street car strike.

For almost an hour traffic was snarled as strike sympathizers, encouraged and booed by spectators and passengers, jerked trolleys, jeered car crews and released air from car brakes.

All police reserves were rushed into the area and the crowd was cleared away with tear gas after ten men had been arrested and one policeman injured.

The disorder occurred at the height of the evening rush hour when thousands of persons jammed the sidewalks and transportation facilities homeward bound.

Seven of nine men arrested were declared to have been railway employés who went out on strike last Saturday. All were booked for disturbing the peace.

Mule Kills One, Injures Another in Auto Attack

Bourbon, Mo., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Fred Harman was killed and Ray Johnson was critically injured when a mule attacked their car on a road near here. The animal was walking down the road and, as the automobile came along, it jumped on the machine and pawed the two occupants, crushing Harman's skull. Johnson suffered several broken bones and lacerations.

Girls' Deaths Are Charged to Starvation

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The mysterious deaths of three young girls whose bodies were found on a lonely mountainside near here were definitly linked today with the slaying of a man and woman whose bodies were discovered about the same time as the others Saturday in a shack near Duncansville, 100 miles west of here.

Find Cross on Forehead

Discovery of a mark or brand resembling a cross on the forehead of one of the girls was revealed by officers tonight. Presence of the mark was learned through use of a magnifying glass after death masks had been taken of the faces to aid in later efforts at identification.

Coroner A. E. Haegle and Dr. L. U. Tech, coroner of bordering York county, said the cross could have been caused by an injury, but were more inclined to believe that it had been branded on the child's brow.

Meantime, the manner in which the girls died became even more baffling to authorities with the announcement by Dr. George R. Moffitt of Harrisburg that he had found no traces of carbon monoxide poisoning or asphyxiation in their bodies. He also said they had not been raped.

No Signs of Violence.

The carbon monoxide theory had been held forth because of no indication of external violence or the apparent presence of other poisons. Carlisle physicians had previously announced their examination showed one of the girls, believed about 10 years old, had been raped. The other girls' ages were estimated at 11 and 7 years.

Paul White, a bus driver, identified the three golden haired girls and the woman as his passengers on a four hour trip from New York to Harrisburg last Wednesday.

"That's the woman who rode with the children on the bus," White said when he went to Duncansville with state police and viewed the body of the woman in a morgue.

He had previously identified the bodies of the children in a morgue here and a picture of the woman as his passengers. His certainty convinced authorities of the connection in the five deaths.

Investigating police advanced the theory tonight that the demise of the five may have been the result of poverty, the children being slain or dying from malnutrition and exposure, and the case of the man and woman a murder and suicide.

Bodies Found in Station.

The couple, whose bodies were found in a little railroad flag station near Duncansville and seven miles south of Altoona, had been shot to death with a rifle which lay near by. Their wounds showed powder burns such as would have been caused by holding the gun close to their bodies.

Police said they learned that the man and woman spent last Thursday

Tragedy Follows a Drinking Party.

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The Rev. Joseph J. Leonard, 40 years old, a Catholic priest, and Mrs. Ruth Steinmetz, 17, Hollywood movie dancer and bride of two weeks, were shot to death today in a room occupied by the priest at the Knights of Columbus hotel. Mrs. Steinmetz was a granddaughter of former Senator S. H. Piles of Washington.

The woman's husband, Joseph Lieb Steinmetz, 22, of Jewish birth, who had been studying in Los Angeles to become a Presbyterian minister, was captured beside the bodies. He had an automatic pistol in his hand. He was charged with the murder of the two. He will be arraigned in the Homicide court tomorrow.

The priest, who was pastor of Our Lady of the Rosary chapel and chaplain at Morris Hall, Home for the Aged, at Lawrenceville, N. J., was shot twice through the left breast. One bullet lodged in the heart. Mrs. Steinmetz, an attractive blonde, was shot twice through the left chest and once through the wrist.

Admits Double Killing.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan in charge of the detective bureau and other police officials who arrived at the hotel shortly after the bodies were found, said Steinmetz acknowledged the slayings. Sullivan and Assistant District Attorney Saul Price quoted Steinmetz as saying that on finding his wife and the priest in the latter's room, he fired several shots at Leonard.

"Then my mind was all in a whirl, I remembered nothing after that," the prisoner was quoted.

According to the detectives, Steinmetz and his wife came here on their honeymoon last Tuesday. They were assigned to room 1222. Hotel employés soon learned the two were married on Nov. 10 at Tia Juana, Lower California.

On Sunday night, according to the hotel records, Father Leonard registered and was assigned to room 934. Some time Sunday night, Steinmetz told the detectives, he met the priest and soon the husband, wife and priest were chatting. They met again to go to breakfast about 8 o'clock this morning. It was reported that Father Leonard had met the bride before her marriage when he was in Los Angeles.

Tells Story of Shootings.

What transpired directly afterward and led to the shootings was described by Assistant District Attorney Price.

"Steinmetz said when he and his wife started for breakfast they met the priest on the ground floor lobby," Price related. "The three went to a nearby restaurant, where there was considerable drinking, in which all participated.

"After breakfast the three went back to the Knights of Columbus hotel and went up to Room 1222 occupied by Steinmetz and his wife. There they had some more drinks. Steinmetz then went out and bought some more liquor and a bottle of tomato juice. When he returned more drinks were mixed and consumed.

"Steinmetz then said he became tired. According to Steinmetz, the priest suggested that Steinmetz go to sleep.

"Steinmetz said he lay down on the bed and tried to go to sleep.

Tells of Finding Them.

"Steinmetz said the couple left the room and a short time later he followed them to Room 934. When he got to the room he knocked on the door and Leonard told him to come in. He said he found Leonard with his coat off, and his wife partly disrobed.

Then the police quoted Steinmetz as telling a remarkable story. He said that when he started to the priest's room he did not have a pistol and that he remembered he had loaned one to the priest the night before. He asked its return and the priest got it from his coat and returned it.

"Steinmetz" the police added "said his mind became all in a whirl and he fired several shots at Leonard. He said he remembered no more after that."

This version differs somewhat from that given to the police by hotel attaches. The detectives were told that about 10:30 this morning a telephone message was received at the hotel desk from Leonard asking that a bell boy be sent up to room 934.

One of the bellboys, James Collins, was sent in response to the message. On his arrival at the room he said he saw Steinmetz at the door listening at the keyhole.

Collins, not knowing Steinmetz, made his way back to the hotel desk and reported the incident to Assistant Manager Michael O'Mally. In the few minutes that elapsed between the time Collins reported and the trip of O'Mally to room 934, the shootings took place.

O'Mally, on arrival at the room, saw the door ajar. On the floor he saw the bodies of the priest and the woman. To one side, near the head of the bed, was Steinmetz with the pistol in his hand. He made no effort to escape and surrendered readily to the police.

Wants "to Go to Chair."

Steinmetz described himself as "a converted Jew." While being booked he muttered, "I want to go to the electric chair." He said he used drugs and liquor only moderately. He told the police he came here from Bucharest in September, 1929.

Steinmetz talked freely with the detectives, but cried frequently. He asked for a glass of hot milk. One of the detectives went to a nearby coffee shop and brought back a carton of hot milk. Steinmetz sipped the milk and continued between crying spells to answer questions.

Steinmetz said he was born at Bucharest, the son of a rabbi. When he came to America he lived for a time with his mother in Brooklyn after his father died, and in 1930 the son went to the west coast, the mother and a sister and brother remaining in Brooklyn. Young Steinmetz said he renounced Judaism to enter the Bible institute of Los Angeles and worked for a time as a hotel clerk and also in a minor capacity in the movies. He also told the police that his wife had worked in the movies under the name of Mary Ruth Armstrong.

Find Marriage Certificate.

In the search of the effects of Mrs. Steinmetz was found the marriage certificate and also a registration card of the Hollywood High school. The marriage certificate showed she was married under the name of Ruth T. Piles. Police said she was a Catholic.

At the Home for the Aged in Lawrenceville, it was said tonight that the priest came there four years ago from Lakewood where he was curate at the Lakewood Catholic church. He lived on Lawrence road, Lawrenceville with his sister, Miss Teresa Leonard

In a statement issued from the chancellery of St. Mary's cathedral in Trenton the priest was described as "mentally sluggish."

The statment said:

"Father Leonard had an attack of influenza in the epidemic of 1918 and 1919, and he suffered seriously, not only physically but mentally.

"At that time he was attached to a parish in Bordentown, N. J., and was transferred then to Lakewood, a health resort. He was in poor physical shape.

"He was an assistant to the pastor of the one Catholic church in that town and his duties were light. He remained there until 1922 when his mental difficulties—he was not insane but suffered from mental depression—began to assert themselves.

"The priest was then transferred to the home in Lawrenceville."

Elope to Agua Caliente.

From Los Angeles came further details of the romance of Steinmetz and the girl. She had attended Hollywood High school until Oct. 26, when she left school to take a dancing rôle in the film "Night Life of the Gods" under the name of Ruth Page.

Meantime, her romance with Steinmetz flourished and on Nov. 10 they eloped to Agua Caliente.

But their courtship apparently had been too swift and repentance was disclosed before the honeymoon was well under way. From Yuma, Ariz. three days after the wedding, the girl wrote her father, Samuel Armstrong:

"Well, we've tried it, but it's absolutely hopeless. I think Harry is tired of being a married man by now, too."

Girl Kin of Ex-Senator.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Ruth Armstrong Steinmetz, bride slain in New York, was the granddaughter of former United States Senator Samuel Henry Piles of Washington and former minister to Colombia, it was revealed tonight. Ex-Senator Piles is now a resident of Beverly Hills. The revelation was made by Sam Armstrong, a Hollywood booking agent and father of the slain girl, after he was informed of his daughter's death.

"Years ago when I went into vaudeville," he said, "I dropped the name of the senator, my father. However, I see him frequently and there is no trouble between us. The tragic duty of breaking the news to him fell to me."

CAST ASIDE ALL TREATIES, ARAKI ADVISES JAPAN

Ex-War Chief Says 'Worm Has Turned.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 26.—For the first time since he became a full general and supreme war counsillor, Gen. Sadao Araki, former minister of war, tonight broadcast to the nation a typical speech in which he denounced international treaties in general and naval pacts binding Japan in particular.

GEN. SADAO ARAKI

By inference, he urged the abrogation by Japan not only of the Washington pact but of all treaties, inasmuch, he declared, as they were forced on Japan.

Quotes "The Worm Turns."

Quoting the Japanese version of the proverb, "The worm turns," he told the nation that a "one inch worm has a half inch soul." This meant that although Japan is small, it has a soul and if it is oppressed it will fight, staking its life.

He recalled that at the termination of the Sino-Japanese war Japan could not obtain the fruits of victory because of the "advice" of Russia, Great Britain, and France. Because it was exhausted then it had to wait ten years to fight Russia to avenge itself, he said.

"Because at the time of the Washington pact Japan was poor and weak, her armaments were subjected to unfair treatment, and Japan had to accede to the 5-5-3 battleship ratio," Gen. Araki declared.

Explosion Is Threatened.

"Unless there is a change there is likely to be an explosion," he added.

Denouncing treaties, he pointed out that with the advance of modern civilization world-wide unrest is increasing. He declared that the more international conferences are held the greater is the turmoil.

There must be a flaw, the general said, declaring this is due to the fact that all nations are selfish and think only of their own welfare. Japan is a country of the sea and must live on the sea, and to place its naval ratio at 60 per cent is to plunge the country into darkness, Gen. Araki contended. He warned that the world must give due consideration to this fact.

Western nations, he said, are too indifferent to the orient and should remember that Japan is the only peace guarantee in the far east.

JAPAN IS WORRIED

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Japanese, it appeared today, are still determined to wreck the Pacific naval arrangement as represented by the Washington and London treaties, but they fear to do it in such a way as to drive the United States and Great Britain into each other's arms.

In pursuance of this policy, Japanese Ambassador to London Tsuneo Matsudaira requested a meeting with Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, this morning, and in that meeting displayed the utmost anxiety to keep the conversations alive.

The talk fell into two categories. First, what is to be done before the denunciation of the Washington treaty by Japan? Second, what is to be done afterwards?

On the first, Matsudaira told Davis that Japan has not yet finished her observation on the British compromise suggestions. He indicated that Japan might have something to say which might make accommodation easier. Concerning the denunciation of the treaty, Matsudaira attempted to create the impression that it was merely a formal move in the game and preliminary to a new agreement which would be mutually satisfactory.

At no time, however, did he indicate that Japan had any idea of weakening on her demand for naval equality. At the same time the impression is growing here that an agreement still is possible, and that Japan might accept some ratio lower than that of the United States and Britain if it got compensation, such as no fortification of naval bases in the Pacific.

THOUSANDS GET FIRST FREE MEAT IN NEW IRISH RELIEF SCHEME

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, Nov. 26.—This was free meat day in the Irish Free State. Thousands of unemployed and destitute received the first allowance of free beef under the government's latest social enactment. Meat markets supplied meat to persons presenting government vouchers.

The scheme, it is estimated, will cost the taxpayers about $2,500,000 annually, while the price of meat to ordinary consumers has been increased 4 cents a pound. The butchers state that the 10 cents a pound allowed by the government is insufficient to cover the cost of the free meat, hence they must increase the price to the buying public.

Dublin butchers sent a deputation to the department of agriculture requesting the free meat price be increased to 12 cents. Many unemployed families in the free state are receiving a cash unemployment grant and free milk with the addition of free meat.

WARNING TO FRANCE

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 26.—A warning that France soon may be forced to jump into a naval race, thus increasing the complexity of the problem with which the British, Japanese and Americans are already grappling, was delivered today by Deputy Jacques Stern in his report to the chamber on the naval budget. The deputy expressed the opinion a naval race seemed inevitable.

"If Japan denounces the naval treaty with the 5-5-3 ratio, France must take immediate steps to protect her oriental possessions," Stern said.

This is interpreted as meaning that France would have to start intensive building.

Owing to the delay in the French naval program, Stern said it would be necessary soon to ask for an exceptional appropriation of $30,000,000 for new ships. The total proposed appropriation was 2,967,000,000 francs [$195,800,000], which was 24,000,000 francs more than last year.

TAKAHASHI AT 80 BECOMES JAPAN'S FINANCE MINISTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 27 [Tuesday].—Former Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi, 80 years old, agreed today to emerge from retirement and accept the portfolio of minister of finance which was vacated by yesterday's sudden resignation of Minister of Finance Sonenobu Fujii. Takahashi's acceptance averted a cabinet crisis.

Fujii's resignation came as a surprise to Premier Admiral Keisuki Okada because the minister had attended a cabinet meeting Friday and expressed no intention of quitting.

HITLER TO DEAL WITH FRANCE ON SAAR PLEBISCITE

Plans to Send Personal Envoy to Paris.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Diplomatic circles today understood that Chancellor Adolf Hitler's personal envoy extraordinary, Joachim von Ribbentrop, who has been in London, will proceed to Paris to negotiate directly with the French over the Saar plebiscite and the details of what will happen to the basin immediately after the elections on Jan. 13.

The Germans, as well as the English, are anxious that the details of the procedure be worked out clearly beforehand to reduce the danger of friction. They doubt the ability of the league of nations council to formulate the procedure.

Germans Are Elated.

German diplomats are elated over the response given by French war veterans to the publication of an interview which their leader, Jean Goy, had with Chancellor Hitler. They express the hope the interview will facilitate direct Franco-German negotiations. There even has been talk that Rudolf Hess, the Nazi party's deputy leader, will go to Paris to join Von Ribbentrop.

Catholic Bishop Nicholas Bares of Berlin is in Rome to coöperate in the official interpretation of the German-Vatican concordat, but also to lend a helping hand preparatory to negotiations in the Saar problem.

Jozef Lipski, Polish ambassador to Berlin, spent the week in Dresden with Minister of War Gen. Werner von Blomberg. The French diplomats interpret this as a sign of a further rapprochement between Poland and Germany.

France Withdraws from Fight.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Nov. 26.—(AP)—France, it was stated tonight in informed quarters, has virtually withdrawn from the Saar plebiscite fight, making a Nazi victory probable in January.

Foreign Minister Pierre Laval and Chancellor Hitler, said an unconfirmed report, have reached an understanding under which France agrees not to press the anti-Nazi cause and to talk no more about sending the French army into the Saar.

In return, according to this report, the Nazis have agreed to negotiate a financial settlement for the Saar mines as soon as possible. Laval, it was said, has indicated both to Berlin authorities and to anti-Nazis in the Saar that he is unwilling to continue the battle in favor of a status quo, which would leave the Saar under league of nations' jurisdiction. The fight for this was waged by his predecessor, the late Louis Barthou.

Challenges Deputy to Duel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The recent interview which Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany gave to Jean Goy, deputy in the chamber and leader of the nationalist war veterans, is expected to result in a duel tomorrow morning between Goy, and Deputy Henri Franklin Bouillon, ardent nationalist orator. Hitler in the interview expressed a desire to reach a pacific understanding with France.

Following the publication of the interview, Goy was given a tongue lashing in the chamber of deputies by the fiery Bouillon. He accused Goy of being a traitor who had sold out to the enemy.

The leader of the war veterans challenged Bouillon to fight. Both men tonight appointed seconds. Goy's seconds are the blind Deputy Georges Scapini and former Deputy Jean Desbons. Bouillon's seconds are Deputies Jean Ybarnegaray and Pierre Cathala.

GERMAN STUDENTS GIVE UP ANCIENT SEAL OF CZECH UNIVERSITY

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The students of the German university today relinquished the ancient university insignia of a scepter, seal, and chain of office to the ministry of culture for delivery to the Czech university.

The two universities were founded as one in 1348 but were divided in 1920, the German section keeping the ancient symbols of authority. The government ordered the symbols turned over to the Czech university. As a result Saturday the students of the two groups clashed and several were injured.

Today 6,000 Czech students gathered in a protest meeting. Three communist students who attempted to arouse the gatherings to a new demonstration were ejected by the police. The German university was closed because no one appeared there this morning and the police locked the doors.

Vienna Meeting Routed

VIENNA, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Anti-Czechoslovak demonstrations, which were, however, speedily broken up by the police, took place in Vienna university and in front of a Czech owned newspaper today. The demonstrations were a reaction to anti-German student disorders in Prague. An attempt to demonstrate before the Czech legation was prevented by the police.

POLAND WARY OF JOINING FRENCH TIE WITH RUSSIA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Nov. 26.—The long awaited French reply to Poland's objections to an eastern pact arrived at the Polish foreign office today. Foreign Minister Josef Beck reported the note will not be published nor commented on until Marshal Josef Pilsudski, dictator, sees it.

The Poles are perturbed by the alleged indiscretions of the French press concerning the Poles' note to France, which Warsaw requested to be kept confidential. Among the objections made by Poland to an eastern pact was Marshal Pilsudski's determination not to guarantee either Czechoslovak or Lithuanian frontiers.

Czechs Lengthen Service.

The Czechs' answer to Poland's attitude is contained in today's order to their cabinet prolonging the term of military service from fourteen to twenty-four months.

Poland's chief objection to participating in a Franco-Russian pact is the prospect of being compelled to permit Russian forces to pass their territory in order to aid France. Marshal Pilsudski's mouthpiece, the official newspaper Gazeta Polska, announced the marshal is unwilling to join any pact directed against Poland's new friend, Germany.

Refuse to Be Bluffed.

French Deputy Leon Archimbaud's reference to the military agreement between Moscow and Paris is viewed here as another French attempt to bluff Poland into joining an anti-German combination. Polish statesmen say any Franco-Russian alliance would prove ineffective without Poland.

Today they say that Poland can best help peace by maintaining good relations with both France and Germany and normal relations with Russia, the military strength of which, according to the Polish general staf, is much overrated abroad.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

ITALY REBUFFS JUGO-SLAV AND FRENCH DEMAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 26.—For the second time in three days Italy added fuel to the seething central European passions by refusing today France's extradition request for Dr. Ante Pavelich and Egon Kvaternik, called the brains of the assassination plot which cost the lives of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou at Marseilles.

DR. ANTE PAVELICH.

The first rebuff was to Jugo-Slavia two days ago with Premier Mussolini's demand that the league of nations immediately give Hungary a chance to answer Jugo-Slavia's charges of involvement in the assassinations.

Ask Benes to Step Out.

As a sequel, at Geneva today, Hungary demanded that Dr. Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, step aside as president of the league council when the charges are heard. Czechoslovakia is an ally of Jugo-Slavia along with Rumania in the little entente and France is patron of the alliance. The Jugo-Slavs charge that Hungary harbored the Croat Ustachi ring of assassins in a camp near the Jugo-Slav border, and that the Marseilles assassination plot was hatched on Hungarian soil.

It is expected that the league tomorrow will receive Jugo-Slavia's detailed accusations of Hungary. Hungary calls the memorandum an attempt to disturb international peace and points out the close connection of Dr. Benes with Jugo-Slavia in demanding that he resign. The league secretariat stated Dr. Benes will voluntarily step aside.

Deny Troop Movement.

Revealing another rumor of unrest, Austria's ministry of defense in Vienna today denied that Austria has moved troops to the Jugo-Slav border. Such reports abroad, the ministry declared, are wilful lies intended to stir European passions.

The Italian refusal to give up Pavelich and Kvaternik was expected on the assumption that Italy would not release them for a political trial in another country—a trial which might allude to Italy's allowing them refuge. Several other plotters held in France have accused the pair as "master minds" of the plot. Now, evidence produced against the men in French courts must be used as the basis for future action against Pavelich and Kvaternik in Italy.

Recalls French Refusal.

The Court of Appeals, which made today's decision, based the refusal on the Franco-Italian treaty of 1870 which does not allow the extradition of political prisoners. It is recalled that France, citing the same treaty, has refused extradition of Italian political fugitives in 42 cases.

Political circles saw Jugo-Slavia's accusation of Hungary and the pressure on France to demand the extraditions as an attempt to introduce a wedge into current Italo-French negotiations for new friendship. However, these negotiations will not be halted, a spokesman said.

Insists on Punishment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, had interviews at Buckingham palace tonight with Prince Paul, chief regent of Jugo-Slavia, who is in London to attend the wedding next Thursday of the duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece.

It is understood that Belgrade's complaint to the league of nations against Hungary as a result of the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia was discussed, and that Prince Paul, disturbed by the trend of events, is bitterly insistent on punishment for those responsible for the death of the monarch.

PRETTY HANDS GET BRIDE INTO SAD DIFFICULTY

Mrs. Freda Smith is 24 years old, a bride of one month, lives at 4240 Clarendon avenue, works in a north side beauty shop, and has lovely hands. Last Friday her employer received a telephone call from a man who said he was an advertiser who wished to have Mrs. Smith's hands photographed for commercial purposes. Mrs. Smith arranged to meet the man in a loop store Saturday morning. The stranger took her to his "office" at 4013 Milwaukee avenue. There he explained that a photographer down the street would make the camera study, and in order not to mar it she must leave her wedding and engagement rings with him in the safe. Mrs. Smith did so. But she found the photographer had never heard of her, and on returning to the "office" found it vacant. The Irving Park police were asked yesterday to assist her.

FOUR MIDLOTHIAN SCHOOLS FACE CLOSING DEC. 15

Teachers Unpaid; No Funds Available.

The four elementary schools in Midlothian, district 143, enrolling 919 pupils, will close Dec. 15 for lack of funds unless outside aid is provided before that time, Roland K. Cumming, president of the district school board, declared yesterday.

"For nearly two years we have paid our 22 teachers with tax warrants, and this year we could not even issue warrants for them," Cumming said. "The only money available to the district is from the state distributive fund, and this is inadequate even to pay salaries.

Tax Payments Far Behind.

"The district's total assessed valuation is $2,223,583, but we have been able to collect only 39 per cent of the 1932 tax levy and 52 per cent of the 1931 levy. We have $230,895 outstanding in bonds, teachers' orders and tax warrants. Two-fifths of the families in our district are on relief.

District 143 includes the communities of Midlothian, Robbins, Posen, and Crestwood. Otto F. Aken, Cook county superintendent of schools, said yesterday that he is continuing his efforts to get federal or state aid for 44 distressed districts an an effort to prevent further closings. Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, last week told Aken the problem must be cared for by the state.

Two village schools at Steger closed Nov. 1, and five other districts, including Midlothian, are expected to close next month.

44 Districts Need Aid.

Aken yesterday released the names of 44 Cook county rural and village school districts which, he said, will not be able to carry on classes in 1935 unless they obtain aid. The districts, which enroll 14,492 pupils and employ 409 teachers, are:

Lakeside, No. 11; Hillside, No. 16; Grove North Northfield, No. 27; Northbrook, No. 28; Sunset Ridge, No. 29; Maple, No. 30; Bartlett, No. 49; River View, No. 65; Sharp Corner, No 68; Niles Center, No. 68½; Morton Grove, No. 70; Niles, No. 71; James Giles, No. 80; Schiller Park, No. 81; Franklin Park, No. 84; Rhodes, No. 84½; Elmwood Park, No. 85; River Grove, No. 85½; Union Ridge, No. 86; Brookfield, No. 95; Western Springs, No. 101; Lyons, No. 103; Summit-Argo, No. 104; Hodgkins, No. 105; Pleasant Dale, No. 107; Spring Forest, No. 108; Justice Park, No. 109; Derby, No. 114; Cleveland, No. 115; Maple Lake, No. 116; Palos Park, No. 118; Weir, No. 119; McCord, No. 120; Town Line, No. 129; Orland Park, No. 135; Midlothian-Robbins, No. 143; Stehl, No. 144; Tinley Park, No. 146; West Harvey, No. 147; Hazel Crest, No. 152½; Homewood, No. 153; Calumet City, No. 156; Steger, No. 194 [now closed], and Palatine Township High school, No. 211.

The present teachers' salary account for these districts is $53,261 a month.

BREAK THROUGH WALL; LOOT STORE.

Uses Sword on It

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Mozellecita Stapp's real reason for slashing the portrait painted of her by José Plaza came out today. It was because it made her look as if she had a beard.

"It was horrible," Mozellecita complained in Municipal court. "I don't have a beard. Any one can see that."

The portrait was painted in June 1933, in the studio of Prescott Van Wyck. Mozellecita "ran it through" with a Spanish sword the minute Plaza completed it and Plaza is suing her for $1,000.

Mozellecita, Spanish girl who has played in several Broadway shows and now is a model, said she did not commission Plaza to paint her and that, in sitting for him, she was only 'doing him a favor, giving him a little practice."

MANILA SHAKEN 36 MINUTES BY SEVERE QUAKE

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 26.—(AP)—The Manila area, recently wracked by a typhoon and floods which cost more than a hundred lives, was shaken for 36 minutes tonight by the most severe earthquake in 25 years which inflicted minor damage and sent the populace into panic. No casualties were reported.

Some bamboo dwellings in the slum districts were shaken down, and cornices and windows of downtown buildings were cracked or shattered. Telephone and power lines also suffered.

The earth shock started at 8:09 p. m. Crowds in the city's theaters rushed to the streets, where they were joined by thousands of others, amid great excitement. Two women received hospital treatment for hysteria. The town of San Miguel, in Bulacan province north of here, also was shaken. The center of the seismic disturbance appeared to be 35 miles southwest of Manila.

Community Fund Pledges Pass $2,530,000 Mark

Less than half a million dollars remains to be raised in the $3,000,000 Community fund, it was revealed yesterday when the total to date passed the $2,530,000 mark. Most of the pledges are now being received through the trades and industries division, headed by Clarence B. Randall. Eight trade groups have already met their quotas and nine others are over the 80 per cent mark. The 1934 Community fund will aid 130 private charities in Chicago.

A. R. SEYFERLICH MUCH IMPROVED AFTER OPERATION

Doctors Drain Infected Area; Hopes Rise.

Fire Commissioner Arthur R. Seyferlich, critically ill at the Henrotin hospital with a gangrenous infection of his right foot, was operated on yesterday. Attending physicians reported an immediate improvement in their patient's condition, cheering members of the commissioner's family, who feared he might not recover because of his refusal to submit to amputation of the leg.

The operation was performed by Dr. Stanton K. Livingston, chief of the orthopedic service of the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. It was determined yesterday afternoon to make an incision and drain the infected foot after Dr. Livingston conferred with Dr. Eugene W. Torrey, head of the metabolic service of the Hines hospital.

Shows Marked Gain.

Dr. Livingston, a specialist on gangrenous infections, recently called into the case, performed the operation at 5 o'clock. An examination of the patient was then made and the following statement issued:

"Blood and urine examinations show a marked improvement since Saturday. Present indications are that there is no further apprehension regarding definite control of the diabetic condition. The acidosis which has made the chief stuporous at intervals already is abating. Apparently the danger of a diabetic coma is nil. Further improvement in his condition is anticipated."

A severe diabetic condition from which Seyferlich suffered for many years brought on the infection which was complicated by hardening of the arteries and the commissioner's age. He is 63 years old. Physicians first asserted that only amputation of the infected leg could save him, but Seyferlich refused. Dr. Livingston was then called in.

Family Gets Much Advice.

Seyferlich's family has received numerous letters offering advice. Many suggested use of the "Pavaex" treatment, perfected by Dr. Louis Hermann, which calls for special apparatus to stimulate blood flow through the infected part. Dr. Livingston said this method would be resorted to only if medical treatment failed.

Dr. Hermann's Pavaex treatment is based on the stimulation of blood flow through the infected leg by means of alternating the air pressure around the limb. The infected member is placed in a glass jar and sealed. A partial vacuum is then created in the jar and this in turn is reduced to normal, and pressure is increased in the jar. This pressure treatment for circulation was discovered more than 30 years ago but was practiced by means of utilizing rubber pads. Medical science during the last few years has used serums in many cases for producing the same effect.

CHARGE JAPS TRY TO MAKE CHINESE OPIUM ADDICTS

Geneva, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Charges that Japan, by accumulating vast stocks of opium in Manchukuo, sought to make drug addicts out of the Chinese population and thus "weaken their morale" were revealed today in confidential League of Nations records published for the first time.

It was revealed also that Japan, which resigned from the League of Nations, has threatened to withdraw from the League's advisory committee on opium traffic because of the charges.

A formal protest against the insinuations, allegedly made by Wellington Koo of China, was submitted by Masayuki Yokoyama, the Japanese consul general in Geneva. He declared the insinuations were unjustified.

"No one intends to poison Chinese people," he said.

THOMAS ATTACKS PLAN 'TO BORROW BACK PROSPERITY'

Norman Thomas, Socialist nominee for President in 1932, declared in Chicago last night that he could see no reason to believe the United States ever would be able to pay off its public debt 100 cents on the dollar. He advocated the abolition of capitalism.

"There is no hope for genuine prosperity under the present capitalistic system, which has been retained by the New Deal," said Mr. Thomas. "The administration is simply trying to borrow back to prosperity."

The Socialist leader and Governor-elect Philip LaFollette spoke at a forum meeting in the Sinai temple, 47th street and South Parkway. The subject for discussion was: "Thoughts on the Passing Age, or Minds on the March."

Mr. LaFollette, in answer to a question from the floor, said that President Roosevelt had "at least given us a breathing spell," and added that if the President solves the problems before him he will be deserving of full support.

MYSTERY VOICES IN HOME LAID TO A VENTRILOQUIST

SARAGOSSA, Spain, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The mystery of strange voices in the vacant house on Gascon de Gotor street was exposed tonight as a ventriloquist's advertisement.

Prof. Ricardo Royo Villanova said the ventriloquist had taken refuge in his home, fearing an aroused populace. He said the ventriloquist had been hired by a store near the house to boost business.

The noises began several days ago and the people were in turn amused, worried, and indignant. The voices appeared to come from a chimney and answered all sorts of questions. Dr. Federico Peco, noted psychiatrist, was seriously injured and two companions were slightly hurt when his automobile collided with a truck on his way here to make an investigation.

Paris Police Press "Purity" Raids; 22 Suspects Seized

PARIS, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The police "purification" of the city continued tonight with renewed raids upon bars, cafés, and dance halls. Twenty-two suspects were seized, bringing the total of arrests to 438 in three nights. Many of them are foreigners, mostly held for infraction of expulsion orders.

Her Second Offense

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Briggitte Helm, the blonde movie star, who adopted stern passivity as her film speciality, had a hard time keeping her composure in a Berlin court today when she was sentenced to two months in prison for speeding and knocking down a woman with her automobile. The woman's leg was fractured. An appeal court ruled that since this is Miss Helm's second offense she must be punished by going to prison.

STUDENT EDITOR, FIVE AIDS RESIGN OVER HUEY LONG

Baton Rogue, La., Nov. 26.—(AP)—The editor and five staf members of the Reveille, Louisiana State university student newspaper, resigned today because, they said, the university forbade them to print anything objectionable to Senator Huey P. Long.

"Censorship" of the Reveille has been a torrid subject since Long stopped the presses two weeks ago, posted guards at the printshop, and had deleted a student's letter which criticised him for naming Abe Mickal L. S. U. football star, a "state senator."

Two weeks ago Long had Gov. O. K Allen appoint him to the board of university supervisors.

Jesse H. Cutrer, student editor and business manager of the publication, said the students acted after they were told they "would have to accept the supervision or resign."

A sign, "Killed by suppression," was hung on the paper's printshop door.

WIDOW AND SON TO GET $500,000 ESTATE OF AUGUST U. PABST

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The will of August Uihlein Pabst, naval lieutenant, who was killed Nov. 10 in an airplane crash near the Pal-waukee flying field, northwest of Chicago, was filed in the County court today. It disposes of an estate estimated at $500,000.

Under the will Mrs. Eugenie Bournique Pabst, widow of the officer, is to receive an income of $20,000 a year from a trust fund. It is provided that when the infant son of the couple reaches the age of 25, the trust fund shall be split and that, while Mrs. Pabst continues to draw the annual $20,000 income the rest shall go to the child.

A naval board of investigation has reported its finding that Lieut. Pabst, a son of Fred Pabst, wealthy brewer, died in line of duty, but that the exact cause of the airplane accident could not be determined.

U. S. IS BELIEVED READY TO DROP 2D INSULL TRIAL

Green Confers in Capital; Sam Jr. Back on Job.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green left for Washington yesterday afternoon to confer today with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings regarding the disposition of the second federal indictment against Samuel Insull, his son, Samuel Jr., and several others of the group of defendants who were acquitted last Saturday by a jury in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's courtroom. The Washington conference was arranged at Mr. Green's request.

It is generally accepted in the federal courthouse circles here that the government is through with the Insulls and their associates. A motion to quash the second indictment is pending before Judge Wilkerson and the district attorney may not oppose this. The mail fraud case which ended in a victory for the Insulls was considered the strongest case which the government had against this group. Mr. Green so stated in the course of the recent trial.

Young Insull Back at Work.

Samuel Insull Jr. returned to his work yesterday as assistant to the president of the Commonwealth Edison company, and both he and his father took the attitude that the next move was up to the prosecution, that all they could do was to wait for further developments.

It was reported that the elder Insull was returning to La Salle street in some effort to rebuild his fortunes, but he said that he had made no plans for the future and could make none until all the cases are disposed of.

"I am ready to face the other trials that are pending," he said. "I have been vindicated in the mail fraud case and am confident that I will be vindicated in the others."

Looks to Orient Trip.

He said recently that if he ever got any money again and got through with these cases he would like to go to Japan and China. He is intensely interested in the progress of events there, particularly in studying the "war maps" of Siberia and Manchuria.

The pending indictment in the federal courts charges transfer of assets in contemplation of bankruptcy. He and ten others are named in the charges. It was understood at the time this indictment was drawn up that it was given this form in the hope that the Greek courts would recognize this as an extraditable offense. The Greek judges did not consider it in this light and Insull was later returned from Turkey under immigration laws.

Expect Green to Resign.

It is expected in the federal courthouse that Mr. Green will resign his position soon and enter the private practice of law. Leslie E. Salter, special assistant to the United States attorney general who acted as a prosecutor in the Insull trial, also is said to be planning eventually to enter private practice either in Chicago, Washington, or Oklahoma City. Mr. Salter said last night that he had several cases to complete for the government before he leaves the federal service.

The trial of Martin J. Insull, on charges that he embezzled $344,000 from Middle West Utilities company will begin next Monday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court. The case had been set for yesterday but the attorneys were not ready for it, having expected a longer federal trial. Many of the exhibits in use in the federal trial are required by this case and have been turned over to Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hora and Earle C. Hurley. Defense attorneys are John E. Northup and E. M. Aaron.

SEIZE EVANSTON BURGLAR; ALSO AN INTENDED ONE

Theodore Hunt, 30 years old, 2437 Peterson avenue, was arrested last night as he was looting a storeroom in the basement of a flat building at 800 Michigan avenue, Evanston. Later the Evanston police went to his home and discovered property valued at $2,000 which Hunt was said to have admitted stealing. Radios and jewelry formed the bulk of the loot.

A second man seized by the Evanston police at Chicago avenue and Main street admitted that, while he hadn't committed any burglary, he was on his way to one. He is William A. Wright, colored, 25 years old, 2842 South State street. The police found him carrying burglar's tools in a large suitcase. The place he had picked to break into was a furrier's shop, Wright said.

LAY DEATHS OF 3 MYSTERY GIRLS TO STARVATION

Link Double Slaying Case to Child Victims.

night at an Altoona hotel, where they registered under the name of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gardner of Philadelphia. While at the hotel the woman tried to sell a coat, saying she and her husband were without funds and were hiking to Philadelphia.

The man, police learned, went into a local jewelry store and tried to pawn a pair of gold rimmed glasses for a dollar. He said at the time that he needed money very badly.

A maze of fresh clews in the strange case came to light in various parts of the country, but most of them lacked confirmation while others were dissipated by facts almost as soon as they appeared.

Another Driver Tells Story

Another bus driver, Earl Sylvester, told Boston police he believed the woman and three children were passengers on his bus from Boston to New York on Wednesday. His description of the four tallied with that of the dead woman and girls.

Sylvester said the reason he felt so sure about his identification was because he had taken particular notice of the quartet after the oldest girl had become ill on the trip. He recalled that the woman with them was about 30 years old.

The woman whose body was found was believed to be between 25 and 30 years old, too young to be the children's mother, which was another point which baffled police.

In Philadelphia a woman told police she recognized the dead girls through pictures in the paper, "I knew at once they were the same ones I saw in the restaurant with the man and woman. They ordered one full meal to be divided among the five.

"I felt so sorry for them I invited one of the girls to my table and bought her something to eat. She told me they were from California and that she was in the third grade in a school there. The man and woman said they were from California and were looking for work."

Her story that the victims had been in Philadelphia was borne out by the discovery of two Philadelphia theater ticket stubs in the clothing of the dead couple found at Duncansville.

In Jamaica, N. Y., the proprietress of a boarding house, Mrs. Ella Benn, reported to police that pictures of the girls resembled three children who had formerly lived at her place.

FIRST BUS STRIKE MURDER TRIAL TO BEGIN IN JANUARY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frances Streich, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Robert Cage and Edward Smith, murder, sentenced to 99 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Hugo Friend.

Campbell Marvin, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

William Taber and Joseph Kehoe, officials of the street car men's union, will go on trial in Criminal court in January for the murder of James Kelly, bus dispatcher, Judge John C. Lewe indicated yesterday. Kelly was slain during the violence that marked the early days of the strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company.

There are 26 defendants, in all, in two murder cases—those of Kelly and of Mrs. Mary Kennard, of the Hyde Park hotel, who died shortly after a ball bearing was hurled through the window of a bus in which she was a passenger.

The case was continued yesterday because of the illness of Defense Attorney Michael Ahern. Judge Lewe said he would hear preliminary motions and set a trial date Dec. 19.

PLOT WARANTS ARE ISSUED FOR SWINDLE GANG

Police Continue Search for Lindquist.

Warants were issued yesterday charging Joseph Baiata, Gustav Lindquist, Hayden Sanders, W. W. Ehlers, and Abraham Karatz with conspiracy to embezzle $25,000 from the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill.

Baiata, Ehlers, and Karatz also are charged with a $54,000 fraud against the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard. It was through their arrest last week that the police and state's attorney's office learned of the plot to loot the treasury of the insurance company and also to acquire control of a bank in Indianapolis for the same purpose.

Total Bail Fixed at $95,000.

Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden, who issued the warants yesterday, fixed the bail of Baiata and Sanders at $25,000 each, and for the three other defendants at $15,000 each. Lindquist, who was formerly insurance commissioner of Minnesota, is being sought by the police. All the others are in custody.

He was installed as president of the insurance company by Baiata, an ex-convict, who was the leader in the plot, according to investigators. Sanders was made the company treasurer. Both he and Lindquist were ousted by the directors last Friday. Karatz is a former Minnesota attorney. Ehlers is a broker.

Seeks Grand Jury Hearing.

Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson, who took out the warants, said he would endeavor to get a hearing today before the grand jury. He said that Dave [Long Count] Barry, fight referee, who was arrested in connection with the bank fraud, and Otto Van Derck, the bank clerk whose confession led to exposure of the scheme, were not involved in the plot against the insurance company.

Baiata, a business partner of Barry, issued checks against the Dave Barry, Inc., account in the Amalgamated bank, and Van Derck allowed overdrafts in the amount of $54,000, part of which was used as a first payment for the controling interest in the insurance company, Mr. Thompson said. After Baiata placed Lindquist and Sanders in charge of the company they issued a check for $25,000 which, however, they were unable to cash and this transaction is the basis of the charge made in the warants, according to the prosecutor.

BRING IN GANGSTERS 'MUSSED UP,' POLICE HEAD TELLS OFFICERS

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Police Commissioner Valentine advised forty detectives at the lineup at headquarters today to bring in known gangsters, racketeers and bums "mussed up." He declared that the only way to handle these parasites is to make them afraid, and that once they are afraid, they will leave town.

"I don't want them coming in here looking like they had just left a barber's chair," said the commissioner.

His talk was occasioned by the well groomed appearance and care free demeanor of Harry Strauss, 25 years old, of Brooklyn, a prisoner accused of murder. Strauss looked as though he had just passed through the hands of a valet. The more the commissioner looked at him the madder he got. Strauss has been arrested eighteen times in the last seven years and has never been convicted.

The commissioner's talk was delivered in the presence of the November grand jury of New York county. He heard Strauss nonchalantly deny that he knew anything about the crime with which he is accused.

BROTHERS PUT ON PROBATION.

Henry Skillin, 28 years old, and his brother James, 23, both of 3220 Lowe avenue, were placed on probation yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court after they admitted having taken $4 from Julius Siegal, 4144 Roosevelt road, a taxi driver.

WEEK'S HOLIDAY EVENTS INCLUDE A "TURKEY FLY"

The "turkey fly," a pioneer Thanksgiving sport in which the contestants win their turkeys by catching them, will be revived at noon today in the arena of the Chicago Riding club, Ontario street and McClurg court. Twenty-five turkeys will be released, according to John P. Harding, restaurateur, who plans to make the turkey fly an annual event.

Stevens hotel officials said yesterday that preparations are being made to serve more than 4,000 guests on Thanksgiving day. Steward John Stadler has ordered 7,500 pounds of turkey, 2,500 pounds of sweet potatoes, and 500 pounds of cranberries.

Among the Thanksgiving parties scheduled is the annual ball of Zeta Sigma Psi sorority to be held tomorrow night in the Stevens hotel. The proceeds from the party, which is to be attended by 1,500 persons, will go to several charities.

LADY HODGE SUES TO DIVORCE RICH 75 YR. OLD MATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The divorce petition of Lady Vera Hodge, the former countess of Cathcart, against Sir Rowland Hodge, 75 year old millionaire shipowner, will be heard in Divorce court before Justice Sir Boyd Merriman and a special jury tomorrow. It is expected Sir Rowland will contest the action.

Lady Vera was the subject of an international furor in 1926 when the United States immigration department refused her admission "because she admitted the commission of a crime involving moral turpitude—adultery." The countess claimed she was being detained at Ellis Island because she was divorced by the earl of Cathcart, who named the earl of Craven as co-respondent. She appealed to the secretary of labor and other high officials.

Wage Bitter Fight.

Various women's organizations in the United States took up the battle and argued that since the earl of Craven and his wife were already in the country, the countess should be admitted also. The department of labor granted a temporary entrance permit. The countess appeared in her own play, "Ashes of Love," in Washington. It was a dismal failure and she returned to London, where the piece was received with equal disfavor.

Lady Vera was the daughter of the late John Fraser of Cape Town. Her first husband was Capt. De Grey Warter, who died, and her second the fifth earl of Cathcart, who divorced her Feb. 24, 1922. She married Sir Rowland Hodge on Sept. 30, 1930. When the earl of Cathcart died he left his former wife an annuity of $2,500.

Fairbanks Case up Tomorrow.

The divorce suit brought by Lord Ashley against his wife, formerly Sylvia Hawkes, London chorus girl, which cited Douglas Fairbanks Sr. as co-respondent, comes up for hearing on Wednesday in the divorce division of the high court.

As the case is now undefended, only formal evidence will be offered. It is understood that heavy damages will be claimed, but the amount will not be revealed until the case opens.

GETS 1 TO 10 YEARS IN PRISON FOR A CONFIDENCE GAME

Campbell Marvin, 47 years old, convicted of operating a confidence game, was denied a new trial and sentenced to 1 to 10 years in prison yesterday by Judge Walter P. Steffen in a Criminal court scene which had faint overtones of pigskin days.

Marvin declared he had been a cheer leader at the University of Chicago in 1912, four years after Judge Steffen closed his career there as all-American quarter back.

Marvin was accused of collecting $300 cash bonds from each of ten men who answered an advertisment he ran for an assistant restaurant manager. At his direction they all crowded into a small restaurant at 193 North La Salle street, where Marvin was unknown. The restaurant management called police, who arrested him.

MRS. VANDERBILT PLANS FOR REST IN WASHINGTON

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt was to leave for Washington today to rest for a few days with friends after the ordeal of the seven-week's trial, which resulted in limiting her custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, to two days a week.

The child is at the home of her paternal aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who has custody of her five days a week, at Roslyn, Long Island.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, the child's mother, explained that she did not attempt to claim her right to have Gloria with her over the week end for fear of placing her appeal in jeopardy by seeming to accept Justice Carew's ruling. The first move in that appeal will be made on Friday.

Three Polls Officials Go to Trial on Fraud Charge

Three officials of the 41st precinct, 24th ward, went on trial yesterday before Judge Walter J. LaBuy in the Criminal court on charges of conspiracy to make false election returns. They are William Kohen, Republican election judge; Joseph Brownstein, Democratic precinct caption, and Maurice Gruffman, Republican precinct captain. According to Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown the three are accused of having "weighed" instead of counted ballots in the general election of Nov. 8, 1932.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

TWO HELD GUILTY OF BADGER PLOT; HALT SENTENCE

'Extortion' Is Not 'Fraud,' Defense Argues.

Lloyd Coates and Edward Gladstone, alias Grady, Cincinnati ex-convicts, were found guilty yesterday of conspiracy to impersonate a government officer by Federal Judge William H. Holly. The case was tried without a jury. Coates' wife, Mary, 25 years old, a Cincinnati manicurist, was acquitted of the conspiracy which the government charged was a version of the "old badger game." Charles P. Morton, 65 years old, wealthy Cincinnati shoe manufacturer, was the intended victim of the conspiracy.

A legal technicality was raised in behalf of Coates and Grady, which delayed the pronouncement of sentence against them and which, their attorneys claimed, should permit them to go free. According to the evidence, the judge said, the two men attempted to extort $100,000 from Morton after Grady, at Coates' request, impersonated a federal officer. The statute under which they were indicted, however, states that the impersonation is a crime only when there is an intent to defraud.

Hearing Set for Friday.

Judge Holly continued the hearing to Friday, when Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher said that he would present precedents to show that extortion and fraud are synonymous terms in cases such as this.

The prosecutor admitted after court that if Judge Holly holds with Attorney Leo Klein, representing the defendants, that attempted extortion does not come within the scope of the statute on the element of legal fraud, the men will be freed. They cannot be indicted again, as a second trial would place them in double jeopardy.

Testimony was given at previous court sessions that Mrs. Coates and Morton, who is married, arrived in Chicago on the same train from Cincinnati on Aug. 26. They arranged the trip, she said, after she gave him a manicure in the Gibson hotel in Cincinnati.

Stories of the Principals.

She came to Morton's room in the Congress hotel, Mrs. Coates testified, and at his request put on the flame colored pajamas. Morton also was in pajamas. Mrs. Coates had two drinks and was pouring a third when her husband and Grady burst in. She fled into the bathroom and her husband dragged her out, saying: "I've caught you at last."

According to Morton's story Coates introduced Grady as a federal officer and held Morton in the room for four hours, demanding $100,000 on threat of exposing him by suing Mrs. Coates for divorce, naming Morton as co-respondent, and also bringing an alienation of affections action against the shoe manufacturer. A hotel detective put an end to this episode when he burst into the room.

Coates testified in his own defense that he had learned of his wife's trip to Chicago after secretly reading her diary, in which she wrote of a rendezvous with Morton and told of past indiscretions with him. Coates denied that he introduced Grady as a federal officer, saying he brought him along as a needed witness in the contemplated divorce and alienation suits.

Relies on Impartial Witnesses.

In freeing Mrs. Coates, Judge Holly said that "although the keeping of a diary in which she recorded her indiscretions is a suspicious circumstance, it is insufficient to convince me beyond a reasonable doubt that she was a party to the conspiracy."

"The evidence convinces me, however, of Coates' and Grady's guilt," the judge stated, "as Morton's story is corroborated by two disinterested witnesses [Congress hotel employés]. If Coates wanted Grady merely as a witness, there was no reason for keeping Morton in the hotel room for four hours."

After she was freed, Mrs. Coates said she was "broke" and hoped the government would give her fare back to Cincinnati.

"I'm going to turn over a new leaf," she declared. "I do not wish to see my husband again."

Find Truck Emptied of Butter; Driver Missing

The police early today were investigating the supposed hijacking of a truck load of butter valued at $5,000. The cargo was consigned on a truck of the Powell Brothers Truck company, 320 West 29th street, from Springfield, Mo., to Chicago. In charge of the truck were Jack Craven, driver, and T. Gilmore, helper, both of Springfield. They halted at Kankakee, the police learned, for gasoline at about 9:30 p. m. The truck was found abandoned at 96th street and Torrence avenue at 1 a. m. It was empty and the police could find no trace of the driver and his helper.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH.

Rapid City, S. D., Nov. 26.—(AP)Earl Jamison, Denver, and Lieut. Clarence Huffman, Windcave CCC camp, near Hot Springs, were killed last night when the truck which Jamison was driving crashed head on into a string of railway cars three miles east of Yoder, Wyo.

WATCH 2 IN PARIS AFTER EXPOSE OF FASCIST "COUP"

Clark and Christmas Are Under Surveillance.

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The movements of Albert Sterling Clark, one of the heirs to the Singer Sewing Machine company fortune, and Albert G. Christmas, his attorney, who were mentioned as having taken active parts in the alleged Fascist plot revealed by Gen. Smedley D. Butler, are being watched as they prolong their stay in Europe, it was learned today.

"I believe that Clark has cold feet," said Representative Samuel Dickstein, vice chairman of the congressional committee on un-American activities. "It looks as if he were afraid to appear before our committee. But we will get his testimony Any one can see there is something wrong in this matter."

Both Now in France.

Both Mr. Clark and Mr. Christmas are understood to be in France, although the attorney, who last week was reported to be ready to return on the first ship, is said to have left Paris. Mr. Clark, however, is believed to be still in the French capital.

At Mr. Clark's brokerage offices his associates felt certain he would return and "explain everything." They declared that no checks ever had been sent from Clark's office to Gerald C. MacGuire, New York bond salesman, mentioned by Gen. Butler as one of the prime movers in the alleged plot.

Reviewing the facts adduced at the hearing, Representative Dickstein stressed the failure of MacGuire to explain transactions involving $107,000.

"MacGuire," said Mr. Dickstein, "is shielding somebody, I believe. Probably a lot of people.

Always Brought Cash Home.

"He spent a lot of money on trips in this country. He was supposed to be buying bonds, but he never even secured the quotations, and always brought the money, with which he was to have made these purchases back here.

"Clark, on the other hand, bought six million dollars in bonds from Grayson M.-P. Murphy & Co., MacGuire's employers."

THOMAS TELLS INFLATION MEN TO BIDE TIME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26—(AP)—Currency inflationists were advised today by one of their leaders to tread cautiously in the next congress, and to seek no early showdown.

Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], outlining a plan of strategy, said in an interview he believed there should be a period of waiting for the results of what he called a presidential mandate to business to improve conditions.

Recent administration gestures to business were described by the Oklahoman as indicative that President Roosevent wanted industry to be left, as far as possible, with a free hand during the next few months to see what it could do.

That situation, he said, counselled a "waiting game" by the monetary reformers.

Thomas tacitly conceded that if a material improvement in conditions resulted there would be little chance for favorable inflationary action next session.

Fireside not for Sale

Mrs. Draley liked her coffee by the fireplace

He finally did shout: "Why don't you stop floating around from one brand to another? Everyone knows Hills Bros. Coffee is the finest you can buy. Let's try that for a real change!" She did. Asking for more rich, steaming cups of Hills Bros., he followed her to the fireplace as devotedly as you please. That's one reason why pretty Mrs. Draley hasn't changed since she discovered Hills Bros. The other reason? It's more economical to use.

ALTHOUGH pretty Mrs. Berton Draley had wishful ideas about drinking coffee in front of the fireplace, she couldn't persuade her husband. As a matter of fact, after being treated to a parade of different coffees every week at supper, he couldn't stand more in front of a fireplace without shouting.

SENATOR CLARK LEADS FIGHT ON CANADIAN CANAL

St. Lawrence Route Is Called U. S. Menace.

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.
[Chicago Tribune Trafic Manager.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The power project miscalled the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada will be as decisively defeated in the next congress as it was in the last, according to a prediction made by Bennett Champ Clark, senior senator from Missouri, speaking at the sixteenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association at the Hotel Statler here today.

SENATOR CLARK.

That the country as a whole is not interested in the proposal further to develop the St. Lawrence canals should have been definitly evident to everybody after the defeat of the measure last spring, but according to Senator Clark no sooner was the result known than an avalanche of propaganda again was loosed all over the country.

Propaganda Mills Busy.

Not only through the famous Craig fund of a half million dollars or more, but directly from government agencies, illegally using the franking privilege, came misleading arguments and statements of the worth of the development of the St. Lawrence river to American citizens. So intensive had been the campaign that even the secretary of war had been misled into believing that the matter of damage to Mississippi valley interests already had been decided by the Supreme court.

Senator Clark reviewed the treaty in detail to prove that the scheme was unthinkable. Under the terms of the treaty, engineers in charge of the work would in effect be supplied with blank checks payable by the American tax payer without limit.

Canadians to Plan Work.

All work on the river was to be planned by Canadian engineers, executed by Canadian labor with Canadian materials. Any damage to Canadian properties would be made good by the American taxpayers. The greatest of all injustices would be found in clause eight of the treaty. That provides that the diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago for navigation purposes must in perpetuity be limited to fifteen hundred cubic feet per second .

In strange contrast the treaty further provides that Canada may proceed at any time in the future to dig its Georgian bay canal from Georgian Bay to Montreal via Nipissing and Ottawa rivers diverting for the purposes of navigation all the water from Lake Huron that may be found necessary.

Senator Clark called on all Mississippi valley states to rally for the preservation of their rights. They had been damaged before by the construction of the Panama canal, but had gladly paid their share of that great project in the national interest.

In the case of the St. Lawrence scheme there was no such national interest, but an extremely small sectional interest with power and not navigation as the objectives. The Mississippi canal system, too, often had been emphasized as merely a route from Chicago to New Orleans. To him it also was a route from New Orleans, Ohio, Arkansas, and Missouri, not only to Chicago, but to the entire northwest via the great lakes.

Dern Pleads for Treaty.

The productive Mississippi valley requires both the Illinois, Mississippi, and the St. Lawrence seaway to meet its transportation requirements, according to Secretary of War George H. Dern, who spoke tonight. He expressed the hope that the association would withdraw the resolution passed last year in opposition to the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada.

"I am authorized by President Roosevelt to say to you that reservations will be made in the treaty whereby work done on the Canadian side of the border supported by United States funds will be undertaken by American engineers and American labor," said Secretary Dern.

"This reservation should remove from the treaty the last reasonable objection. As to the restriction limiting diversion to twelve hundred second feet at Chicago the secretary of war contended that such flow was ample, according to engineering authorities, to maintain a nine foot channel in a waterway of the type that had been constructed.

Calls Objection Visionary.

"Both the Monongahela and the Panama canal carry an enormous tonnage with a lesser flow of water than has been provided for the Illinois waterway in the St. Lawrence treaty. The objection that the seaway could be used for naval operations against undefended lake port cities by a foreign power was too visionary for consideration, according to Mr. Dern. The waterway could be rendered useless by the destruction of a single lock.

Senator William H. Dieterich of Illinois, whose name also appeared on the program, took issue sharply with Secretary Dern. He replied that the provision to protect American labor was not the only reasonable objection. Reviewing the treaty he said that it contained scarcely a clause that he, as a statesman, could approve in the question of diversion. Even the engineers' report on which Secretary Dern relied, the senator said, was qualified and did not contain the positive language that would warrant the United States in relinquishing in perpetuity control of the waters of Lake Michigan.

Senator Dieterich reviewed the boundary waters treaty to show that while a major part of the drainage basin of the great lakes lay on the United States side of the border, Canada enjoyed far greater diversion powers and this treaty granted even more. American diversion, he said, was to be cut down with no chance of any compensation anywhere. The senator declared the treaty bristled with concessions to Canada.

"I am for the St. Lawrence seaway, yes, but for the St. Lawrence treaty, never. I will join your Senator Clark to fight against it," concluded Senator Dieterich.

Opposes Federal Control.

The Mississippi Valley association is vigorously opposed to the extension of the regulatory powers of the interstate commerce commission to include waterway transportation. While President Robert I. Randolph was reading the platform of the association at its sixteenth annual convention here today he was interrupted by applause but once. That was when he announced the negative attitude of the association toward U. S. senate bill 3172, the so-called Eastman bill for the regulation of water carriers.

In compliance with the position of the association, however, that its rostrum shall be a forum for the expression of views on both sides of the question, Joseph Eastman, U. S. coordinator of transportation, had been invited to present his views in support of his theory that regulation is not only necessary but would be beneficial to the people of the United States in that it would assist in the development of a coordinated system of all forms of transport that would give all the people the benefit of the lowest cost of transportation possible.

Mr. Eastman undertook to dispel the thought that the interstate commerce commission was or would be railway minded. "If they are, it certainly has escaped the notice of the railroads," said Mr. Eastman. He did not hold the theory that his bill was perfect. It was subject to criticism and he invited discussion of its terms.

COMSTOCK EXPECTS 2 WORKS PROJECTS WILL BE APPROVED

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Gov. William A. Comstock was back in his office today certain that his trip to Washington last week would result in approval of two public works projects in this state at a total expenditure of $58,000,000.

The governor was confident that the federal government would finance with part of an appropriation of the next congress the proposed $38,000,000 bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. The bridge, according to its proponents, would pay for itself in tolls, the government merely advancing the funds in exchange for a bond issue.

The other project, involving expenditure of about $23,000,000 would dispose of the sewage of 43 communities from Port Huron, at the southern end of Lake Huron to a point south of Detroit. Initial approval of this work is expected by the first of the year, the governor said.

A. C. THOMPSON DEFENDS BOND DEAL ON STAND

Andrew C. Thompson, former wealthy real estate operator, on trial before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward on mail fraud charges, occupied the witness stand yesterday.

Questioned by Defense Attorney William F. Waugh, Thompson denied guilt in the sale of $390,000 bonds for renovating the Georgian-La Salle apartment, on which the fraud charges are based. He declared that 25 other buildings had been financed successfully under his management in the same manner prior to the Georgian-La Salle collapse, which he said was caused by the depression.

Thompson also testified that he had been a partner of the late Ralph Van Vechten, once president of the State Bank of Chicago, and of John W. Fowler, former chairman of the board of directors of the United States Gypsum company.

KRUETGEN GIVES MAIL PLAN FOR THANKSGIVING

To accommodate the public on Thanksgiving day, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday that there would be all day service in special delivery, lock boxes, retail stamps, and the information counter at the new postoffice, 433 West Van Buren street. The general delivery service will be open from 9 to 10 a. m. and one collection will be made at all street letter boxes, returnable to the new postoffice by 9:30 p. m.

All day service in lock boxes, retail stamps, and information will be maintained at the old postoffice annex, Clark and Adams streets, Mr. Kruetgen said, but there will be no special or general delivery service at the old building.

Mail dropped in either building at any time of the day or night, however, will be dispatched on the regular daily schedule. Mr. Kruetgen previously announced no carrier service on Thanksgiving day.

AND— THE PAIN CAUSED BY SUCH GAS CAN BE RELIEVED BY TWO DIAPEPSIN TABLETS.

People do strange things when they have a little pain in the stomach, gas, or sourness! They take all sorts of remedies with high-sounding names. They clutter home and office with bottles and spoons, when one little thing carried in the pocket might straighten them out in a hurry!

Years ago, a man named Pape discovered a simple way to relieve cases of sour stomach. Diapepsin, in tablets that are just eaten like candy, has brought happiness to thousands who thought they had a "weak stomach."

If you have distress after meals, any acid discomfort at all, your stomach is possibly slow to empty. If you will treat this condition with Pape's Diapepsin, you can eat with lots more freedom.

Pape's Diapepsin; remember the name, and try it.

VOTE CANVASS SHOWS RECORD FOR OFF YEAR

Igoe Leads All Candidates in Balloting.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—(AP)—The state canvassing board, officially certifying the Democratic victory of Nov. 6, today announced that 2,935,192 votes were cast in the 1934 general election in Illinois.

This is a new record for an off year election, the previous high mark having been 2,332,696 in 1930. In 1932, 3,407,926 votes were cast for president.

The board, after refusing to hear contests involving the election of two Republican and one Democratic senators in Cook county, announced the official vote received by the winning Democratic candidates for state-wide office and their Republican opponents

Igoe Leads with Votes.

Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, new congressman at large, polled the highest vote, 1,507,714, with second high honors going to John Stelle of McLeansboro, state treasurer elect, with 1,503,997.

Stelle had a majority of 270,783 over William J. Stratton, who led the Republican candidates.

For superintendent of public instruction, John A. Wieland, Calumet City Democrat, polled 1,435,560, a majority of 295,748 over Francis G. Blair, Republican incumbent.

In the contest for congressman at large, Walter Nesbit of Belleville, running as a National Progressive, was credited with only 19,329 votes. He was the leading third party candidate.

Brennan Polls 1,459,000 Votes.

Igoe's running mate, Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington, got 1,459,890 votes, a substantial margin over the Republicans—C. Wayland Brooks with 1,201,382 and Milton E. Jones with 1,112,802.

Official returns showed that the 30 million dollar relief bond issue was easily ratified, getting 2,072,713 votes of the 2,774,182 total for the legislative vote. Against the issue were 445,941 ballots.

Defeated by an equally wide margin was the proposal for a state constitutional convention.

The board refused to reconsider its decision of Saturday, in which it held that it lacked jurisdiction to consider contests brought by two Democrats against the election of two Republican state senators, Arthur J. Bidwell of River Forest and William E. King, Chicago Negro.

Representative Robert G. Woodward of Chicago, who was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for state senator, was permitted to file objections to the issuance of an election certificate to William J. Connors, but the board held it was powerless to act in the matter.

Vote on Congressmen.

District 5—Representative A. J. Sabath, Chicago, Democrat, 29,107; John A. Stanek, Chicago, Republican, 10,923.

FIND LAW BARS KERNER FROM SUPREME BENCH

Attorney General Kerner, it was learned yesterday, put a stop last week to the movement looking toward his election to the state Supreme court vacancy caused by the death of Justice Frederic R. DeYoung. He pointed out that the state constitution bars him from taking any other office during the four years for which he was elected to his present office.

Because of the possible effect of the Supreme court special election if it is held the same day as the February primary or the April election might have on the mayoralty, the Democratic leaders probably will confer soon on the date on which they would like to see it held. Some have suggested that it might be put off until the election of superior judges next November.

Slaying Victim Believed Aid in Murder of Zehrol

The body of Anthony Di Caro, 29 years old, 2956 Emerald avenue, who was shot to death near his home early Sunday, was believed yesterday to be that of one of the slayers of Fred Zehrol, 26 years old, suspected automobile thief, who was slain at 1339 North Clark street last July 3. The Deering street police said a witness of the Zehrol murder, whose name they would not reveal, had viewed Di Caro's body and announced it resembled closely that of one of the four men who shot Zehrol.

POLICEMAN WINS DELAY IN STATION SHOOTING CASE

Policeman Thomas Normile, 40 years old, 7931 South Wabash avenue, was granted a continuance until Dec. 7 when he appeared before Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the South State street court yesterday to answer to seven charges of assault.

The complaining witnesses all are policemen who were slightly wounded Saturday when a revolver was discharged twice into the cement floor of the Central police station squadroom. More than 150 policemen were in the room at the time, and several of them were hit by shattered fragments of bullets.

Normile, who denied firing his revolver, has been suspended by Capt. George O'Connor and charges will be filed against him with the civil service commission. Police Commissioner Allman said he would press the investigation to determine the responsibility of the officer in charge of the squadroom at the time of the shooting, which was preceded by "horseplay" and the shooting of firecrackers among the assembled policemen.

WINS HAPPINESS AFTER 15 YEAR MARITAL SUITS

Le Roy Boylan Discusses Endless Alimony.

The happy denouement of the case of Boylan vs. Boylan, one of Cook county's most famous divorce cases, was told yesterday for the first time when a reporter sought out one of the principals, Col. Le Roy B. Boylan, 1121 East 64th street.

After a fifteen year legal battle which ended in 1932, Col. Boylan still is paying alimony but is living happily with his second wife, Mrs. Johanna Hoffman Boylan, who was named as the "other woman" in one of the many complicated court hearings in which his first wife sought first to prevent his divorce and later to have it set aside.

Back in 1917, when Boylan was a stalwart young army captain recently returned from the Mexican border, he filed suit for divorce against his wife, Anna, of 4848 North Rockwell street.

Charges and Countercharges.

He charged that she annoyed him, that she was a poor housekeeper and that she had deserted him in 1914. She filed a cross-bill asking for separate maintenance, and asserting that he had deserted her after becoming friendly with another woman.

America entered the war, and Boylan served in France as a captain in the signal corps with the A. E. F. The two Boylan children grew up. World manners and customs changed. Woman suffrage and prohibition were ushered in. But divorce and separate maintenance laws remained unchanged. The case of Boylan vs. Boylan dragged on in the courts after his return. In 1927 it achieved the distinction of being Cook county's oldest divorce litigation.

After 1917 Boylan paid $80 a month to his wife. On April 15, 1930, Superior Judge Joseph Sabath awarded the husband a decree of divorce. At that time, Boylan said yesterday, he paid out $13,840 in "temporary" allmony. He was ordered to continue paying $80 monthly.

Appellate Court Upsets Decree.

Mrs. Anna Boylan, having declared in court previously that she would never consent to a divorce, declared she would appeal. Boylan meanwhile, after the decree was granted him, married Mrs. Johanna Hoffman. On Oct. 9, 1931, the Appellate court reversed the decree, making his second marriage illegal.

Represented by the law firm of Socrates, Davis & Cohen, then Socrates & Davis, Boylan carried the matter to the Supreme court. On June 26, 1932, the Supreme court upheld Judge Sabath's decree, which validated the second marriage.

"Meanwhile my wife returned my $80 monthly checks from April, 1930, to January, 1932," Boylan said yesterday in recalling the case. "Therefore, $2,500 back alimony accumulated. After the Supreme court ruling I had to pay the costs of her appeal to the Appellate court, too, in order to clear the matter up. I had no money left to pay the $2,500.

Paid $15,000, He Says.

"At that time Judge Sabath reduced my current alimony to $65 a month, and ever since then [June, 1932], I have been paying $65 allmony plus $35 back alimony, or $100 a month. I have paid $2,200 since the ruling and my rejoining my wife, Johanna. That makes a total of more than $15,000 alimony since 1917."

Col. Boylan, a gentle spoken, ponderous man, was interviewed at his desk in the Illinois Bell Telephone company offices, where he is a secondary executive.

"My life was a torment to me for 17 years," he said slowly. "But the wife and I are happy now. She's a good natured woman. We've never had a cross word, and she has never complained about my having to pay out a large part of my salary in allmony.

Regrets Having to Fight.

"I hold no ill will," he said patiently. "But it seems so useless, so foolish, the long and expensive fight, all because of a woman's vindictiveness. Now, however, it is another story with a happy ending."

Boylan has been with the telephone company thirty-six years. When he began paying $100 a month, including arrears, he was making $270 a month, he said.

Judge Sabath declared that the Boylan case is the only one on record in which the Illinois Supreme court holds that a judge may, in his discretion, grant an absolute divorce after a period of legal separation.

He also declared that he again would urge upon the legislature a bill similar to bills which he sponsored several years ago. His proposal is that, after a statutory period of years, a husband whose wife has sued for separate maintenance, may obtain a divorce from her on grounds of desertion.

Cites Wisconsin Statute.

If the husband were the offending party, Judge Sabath said, he should have to support her for a certain period, which should terminate, however, unless there were minor children.

Nicholas Socrates of the law firm of Socrates, Davis & Cohen, one of the veteran divorce lawyers of Chicago, pointed out that Wisconsin and Kentucky both have laws by which after five years of separate maintenance either party can come into court and obtain a divorce. He declared that Illinois might well adopt a similar law, preferably with a statutory period of two or three years.

Mr. Socrates asserted that under present Illinois law a woman can get a separate maintenance decree after testifying her husband used bad language on two occasions, and thus prevent him from getting a divorce. He is then helpless unless he traps his wife in misconduct. A wife also can get separate maintenance on such causes as having seen him at dinner with another woman.

John Rilia, 50 years old, who shot himself Sunday morning in a tavern at 1858 West 14th street where he was a porter, died of his wound yesterday in the County hospital.

WORLD'S FAIR MIDGET ASKS $100,000 BALM FROM RESTAURATEUR

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A midget's thwarted love produced a normal-sized heart balm suit in the Supreme court today. Papers were filed in a $100,000 suit by Miss Anne Sutton, Lilliputian, against Andrew Murphy Jr., who is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds.

Miss Sutton, who appeared at Chicago's Century of Progress, says she weighs 55 pounds and is 3 feet 3 inches tall.

Murphy is identified as the owner of "Andy Murphy's Place," a restaurant at 49th street and Eighth avenue. His restaurant is frequented by the little people.

The plaintiff, who is 22, the daughter of a Pittsburgh physician, and a college graduate, charges breach of promise and seduction. Murphy is married and the father of two children.

DENIES STEVENS' PLEA TO AVOID BACK ALIMONY

James W. Stevens, 81 years old, former insurance and hotel executive, sought the dismissal yesterday of the contempt action brought by his former wife, Jessie Louise Smith Stevens, 79 years old. She accuses Stevens of being $8,400 in arrears in his $400 monthly alimony payments. Stevens' motion was denied by Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

Stevens told the court that he had paid his divorced wife about $24,000 more than she is entitled to under the alimony order. Attorney Joseph Winterbotham countered by producing two letters from Stevens to his former wife, specifying that the extra money was to be regarded as a gift.

Attorney Winterbotham said he would subpena Frank McKey, Stevens' person receiver, into court to discover assets. If none can be found, he said, he will act to collect the back alimony from Stevens' present wife, with whom he lives at 1216 Lake Shore drive. The first Mrs. Stevens lives in the old family mansion at 4118 South Park way.

Wife of Radio Entertainer Asks Separate Maintenance

Suit for separate maintenance was filed yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan by Mrs. Rosalind Rudolph, wife of Joseph Rudolph, musician and radio entertainer. The couple were married July 18, 1921. Mrs. Rudolph charges her husband deserted her last Jan. 26. She asks alimony and custody of their two children, Jack, 12 years old, and Adelaide, 11.

DANGEROUS MAJORITIES IN CONGRESS.

A difference of three million in the voting strength of the two parties is not an indication of the passing out of one or the overwhelming supremacy of the other in a country of 40 million voters. Such a lead can be shifted with the next shifting of the political wind, but when three million votes give the winning party two-thirds majorities in both houses the congressional result is specifically different. The composition of congress would indicate that the party of opposition had disappeared. That indication cannot be found in the election returns.

The Democrats now realize that their majorities in the house and senate are not unmixed party blessings. Although they have not won an overwhelming popular approval, they have an overwhelming congressional vote. Senator George Norris of Nebraska says that if the party uses its great power recklessly it may destroy itself. He says the Democratic majorities in congress may prove injurious, adding that the country is drifting toward elimination of party lines. Such a conclusion might be drawn from the appearance of congress, but it isn't from the election figures.

The Republican party, opposed by the greatest political fund of public money in the history of the country, proved very much alive in the election, however moribund it may seem on Capitol hill, and therein lies the cause of the Democratic apprehension that the party in congress may do itself injuries which will be its undoing two years from now. The party will do itself injury as it does the country injury, and that inevitability may be a sobering influence when the new congress meets.

It is a curious situation in which the Republicans who could make such a spirited and telling show of opposition at the polls are reduced to such inferiority in legislation. But it is the former fact which is politically significant and the second which is merely of temporary importance. Bad direction in Washington, with responsibility undiluted, can very quickly change the political aspect of American government. The possibilities are causing many Democratic leaders to pause for thought.

LOOKING AT THE QUEENS.

Carol of Rumania, not being invited to the royal wedding, gets the point of the snub that he is not a fitten person for the society of decent kings and queens and people of high degree. The Russian relatives of the bride, being invited, wonder how they can go without noticing the fact that the Russian ambassador is there. Strange bedfellows make estranged kings and assassinations make embarrassed wedding guests.

No matter who's invited and who's not, everybody apparently is going to the wedding, including all the photographers, which is probably the toughest break for the queens. Next to the invention of gunpowder that of the camera was royalty's worst luck.

Unless the makeup expert can go over the subject before the camera man comes on the camera is a cruel thing. It may be truthful. The owner of a passport picture is afraid the likeness is nothing less, but the truth crushes him to earth not to arise again. It's no doubt out of the question that the makeup expert should prepare the kings and queens for the camera. The streaks of blue, red and yellow would strangely decorate the royal countenances in public. When the ancient Britons painted themselves blue there were no cameras, and now that there are cameras a blue phiz isn't worn even by the blue bloods. The human race is forever double-crossing itself.

To make matters worse, Hollywood, with the makeup, is showing the world how queens really should look. The other queens are showing the world how they shouldn't. Before the camera days the court painter could preserve on canvas the legend of royal puissance and pulchritude. The camera is a disturbing substitute.

FOOTBALL TOTEMS AND TABOOS.

When it appeared reasonably certain that the Big Ten conference would produce a natural for the Rose Bowl game in Pasadena there also appeared the virtual certainty that no such game could be arranged. If the versatile, powerful Minnesota team finished its season with only Alabama as a possible contender for the invitation, Minnesota would nevertheless be obliged by conference rules to put its jerseys in the locker room and lock the door.

Football is pretty strictly governed everywhere, but nowhere with greater Brahminic purification than in the Big Ten conference, where the professors by curious cerebrations have actually overemphasized the sport by trying to make it a simple, guarded academic pastime. For instance, the freshman teams of this conference cannot play each other, although in the almost equally precise eastern universities they can maul each other around to the best of their ability and desire. Why Northwestern and Chicago freshmen should not play each other, although Yale and Harvard freshmen do, is a professors' mystery. The conference freshmen are only veal stew for the university team.

If the reason back of the rule against postseason games were a purely scholastic one, if the purpose were to put an end as soon as possible to campus excitements which did the university no good, then we might be on solid ground. It is doubtful that the rule has any such pedagogic reason. More likely it merely assumes that football has become of such tremendous importance that it cannot permit the happy-go-lucky casualness of sport when it is spontaneous and merely incidental to more important things.

If it were spontaneous Minnesota could send a maewest to Ohio State, "Come up and see me any time," and of course it could accept a horace-greeley from Stanford and think of it as nothing but a holiday jaunt, with a football game at one end of the journey.

The professors, if it be the faculty control which has set up the prohibitions, are succeeding in doing the opposite from what it was presumably their intention to do. They are giving football so many totems and taboos that they make it as impressive as Huey Long makes it ridiculous.

THE LAG IN RAILWAY FREIGHT.

As it becomes increasingly evident that at its next session congress will give consideration to a program of transport legislation, those who have taken up the cudgels on behalf of the railways become more vociferous in their demand that "subsidized" competitors of the railways shall be regulated. The "subsidy" to which they refer is the free use of public highways, canals, and improved rivers as rights of way. Limiting our discussion to the competition of automotive transport, we find difficulty in visualizing regulation as a cure for the alleged discrimination against the railways.

Traditionally, community use of the highways has been a fixed privilege of the people from the days of the Roman roads, King's highway, and National turnpike, so that the charge of subsidization at best rests upon a shaky foundation. But even conceding that the trucks are abusing a public privilege, we fail to see how regulation will provide a remedy for the asserted unfairness. Not in the interstate commerce act nor in the proposed truck regulatory bill can be found the suggestion that the interstate commerce commission will be clothed with powers of taxation, the sole medium through which "equalization" can be effected.

It must be remembered that public roads antedate railroads, and were once the sole facility of overland commerce. When the railways entered the picture they gave notice to the public, "Our method of transport is so much more economical than the Conestoga wagon that we can build our own right of way and still offer you lower rates and fares." Highway transport practically disappeared, but after a period of fifty years or so was revived by the automotive industry and immediately commenced to regain public favor. Adjustment to the new competitive conditions is essentially a problem for railway solution.

In the passenger field, where the private automobile is recognized as the principal rival, the railways have adopted twentieth century methods to meet twentieth century competition, but in the struggle for freight trafic they are emulating the nineteenth century efforts of the canals and turnpikes to curb their own early successes by legislative restraint. Railway management fails to comprehend that the tonnage carried by the private truck even now far exceeds the combined volume transported by contract and common carrier operators, and that regulatory restriction is more likely to increase private trucking than to drive trafic back to the rails. Then the freight problem becomes the passenger problem and the railways must so rejuvenate their operations as to be able to say again to the public, "Our method of transport is so much more economical than your trucks because of our private right of way that we can offer you lower cost distribution."

We occasionally receive notice of innovations in freight service that indicate clearly that not all railroad managers are defeatists. That attitude, however, should be the rule and not the exception.

Editorial of the Day

FOOD ENOUGH FOR ALL.

[Bloomington Pantagraph.]

While the last summer brought the worst drouth to some sections of the United States that was ever known, its net effect on the country's food production is not to be considered seriously, according to careful studies by competent authorities.

The extension service of the college of agriculture in the University of Illinois has completed estimates of food surpluses which are not only reassuring but will prove of value to wise buying of needed supplies.

The fluid milk supply the country over, this report says, will not vary much from former years. Fresh fruit supplies are ample and of good quality. The stocks of dried fruits are 5 per cent less than last year and 9 per cent less than the average of recent years. However, dried fruits are largely prepared for export and their quantity does not affect the local market perceptibly.

In commercial canned fruits the hold-over stocks and the product of the present season are both said to be 4 per cent larger than in 1933 and about equal to the average of recent years. But demand is also greater because of shortage of seasonable fresh supplies.

Late rains helped put the supply of vegetables for the season and several of the staples run as high as 17 per cent greater than for 1933. Canned vegetables show a shortage below the average of recent years, this decrease being about 10 per cent.

Meat supplies should be fairly abundant for the rest of this year, but in 1935 the effect of sharp curtailment by government orders will have its effect in higher prices, probably reaching the peak in the summer of 1935. The supply of fish is not affected by any governmental regulation. Fresh eggs are not so plentiful, but storage stocks are large. Butter supply will be considerably short of the average until the spring of 1935 and lard will be under the average supply.

The general condition of the food supplies points to the necessity of careful but not stinted buying on the part of housekeepers who are working under a restricted budget.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE ARE GOING TO BE OBJECTIONS to to the efforts of the city council to make auto drivers use their horns only as a warning of danger. How is a fellow who comes around at midnight going to tell his wife at the bridge party on the seventh floor that he is down there waiting for her? And how is the lad who comes around at eleven o'clock to take his girl to a night club going to let her know he's there if he doesn't honk his horn a half hour? And what about the fun loving people who think the king of outdoor sports is to sneak along behind a pedestrian and let out a blast on the horn that could be heard seven miles? And the man who attends a party in our block and goes over to the garage at two or three o'clock in the morning to get his car. How are the people he's to take home ever going to have the slightest idea he has returned with his car and is waiting for them unless he honks and honks and honks until everybody within two blocks is awakened? No sir, there are always two sides to a question and, say what you will, what's an automobile horn for, anyhow? Huh!

This would I give: warm succor for your passion,
Strong arms to ease the tiredness and the pain,
A will without desire except to fashion
Fire for your body, solace for your brain.

Faith would I have, and fingertips that shook
To write their final cue upon my heart.

MARIAN SHUMAN.

DOWN IN GEORGIA they claim that they're not getting their share of the divorce trade, now rated as a major industry in these United States. Accordingly a bill has been introduced before the legislature permitting those living outside the state to get a divorce if they live in Georgia ninety days. Pooh! who's going to waste ninety days getting a divorce? Georgia had better catch up with the times and make it ninety minutes if they want to bring in the customers.

FLORIDA and California papers are rejoicing because this is going to be a long, hard winter (and gosh, how they dread it), and the tourist business will be the biggest that Miami and Loz Onglaize have ever known. I'm glad that a lot of lucky people can go to those nice places when winter comes. What makes me mad is for them to send me a photograph of themselves in bathing suits sozzling in the surf under the brief sentence, "And the day this was taken here in California you had twenty-five degrees below zero weather in Chicago. Ha, ha!" But after all that's the biggest kick they get in going to California or Florida in the winter. Why is it? Ah, that is something that neither you nor I nor anybody understands.

AND ANGRY ANNIE WRITES: "And just because of the mean things you say about us hitchhikers I hope to see the day when I am riding down the road in my big new sixteen cylinder car and you are standing there wiggling your thumbs. Do you know what, I'm going to drive my car right over you." If I ever stand in the road and wiggle my thumbs for a ride, Angry Annie, I hope you will.

WE'RE A GENERATION of doubters. Science is going to dig a hole over in France over two miles deep just to find out if the inside of the earth is a great raging, seething mass of fire. Not many years ago we wouldn't have thought of burrowing down into the earth that deep; we'd just be putting ourselves right straight into Hell, because we never doubted that was where old man Beëlzebub toasted sinners over the hot coals. A good many have still a belief in a literal Hell, and under the circumstances, people being what they are, it might be a good idea not to disillusion 'em. A man gave me a plugged quarter just last Saturday and I almost got hit by a round the corner driver going about one hundred and ten miles an hour. No, if they dig that hole and don't run into any fire and brimstone, I wish they would keep quiet about it. And there are still those who say "alrightie" and "nightie-nightie."

GHOST AND CHRISTOPHER WREN.

Dynamic, in the parkway zodiac,
Are symmetry of tower and English roof
As if essential church were height in proof.
Above the bridle path and tree-fan black
The bellowing of boats, convulsive trains,
Eternal silhouette of hands in prayer
Is rugged hope.—White fog! No brick church there,
But motors weaving fog-of-noise on brains!
The green bell-finial with silent stress
Floats high in universal benison—
Then walls like twilight hills are mist-undone—
And fresh as from the soul of Wren's largesse
They stand, a churchly ghost from London streets

MABEL WING CASTLE.

THEY WHO DWELL around East Orange, New Jersey, are said to be oiling up their shotguns and .22 caliber rifles getting ready to go after mysterious visitors in their attics that keep them awake at night by a ceaseless scratching and scampering. But hold, folks! You think your nocturnal visitors are squirrels, but they may not be. The Republicans must have gone somewhere. And they're what's doing the scratching and scampering at night. Do not shoot a Republican. Remember, they're all we've got left to scare the Democrats with. Not that it scares 'em much, but it's all we've got.

THE AMERICAN TAXPAYER has it all over the British in one respect, anyhow. He doesn't have to help pay for Princess Marina's wedding to Prince George. But it's going to cost him money at that. He has to pay for the wife's new Marina hat.

THE BOTHERSOME PROSTATE.

OBSTRUCTION to the normal outflow of urine has presented a knotty problem to physicians for centuries. Although enlargement of the prostate gland was early recognized as one of the chief causes, but little more than a generation has elapsed since a reasonably satisfactory plan of surgical attack has been employed. While good hygiene enabled many patients with prostatic enlargement to function with fair comfort, rather drastic surgery was required whenever the enlargement seriously interfered with emptying the bladder. The two stage operation, first draining the bladder for a period of weeks, was followed by removal of the gland itself.

The prostate gland is as susceptible to infection, and hence inflammation, as any other gland in the body. It is situated adjacent to the neck of the bladder and is fairly close to the rectum. One marvels that it is not more frequently the site of infection. Bacteria may be carried to it through the blood, and infection may occur from surrounding tissue or via the urinary tract. In many cases, however, the bladder itself is not affected.

In any case of prostatic inflammation search must be made for a focus of infection. This may be anywhere in the body, but the lower bowel particularly should be carefully investigated.

Prostatic inflammation with subsequent enlargement occurs chiefly after middle life. The first symptoms are increased frequency of urination, and sooner or later pain appears, sometimes deep seated and severe. Occasionally there is a slight hemorrhage at the end of urination.

Because of its peculiar situation enlargement of the prostate can cause obstruction to the outflow of urine. If this obstruction is not relieved the bladder is unable to empty itself completely and urine retained within the bladder may set up a certain amount of irritation. In fact, actual damage may occur to the bladder or to other parts of the urinary tract. If the obstruction increases there may come a time when the patient is entirely unable to discharge urine from the bladder.

There are many causes of urinary obstruction other than enlargement of the prostate. If this latter cause cannot be relieved by simple hygienic measures, such as hot rectal irrigations, hot sitz baths, or prostatic massage, surgery of the gland must be resorted to, else serious damage to general health result.

Because of the frequent association of general ill health with enlargement of the prostate, every patient complaining of urinary retention should be given a thorough physical examination. Before operation it is important that any infection of the urinary tract shall be, if possible, entirely eliminated. Occasionally it is found necessary to insert a drain in the bladder for the purpose of relieving the back pressure caused by accumulating urine.

Inventive genius has recently devised a procedure that uses an electric current of high frequency, by means of which the obstructing portion of the prostate may be removed, the field of operation being visible to the surgeon. The method is called transurethral electric resection and the current employed has the power of cutting tissue smoothly.

The plan of operation has a decided advantage, as there is no external incision and the patient is required to remain in the hospital a much shorter period. In spite of the seeming ease and simplicity of the operation some risk is involved and the earlier type of surgical removal of the prostate must not be completely forgotten. Neither procedure should be recklessly carried out by inexperienced operators.

OZENA.

M. M. W. writes: What are the symptoms of ozena and the means of correcting it?

REPLY.

Ozena is, first of all, a sinus infection and then an infection of the mucous membrane of the nasal passages. It is characterized by very foul odors of the nasal discharges. The remedy lies in free drainage of the sinuses and irrigating the nasal passages several times daily with a mild alkaline solution such as Dobell's. Drainage of sinuses should be undertaken only by a skilled nose and throat specialist.

ARSENIC.

L. M. writes: I suspect arsenic poisoning. What are the symptoms? How can it be detected? Does it cause bad attacks of indigestion?

REPLY.

The chief symptom of arsenic poisoning is abdominal cramps. Nausea, vomiting, burning in the stomach, diarrhea, and puffiness about the eyes and ankles are other symptoms. If the gastric irritation from arsenic is pronounced there may be some blood in the vomited material. There is usually an odor of garlic on the breath.

TREATING BURNS.

J. P. W. writes: The new treatment for burns is a solution of tannic acid sprayed on the burn. The tannic acid is dissolved in water. It occurs to me that the treatment might be more effective if the tannic acid were dissolved in Dakin's solution.

REPLY.

When jigsaw puzzles were first made some of them were cut out with jigsaws, but this was too laborious a task to continue; so cutting dies were made and the puzzles were cut out completely with one impression of the dies. This is the way most of those on the market have been made.

HOODLUMS ON RELIEF.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—You ask the question, "Are the relief investigators in league with the hoodlums and gangsters?"

Why don't you go down to one of the district relief stations and discover for yourself what a tremendous task each investigator is obliged to perform?

Do you realize that in order for an investigator to do the detailed detective work on each relief case properly she should only handle twenty cases on her load?

Do you know that each investigator handles from 100 to 150 cases in a load; and do you know that because of the 25 per cent reduction in the "army of pay rollers" each investigator's load will have to be increased to over 200 families?

Therefore, how can you expect an investigator, with a tremendous amount of detective work in each case, to detect out of 200 cases all of the small percentage of relief cheaters, when about 90 per cent of them really have to be provided with the bare necessities?

Please do a little investigating yourself before printing stuff that is unfounded.

S. G. SEINFELD, M. D.

THE MONEY ROLLS OUT.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—According to reports of the United States treasury, the financial operations of the federal government during the month of October resulted in a deficit of $409,000,000. The deficit in October last year was $244,000,000.

Except for a brief period during the civil war, the total expenditures of the federal government for a whole year never reached $400,000,000 until 1898, the year of the Spanish-American war, when they were $443,000,000. The total expenditures of the federal government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1916, were only $734,000,000, or less than twice the present deficit for a single month.

NOT NEGLECTED BUT ECLIPSED.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—I agree with E. M. S. that Gen. Sullivan is insufficiently recognized in history. I do not think this is due to any maliciousness on anybody's part, but to the fact that he has been eclipsed by the fame of his great-grandson, John L. Sullivan.

MACCARTIE.

ALL WRONG.

Flint, Mich., Nov. 20.—I have always had a high regard for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in general, but in the handling of problems relating to the milk business they have not shown their usual discernment and knowledge. It is unfair for nontechnical or untrained men to attempt to write technical articles about milk.

Your editorial of Oct. 11, entitled "Getting Rid of Milk Surplus," is perfectly ridiculous to any one who really understands the subject this writer was attempting to discuss.

The Milk Plant Monthly of November properly describes this as the "complacent omniscience of newspaper writers who know so many things that ain't so."

W. A. MCDONALD.

ALL RIGHT.

New York, Nov. 23.—As one interested in the highest development of the dairy industry I am particularly gratified to read such a forthright statement about high testing milk as was contained in your editorial, "Getting Rid of the Milk Surplus." Especially do I wish to express my appreciation of the pleasing style in which the truth concerning the best way of getting rid of the milk surplus was expressed.

SANTA CLAUS.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—This morning's TRIBUNE carried the news that every effort would be made to have all 1933 tax bills in the mail by Dec. 1, so that taxpayers would receive their bills thirty days before the penalty date of Jan. 1, 1935!

The second half of the 1932 real estate tax is now due and payable for many of the small home owners!

Dec. 31 is the deadline for city and state vehicle taxes!

Christmas is coming! When? Dec. 25, 1934! Who believes in Santa Claus? The tax collectors! Who is Santa Claus? The taxpayers! And nothing much in sight for Christmas but pay taxes, taxes, taxes. Aw, give us a break, can't cha!

A PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 19.—If I were writing a platform for Chicago I think I could improve on yours, viz.:

1. Vote for honest and efficient local candidates regardless of their national party label.

2. Cut out waste, extravagance, and overlapping governments.

3. Overcome crime by paying less attention to petty offenses; stamp out the source of vices, or, failing in this, license them so that government may obtain a revenue instead of crooked police who accept bribes or hush money while their attention is diverted from real crime and criminals.

4. Speed up local transportation by coordinating all existing forms to the best advantage and putting all married women who want a job to work on the subways as is done in Moscow. Obtain some of the easy money for this.

5. Finish and perfect our railroad terminals through electrification.

6. Eliminate the smoke and dirt evils and as far as possible make Chicago the cleanest city in the world.

THE OLD BATHHOUSE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—In 1927 my father bought a piece of property up north and we moved out of the old neighborhood. Last week we moved back again, finding it cheaper if not convenient, having been forced to give up the other house. I paid a visit Saturday to the old bathhouse I used to attend when quite a lad before we moved, and to my surprise I found it still lighted by gas and so dark I could hardly see how to take a bath. Of course it is a free public bath, but the taxpayers' money helps to run it and in a city like this a place of that kind should be at least up to date. I guess we don't deserve anything decent here in "Little Italy." We are supposed to pay our tax and say nothing about things like that. I guess we must be thankful for being able to bathe at all.

MAN TELEVISION MACHINE, ITALIAN SCIENTIST SAYS

Subject Reports Objects Through Wall.

ROME, Nov. 26.—(AP)—An amazing demonstration of the theory that man is a television machine was given this afternoon by Prof. Giuseppe Calligaris of the Royal university of Rome in the presence of many Italian scientists.

Dr. Calligaris, who is professor of neuro-psychology, pressed certain points of a subject's body and the subject responded with minute descriptions of other persons and objects on the opposite side of a wall. In one instance he pressed a spot on the right side of the thorax for fifteen minutes.

Dr. Calligaris told the other professors that if certain areas on the skin are agitated, the subject is given super-sensorial impressions enabling him to see objects he could not otherwise perceive. Following the thorax demonstration, Dr. Calligaris declared that if other spots of the body were agitated, the subjects could see objects at any distances, regardless of whether they had ever before seen those objects.

QUESTIONS CONCLUSIVENESS.

Prof. Andrew C. Ivy of the Northwestern university faculty said yesterday that he questioned whether Prof. Giuseppe Calligaris had demonstrated conclusively at Rome the theory of a man as a television machine.

Dr. Ivy, a professor of physiology, revealed that he has been working along similar lines for two years. He said that the chief difficulty had been the devising of an "absolute" experiment, one which would not be open to criticism.

Grounds for Study.

Referring to Dr. Calligaris' claim, Prof. Ivy said, "If he has taken into consideration all possible criticisms and his claim is substantiated, it will constitute an outstanding discovery. It is a subject on which we must keep an open mind.

"Such reports have come in from time to time during the last 10 years. The difficulty is that when studied in critical detail and with knowledge of modern physical and chemical achievement, these reports are subject to doubt. Defects have been found in such reports in the past, so the physiologist accepts them with considerable skepticism."

HUNT SECRETARY IN CASK MURDER OF GEM SELLER

'Package of Diamonds' Is Missing in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A widespread search was being made tonight for the secretary of Alvin Brunner, 30, of Brooklyn, N. Y., an itinerant jewelry salesman and auctioneer whose nude body was found early today crammed in a barrel in a Cincinnati garage.

Also sought with J. S. Berman, the secretary, was a package believed to contain $20,000 in diamonds which a Columbus jeweler was said to have turned over to Berman on the strength of a telegram purporting to come from Brunner. Police declared the investigation was being conducted on the theory the slaying was planned carefully to get possession of the diamonds.

The body of Brunner, shot through the head, was found shortly after midnight in a basement garage in the center of Cincinnati's Jewish population. The garage was rented yesterday to a man who said he was an "embroidery salesman from the east."

Identification of the victim was established by Reinhard Merz, Columbus jeweler, in whose store Brunner and his secretaray planned to conduct a jewelry sale.

Brunner went to Dayton on Saturday, Merz said, and on Sunday the secretary showed him the telegram. That instructed Merz to turn over to the secretary a package which Brunner previously had said contained $20,000 in diamonds.

ROBBER HATES TO TAKE DAMES' CASH, BUT HE DOES

A robber who hated to "take money from dames" raided the second floor office and showroom of the Pioneer Gen-E-Motor corporation, 466 West Superior street, bent on seizing a $500 pay roll yesterday.

Leaving a companion on guard at the head of the stairs, the gunman herded thirteen employés, including several women, into the private office of Harry Goldberg, 2842 Sheridan road, the manager. Demanding the pay roll, the robber learned it has just been given out.

A search of desk drawers produced a $20 bill. Then he opened the purses of Miss Pauline Karson, 37 years old, 600 Diversey avenue, a secretary, and Miss Mary Lou Sterns, 23 years old, 1551 West Garfield boulevard, the switchboard operator, taking another $20. As he turned to go, the robber muttered:

"I hate to take money from you dames, but I got to have dough."

SENTENCES TWO WOMEN FOR TAX WARANT FRAUDS

Miss Marion Leighton, 36 years old, former noted tennis player, was placed on probation for a year yesterday and her partner, Miss Frances Streich, 34 years old, was sentenced to one to 10 years in prison by Judge John C. Lewe in the Criminal court for embezzlement of tax warants from teachers. The two women, former operators of Leighton & Streich, Inc., a real estate concern at 160 North La Salle street, were convicted last week by Judge Lewe in a bench trial following their arrest and indictment on a complaint of Miss Cora J. Clark, 6211 Kenwood avenue, a teacher. Miss Clark and several other teachers testified that the defendants had failed to account for $52,000 worth of warants.

KILLING CALLED JUSTIFIED.

The killing of Irving J. Nee, ex-convict who was shot by Policemen Edwin McGurn and Maurice Griffin of the stolen automobile detail as he tried to escape on Saturday, was justifiable homicide, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

DISDAINS BLOOD TESTS TAKEN IN PATERNITY CASE

The paternity of Miss Casimira Dyle's three children will have to be proved in some manner other than blood tests, Attorney Paul F. Pomeroy declared yesterday.

Miss Dyle, who is 26 years old and lives at 1039 North Spaulding avenue, has accused Joseph C. O'Malley, 26, of 1158 North Lockwood avenue, a tavern owner, of being the father of all three. The case is before Judge Frank M. Padden in the jury branch of the Municipal court, who ordered a continuance until today pending outcome of blood tests.

"The blood tests proved nothing," Attorney Pomeroy, representing O'Malley, said yesterday. "Tests of the youngest child's blood showed it was in the same classification—No. 4—as O'Malley's. This, however, does not prove that O'Malley is the father.

"We had hoped that the blood tests would fall in different classifications, which would prove that O'Malley was not the father."

Caught in Flight After Threatening Prosecutor

Eugene Quinn, 38 years old, who said his address was Roosevelt road and Plymouth court, was held for examination by a city phychiatrist yesterday after he had created an uproar in the Criminal courts building. Quinn appeared to make a "complaint" and made threats to kill Mrs. Fannie Perron, assistant state's attorney. Mrs. Perron screamed, and Quinn ran, bowling over Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's police and several others who happened to be in his path. Quinn was captured in front of the building. A charge of disorderly conduct was placed against him.

This letter by HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON

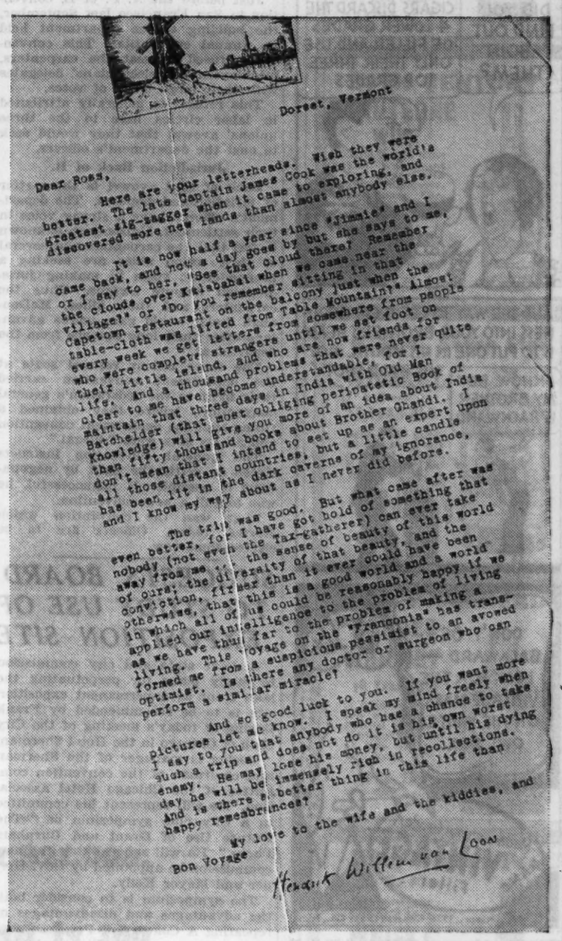
(WRITTEN TO ROSS SKINNER Cruise Director of the Franconia) tells you even better than we can WHY you should go on the

FRANCONIA WORLD CRUISE



Dorset, Vermont

Dear Ross,

Here are your letterheads. Wish they were better. The late Captain James Cook was the world's greatest sig-zagger when it came to exploring, and discovered more new lands than almost anybody else.

It is now half a year since Jimmie and I came back, and now a day goes by but she says to me, or I say to her, "See that cloud there? Remember the clouds over Kalabahai when we came near the village?" or "Do you remember sitting in that Capetown restaurant on the balcony just when the table-cloth was lifted from Table Mountain?" Almost every week we get letters from somewhere from people who were complete strangers until we met on the their little island, and who are now friends for life. And a thousand problems that were never quite clear to me have become understandable, for I maintain that three days in India with Old Man Batchelder (that most obliging peripatetic Book of Knowledge) will give you more of an idea about India than fifty thousand books about Brother Ghandi. I don't mean that I intend to set up as an expert upon all those distant countries, but a little candle has been lit in the dark caverns of my ignorance, and I know my way about as I never did before.

The trip was good. But what came after was even better, for I have got hold of something that nobody (not even the Tax-gatherer) can ever take away from me, the sense of beauty, and the conviction, firmer than it ever could have been otherwise, that this is a good world and a world in which all of us could be reasonably happy if we applied our intelligence to the problem of making a living. This voyage on the "Franconia" has confirmed me in my far from optimistic belief that there is no reason to an avowed optimist. Is there any doctor or surgeon who can perform a similar miracle?

And so good luck to you. If you want more pictures let me know. I speak my mind freely when I say to you that anybody who has a chance to take such a trip and does not do it is his own worst enemy. He may lose his money, but until his dying day he will be immensely rich in recollections. And is there a better thing in this life than happy remembrances?

My love to the wife and the kiddies, and

Bon Voyage

BUILDING TRADES NEAR SPLIT IN A. F. OF L. RANKS

12 of 19 Unions Fail to Show at Parley.

Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—A split between two groups of American Federation of Labor building trades unions neared permanency today as a result of the latest row within federation ranks.

Delegates from twelve of the nineteen unions affiliated with the building trades department failed to appear at the department's "legal" convention, which opened here today. At the same time, the credentials list kept by President William Green of the federation showed accredited delegates from nine unions. Those from two unions were not in the meeting hall.

M. J. McDonough, heretofore president of the department, said the twelve unions would have a convention of their own tomorrow afternoon. He said there was a possibility that they would set up their own organization—within the American Federation of Labor. Green likewise conceded that the absentees might form a new organization.

Express Plea for Harmony

Both Green and McDonough publicly expressed a desire for harmony, but feeling between the two groups ran high.

The story behind the quarrel goes back to last spring when, largely by Green's efforts, the Carpenters', Bricklayers' and Electricians' unions reaffiliated with the building trades department after a schism of many years.

Just before the A. F. of L. convention in San Francisco last September, the building trades department held its annual convention. This convention refused to seat the carpenters, bricklayers and electricians' delegates with their large block of votes.

This refusal is generally attributed in labor circles here to the three unions' avowal that they would seek to oust the department's officers.

Jurisdiction Back of It.

Back of that avowel is the matter of jurisdictional disputes. The department's officers have a strong voice in their settlement. McDonough is known to feel that the carpenters and several of their union allies are seeking a preponderant voice in making jurisdictional dispute awards. Thus the carpenters and their allies, McDonough feels, would gain undue advantage after their long absence from the department.

The three unions refused seats at the department convention carried their fight to the federation's general convention, where they obtained a ruling that the department convention and all its acts were "illegal."

The general convention instructs Green to settle the fight by negotiations if possible. If unsuccessful, he was to call a new convention.

That was the convention which started today. Officers are to be elected tomorrow.

SUGGESTS BOARD TO STUDY USE OF EXPOSITION SITE

A joint state and city commission to study plans for perpetuating the lake front as a permanent exposition site is to be recommended by Frank Bering at today's meeting of the City Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman.

Bering is manager of the Sherman and chairman of the convention committee of the Chicago Hotel association. He will represent his committee in a City club symposium on "The Future Use of Grant and Burnham Parks." He will suggest that the new commission be appointed by Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly.

The symposium is to consider both the advantages and disadvantages of repeating A Century of Progress next year. Others who will speak are Homer J. Buckley, president of the West Central association; Mrs. Moses L. Purvin, member of the Chicago recreation commission, and Dr. George Fox of South Shore temple.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm By Frank Ridgway

Tests with Trees

November 26, 1934.

TREES form an important part of the experimental work on THE TRIBUNE's test farms near Yorkville and Wheaton. The trees on both of these farms are grown for shade, to prevent soil erosion, and to furnish protection for birds and wild animals. They are attracting an increasing number of visitors.

Testing out different kinds of trees and the fertilization problems connected with the successful growing of trees are two experiments that have been crowded out of discussions in this column by the rare field crops and the live stock breeding and feeding questions. Men at the farm, however, are seriously studying the problems connected with the successful growing of trees around the farm homes, in the wood lots, along fence rows, and in the pastures along streams.

Drouth, which collected such heavy tolls in the grain and forage fields, caused a heavy loss on the tree test grounds at THE TRIBUNE Experimental farm this season. A careful scrutiny of the newly planted trees—set out as a part of the farm's tree experiment last spring—shows that practically all of the tulip trees died. More than 200 of these trees were set out and not more than a dozen of them are now alive. Those left are weak and may not survive the hard winter freezes.

So far the test with black locust trees, planted to prevent the washing of the soil, has been successful. Out of more than 300 of the small thorny trees planted last spring, all of them appeared to be alive yesterday except nine. These hardy black locust trees are growing on the rim of two old gravel pits, and in an eroded spot in one of the corn fields. A few have been set along a small gulley in one of the wooded pastures.

A giant elm tree that stands in the lowland pasture just north of the information house on the Yorkville farm has interested many visitors this summer because it is a fine exhibit of how an old tree, once almost worthless, may be restored and kept growing. It is a good exhibit of tree surgery with its cavities filled in 1928 with cement jointed so that the hard material is flexible, making it possible for the tree to be swayed by the wind without breaking the concrete. It also shows how the branches of an old tree may be cabled together to prevent damage from wind and heavy sleet.

The Thurow brothers, who have lived on the farm for many years, say they believe this grandfather tree is more than 100 years old. It is still healthy and thriving. Louis Thurow said yesterday, "My father spotted this old tree when he went through the woods 62 years ago. It was a fair sized tree then."

The old elm is now more than five feet in diameter and is estimated to be at least eighty feet tall. "We feed that old tree the same as we do the steers—only not quite so often," Louis smiled. "We never fail to scatter barnyard manure around the tree once a year. During the last few years we have fed our steers under the tree. We have found it a practical way to fertilize the soil around the roots of the tree."

COUNTY TO PAY ITS EMPLOYES $400,000 TODAY

County Treasurer Nash announced last night that the 4,000 county employes would be paid today for the first half of November. The pay roll amounts to about $400,000. Circuit and Superior court jurors who served in the period from April 1 to Nov. 1 received their pay yesterday, a total of approximately $200,000.

The treasurer yesterday distributed $2,695,189 in delinquent tax collections to the various major taxing agencies in the country. The city received the largest share, $1,777,045.

The last of the 1933 real estate bills for the city township of South Chicago have been placed in the mail and the treasurer's office is now engaged in sending out bills for the city township of Hyde Park. Bills for the country town districts have been placed in the hands of the country town collectors. To date, Treasurer Nash said, $5,806 has been collected in 1933 real estate taxes.

UP TO STATE TO RAISE 3 MILLION MONTH FOR POOR

U. S. Hands Down Its Final Decision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Illinois must start by Jan. 15 to raise three million dollars a month for relief purposes or federal relief funds for the state will be cut off.

This was the ultimatum which Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins today handed Gov. Henry Horner, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, and United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis.

Additional taxes designed to raise the required thirty-six million dollars a year probably will be necessary in Illinois as a result of Administrator Hopkins' action, both Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly agreed. The nature of these taxes, which must be passed promptly by the session of the legislature meeting in January, is to be decided by the legislators, Gov. Horner said.

Promises 12 to 18 Millions.

Between twelve and eighteen million dollars of federal funds with which the relief bill can be paid during December and the first two weeks of January were promised to Illinois by Hopkins. After Jan. 15, however, Hopkins expects the state to furnish three millions a month. The federal government will pay the rest.

Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and Senator Lewis were closeted with Administrator Hopkins for two hours this morning threshing out the Illinois relief problem. The governor and the mayor left late today for Chicago.

Late this afternoon Hopkins formally made public his ultimatum when the relief administration issued the following brief statement:

"Following a conference here today with Illinois officials, Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, Federal Emergency Relief administration, announced that he expects the state of Illinois to provide at least three million dollars a month for relief purposes. The FERA will continue to grant assistance to the state until Jan. 15. The state legislature meets early that month, when Administrator Hopkins feels that means will be found to enable the state to finance its fair share of the relief burden."

Refuses to Go Beyond January.

Earlier in the day Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly had disclosed that Hopkins had agreed to carry the state relief burden almost entirely in December and the early part of January but had refused to go any farther. Between twelve and eighteen million dollars will be required for the six weeks up to Jan. 15.

"That means that the legislature's responsibility is definitly fixed," the governor said after disclosing that Hopkins insisted upon three million dollars a month from the state after Jan. 15.

"It means more taxes, but the way for raising the taxes hasn't been decided upon yet," Mayor Kelly added.

Gov. Horner said that some time in December he would call a conference of legislators to determine how the thirty-six millions annually is to be raised. He said he hoped to avoid a special session of the legislature by having the measures agreed upon by the conference rushed through as emergency legislation as soon as the regular session meets in January.

Frowns on Bond Issue.

The possibility of a further state bond issue to pay the relief bill was frowned on by the governor.

"That would be simplest, but I don't think it would be practical," he said when reporters asked him about floating bonds.

He refused to discuss any tax possibilities, insisting that the conference of legislators must decide what is to be done. One of the possibilities is an increase of the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent.

Landlord Is Sought After Whipping Rent Suit Victor

Rocco Enrico, 47 years old, 2056 High street, Blue Island, was sought yesterday for horsewhipping Daniel Larontonda, 45 years old, 12749 Winchester avenue, Blue Island, after he had lost a suit in the Renters' court. Larontonda, taken to the St. Francis hospital severely lacerated, said Enrico had sued over back rent which Larontonda had paid up, hence the suit was thrown out.

STATE TO EXPAND RELIEF FACTORY PROJECT AT ONCE

Lightbody Says Polls May Rise to Million.

Plans for immediate changes in the Illinois recovery program to prevent swelling of the relief rolls were described yesterday by Dr. James D. Lightbody of the work relief planning division of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. He spoke at a luncheon of the Ad Men's post of the American Legion in the Hotel Sherman.

These plans include the establishment of new industries in communities where factories have closed, the reopening of additional factories to produce articles needed by relief recipients, and, in parts of southern Illinois, reforestation.

Denies Blow at Industry.

Unless this program be followed more than a million names will stand on the Illinois relief rolls this winter, Dr. Lightbody declared, and thousands of families will continue to live on the charity level and to be a drain on the state and federal government during the coming years.

Reopened factories, he said, would give 30,000 unemployed persons jobs at making shirts, gloves, hose, and other commodities needed for the poor, yet would not retard production elsewhere.

For public dependents in the hill country of southern Illinois, who are classified as dwellers on submarginal lands, it is proposed to return the land to native forests and put these people to work at reforestation. On adjacent areas they are to develop subsistence homesteads.

Special Projects Sketched.

The program in the drouth stricken area is to employ farm laborers in getting agricultural limestone from the quarries. This lime would then be distributed to lands that require it and would assure larger yields and greater returns to tollers receiving assistance.

In one community where factories are not likely to reopen, according to Dr. Lightbody, 155 dependent families will be put to work growing cabbages on soil near their homes. A plant to be opened near by in an abandoned factory will can sauerkraut for relief clients throughout the state.

DROWNED MAN IDENTIFIED.

A man found dead Saturday in a water-filled ditch near the Oak Forest infirmary was identified yesterday as Fred Nordmark, 60 years old, who had been an inmate of the infirmary.

RELIEF BOARD'S TRAVELING MEN ADD TO EXPENSE

Pile Up Bill of $42,548 in Six Months.

Travel is one of the items of expense for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, it appears from a survey made yesterday. During the six month period ending last month, some 200 members of the commission's staf made trips around the state, rolling up a total bill of $42,548.

In the months of August, September, and October 198 traveling employés spent $30,423. Seventy-five of these presented expense bills totaling $25,568. Another group of 123 made less frequent excursions and spent $4,844.

$9,000 for November Travel.

The "remote control" of relief administration in the 101 downstate counties from the headquarters in Cook county has been blamed for items other than traveling expense in the million-dollar-a-month overhead of the commission. Decentralization of accounting procedure, accomplished more than a month ago, apparently will not make field trips any less necessary, however, because $9,000 was set up for November traveling expense.

There is additional travel expense scattered through the maze of records covering downstate counties. The survey presented here is for the central relief headquarters only, but accounts for most of this form of expense.

Travel Expenses Listed.

Following is a partial list of the travel expenses of some of the commission's employés in August, September, and October:

Employé.	Amount.

SALES TAX FOR RELIEF IS NEXT MOVE FOR N. Y.

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Although the provisions of Mayor F. H. La Guardia's tax program remained a mystery this afternoon, it was learned at the city hall that the 61 million dollar total to be levied for relief during the coming year will include a sales tax, probably of 2 per cent, and three or more other imposts.

A two hour session of the tax conference, composed of the committee on local laws of the board of aldermen and members of the board of estimate, failed to reach any definite agreement other than that the new tax program will be sponsored by the mayor.

WILEY POST TO FLY TODAY FOR RECORD IN STRATOSPHERE

Bartlesville, Okla., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Wiley Post and his globe circling plane, the Winnie Mae, were ready tonight for a thrust into the stratosphere tomorrow, starting about 8 a. m., confident the airplane altitude record will come down with them.

Post soon will become an airplane manufacturer in Oklahoma City. He has expressed the opinion that most of the flying of the future will be in the stratohphere, where greater speeds are possible because of the decreased air resistance.

The present altitude record for heavier than air machines is 47,352.2 feet, set by Lieut. Renato Donati of Italy.

'ROUND WORLD IN 4 DAYS, 2 STOPS, PANGBORN'S GOAL

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 26.—(AP)—A flight around the world in four days, with only two stops for fuel—in Moscow and China—is planned for spring by Clyde Pangborn, the noted aviator announced here today. Pangborn and Roscoe Turner, who took third in the recent England to Australia air Derby, arrived here from Sydney on the liner Mariposa.

The plane for the proposed flight, Pangborn said, will be of the all wing type, with a fuel capacity of 2,300 gallons and a cruising range of 8,200 miles. It now is being built in New Jersey. Accompanying him, the flyer continued, will be Reed Nichols, radio operator, and a co-pilot, possibly Bennett Griffin. A robot pilot also will be used.

With New York as the starting point, the course to be followed will approximate that of Wiley Post, who last year established an around the world speed record on the first such solo flight ever made—in 7 days 18 hours 49½ minutes.

that Evening Ledger readers have money to spend for advertised products . . . otherwise, Philadelphia merchants would not spend, month after month, more of their advertising dollars on a per reader basis, to reach Evening Ledger readers than they do to reach the readers of any other Philadelphia newspaper.

In October, for instance, judged by dollar expenditure per reader, Philadelphia merchants figured that to them, Evening Ledger readers were worth

1½ times those of the evening newspaper with largest circulation
3 times those of the morning newspaper with largest circulation
5 times those of the Sunday newspaper with largest circulation

National advertisers may well profit by the experience of Philadelphia's merchants in securing the biggest dollar-for-dollar return by using the Evening Ledger . . . the quickest, most effective and most economical advertising medium in Philadelphia.

Clotilde Patterns Are Designed By Experts for Tribune Readers

Leggings Designed for Play

CHILD'S LEGGINGS.

These leggings are comfortable to wear and suited to play. They allow a child to stoop, and suspender straps prevent them from sagging. They are cut so that a child can get in and out of them easily, which will be a real help to mother. Fabrics that shed moisture, such as lightweight woolens, are best to choose. However, there are some cotton materials that compare favorably with woolens, as many children become warm in playing actively.

The pattern, No. 3022, comes in sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8 years.

Fashion flash!—The autumn and winter edition of The Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is ready. Its pages are filled with entrancing modes and instructions for your new winter wardrobe. Gayly Colored Party Slippers Delightful for Going Places

BY RHEA B. SEEGER.

Stepping takes a supply of shoes and slippers these days, especially nightlife stepping. But the slippers are here, models for each and every kind of party, from the neat and jaunty cocktail slippers of faille in brown or black with silver and gold holes for the ribbon laces to the high heeled dancing numbers in glittering brocades.

There's one collection in town that will make a Cinderella of every lass who sees them. The velvets, combined with gold or silver kidskin, are worth every penny you pay for them. The colors delight the heart, and the gay trimmings alone will make you uneasy till they are fitted to your feet in time for the next party.

Green is tremendously popular, and green velvet with shining gold is a knockout—gold heels and gold lacings across the toe tied in a bow. Then there are some green velvet pumps embroidered all the way around the slipper from heel to toe in gold thread in floral designs, very decorative, frivolous affairs, the like of which haven't been seen in years.

Unusual colors are pleasant surprises this year—apricot, coral, violet, sage green, four or five shades of blue from pale sapphire to dark navy, accented with either silver or gold.

There are some hussy numbers with the highest, dizziest heels ever anchored to scraps of velvet, spike or stilt heels of either silver or gold, embellished with a diamond design of harmonizing jewel-like stones with the decoration repeated on the toe. Some interesting black and silver models are made with designs of the silver thread across the black like a cobweb; romantic white silk slippers are star dusted with silver. There are gleaming gold designs encrusted on coral velvet and cutout models of dark velvet with four straps of silver or gold braid across the cutout from toe to instep to ankle.

And last, the glamorous looking fur trimmed galosh, the very sophisticated version of the old time carriage boot, is here in snug fitting, superbly designed protective rubber. These come in black, brown, and white, pleasing and successful coverings for all your party slippers on a rainy or snowy night.

Good Morning!

Something whispers sweetly in my ear that you're going to LOVE "What Every Woman Knows."

The screen is being so kind in the matter of bringing old friends back into our lives! "Little Women," "The Count of Monte Cristo," "Anne of Green Gables," Little Pip of "Great Expectations," etc., all have lived for us again through the magic of the silver sheet. And now comes Barrie's sma' and vera, vera wise Scotch lady to delight us anew with her gallantry, her humor, and her canny appreciation of the fact that a mon likes to believe he does things all by himsel'.

The picture—as was the play—is a cunningly contrived affair. It cloaks shrewd philosophy in the homeliest kind of humor, and its thrusts at the amazing conceit of the male of the species are as tenderly delivered as they are pointed.

The story is about one plain Scotch Maggie Wylie, who hasn't been able to secure a husband. When the story opens a neighboring clergyman has just jilted her for another.

The worshiping father and two big brothers, for whom she keeps house, are fumblingly attentive in their desire to salve the wound, and they are despairing as how to go about to secure a man who shall appreciate Maggie. . . .

Papers are drawn up whereby money for the completion of his studies is guaranteed PROVIDED John Shand promises to wed Maggie at the end of five years. Maggie, however, is not bound to marry him—should she find her interests centered in somebody else.

The bargain goes through. Gentle Maggie would let her betrothed out of it—but——

He becomes a great man—but not alone. In the background of his life a quiet little woman moves, pulling strings. So self-effacing is she that she gets no credit for her husband's success. . . . Such a little brown wren of a woman she is that she is easily overshadowed in her beloved's esteem by the beauteous Lady Sybil, who, for a time, he desires to marry.

But Sybil hasn't one idea to rub against another—and mind is what Maggie fights with. . . .

Helen Hayes has never given a more compelling characterization. The only rub lies in the fact that Maggie is supposed NOT to have charm, and charm is the fullest thing Miss Hayes is OF! So—when, regretting her lack of it, Maggie says wistfully:

"Charm is a sort of bloom on a woman. If she has it she doesn't need anything else. If she DOESN'T have it—nothing else makes any difference"—why it somehow just doesn't make sense.

Brian Aherne is splendid as virile, humorless, dynamic John Shand. Rare performances are given by David Torrence, Dudley Digges, and Donald Crisp as the father and brothers. Lucille Watson plays a shrewd woman of the world, who "gets" Maggie—fascinatingly. Madge Evans is good as Sybil and Henry Stephenson brings power to a "bit" rôle.

As for direction and the rest, all I have to say is that, for ninety minutes, "What Every Woman Knows" held me enthralled.

See you tomorrow.

ATTORNEY MARY BELLE SPENCER, former public guardian of Cook county, was doing some research work in early American litigation when she discovered the following excerpt from a legal citation of 1805, in which a defendant was fined $25:

Wet jury—Communique—Surprise—Highlight.

"The jury, to wit, having consumed 21 items of food and drink, consisting of 2 items of food and 19 items of drink, including 5 quarts of whisky, 3 quarts of brandy, 2 jugs of cider, 1 barrel of beer, 4 quarts of gin, and 5 gallons of wine, Judge Henry approved the bill of the inn keeper and directed that the county commissioners of Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, issue moneys to defray these expenses. The court further finds that the prisoner is a pauper and remands the fine of $25."

THIS autumn a Chicago mother sent her son to a highly recommended private school, and when his first letter arrived she opened it with proud eagerness. Had her boy already begun to show the influence of his new surroundings, she wondered. The letter read:

"Dear Ma and Pa: I got here O. K. The dean aint a bad egg. Wish I was home this joint aint so hot. Your son, JOHN."

PERHAPS you've heard the story of the man who punctured a tire and was struggling with it by the side of the road when a preacher came along. As the unfortunate fellow strove in vain to get the tire off he swore violently.

"My good fellow, don't you know that blasphemy will be of no use?" said the preacher. "Prayer is the only thing that will help you."

Having exhausted his profane vocabulary, the motorist thought he might as well try prayer. Placing his hands together in the manner he had been taught in his childhood, he prayed that the tire would come off the rim. Then, concluding his plea, he again gave a pull at the tire. To his surprise it came off easily in his hands.

READING Felix Salten's "Florian, the Emperor's Stallion," a tale that, through its account of the lives of a horse and a stable boy re-creates a picture of the twilight of the long reign of Emperor Franz Joseph, brings to mind a vivid mental picture, a highlight of a short stay in Vienna. It was a visit to the Spanish Riding school to see the beautiful milk white horses, trained as probably no other horses in the world are trained, ridden by Austrian cavalry officers.

The scene comes clearly to mind. The high, wide, vaulted ivory hall with the portrait of Karl VI., father of Maria Theresa and founder of the school, at the back of the royal box surmounted by the arms of Austria; the pillared gallery and the tan-bark arena. The white horses, of Arabian and Spanish strains, from the stud farm at Lipizza, entering the ring, to do their difficult and beautiful steps. The levade in which the horse's forefeet are in the air, the piaffe, and above all the capriole in which the animal rises straight into the air, his back feet gracefully outstretched, looking like a winged horse from Olympus.

* *

WE visited, too, the former royal stables, to see the little gray colts that one day would be milk white, too, and perform in the arena, although not under the eye of an emperor and his court, as their ancestors did. . . . It was in these stables that Florian, the equine hero of the Salten book, spent his years as the most celebrated horse at the Spanish Riding school, and later as one of the emperor's carriage pair. It was these stables he left, ill-fed, his ribs showing, after the war and the fall of the empire, to earn his sorry keep as a truck horse—a White Beauty fallen on hard times.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The revival of Edward Sheldon's "Romance," a drama of great popularity twenty years ago, at the Blackstone theater last night, is a convincing demonstration of two interesting facts:

First, that Eugenie Leontovich is continuing her career as an actress of superior skill and profound charm, and is giving a character study that surpasses her notable contribution to "Grand Hotel."

Second, that Playgoers, Inc., a new Chicago firm of play producers, is capable of first-rate work.

In other words, this revival arrests the attention. It continues the tradition of Doris Keane, first interpreter of its central rôle, by presenting a star of equally commanding personality and much better technique, and it provides the drama with sound stage direction, the proper "period" atmosphere, and a satisfactory group of auxiliary players.

"Romance," written by Edward Sheldon when he was 27 years old, is the sort of thing that actresses with a flair for elaborate exotic characterization dream about. It deals with that most theatrical and flamboyant creature, the old school opera prima donna, Italian of origin, cosmopolitan in experience, and capable of loving many men, lightly or deeply according to her moods.

Many plays and novels have been written about this melodious bird of paradise whose tantrums and eccentricities make for comedy while her stormy emotional nature provides heart throbs. She is not as much in fashion as she used to be, in life or letters, but I suspect that she is still a popular figment of the imagination. "Romance" represented one of her high points in the drama of our times. Certainly it is not a great play, but it had a great vogue two decades ago, and is worth revival—when there is a Leontovich at hand.

The play betrays its age by its ingenuous attack upon its theme—a clergyman's heartbreak in a love affair with the wonderful, the enchanting, and formerly immoral Mme. Cavallini of the world's opera houses—rather than by its structure. It was a youthful piece of work, slightly outmoded at the date of its first staging [1913], but firmly based upon elements that gave it an international vogue.

Its prolog, which permits the play to be presented as a retrospective narrative, has been retouched into modernism; but the spirit of the work belongs in 1903 rather than in 1913. Still, it was an exciting drama of its type in the heydey of Doris Keane and it now proves to be an excellent vehicle for its present gifted interpreter.

Miss Leontovich, costumed sumptuously in the operatic glory of the 1880s [her crinoline ballroom gown fills a sofa built for three] is an entrancing picture. She is also decidedly real and genuinely touching in the various aspects of Mme. Cavallini's character.

She was handicapped last night by the hysterical conduct of a frightened young capuchin monkey—Mme. Cavallini's best-loved pet when the rector of St. Giles was not at hand. This nervous little simian was new to his job, and therefore a peril to the performance.

The Bohemians Will Sponsor Dance Recitals

Series Will Be Benefits for Musicians.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Bohemians of Chicago, a group of professional musicians organized for philanthropic as well as social purposes, and a group that already during its fairly short life has contributed about $11,000 to the relief of needy musicians, are sponsoring a dance series at the Auditorium this winter whereby they hope to raise another $3,000.

Plans for the series were launched late yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter of 1020 Lake Shore drive, who hospitably provided a cheery fire and sherry to those who attended the meeting. Rudolph Ganz, president of the Bohemians and chairman of the dance series special committee, told about the benefit in his own inimitable witty manner.

Mr. Ganz said that since only spectacular benefits were successful nowadays he and his confrères had thought of giving a concert with 32 local pianists playing simultaneously on 16 pianos, but that it had been decided that the dance series might be better, especially since the dance cannot be broadcast and must be seen to be enjoyed.

La Argentina Will Give First Program.

The first performance of the series will be La Argentina's first appearance in Chicago after an absence of two years. It will be given on Saturday night, Dec. 8. The second will be the première of Strawinsky's "Fire Bird" by the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe on Friday evening, Dec. 28; the third, on Friday evening, Jan. 18, will be given by Doris Humphrey, Charles Weidman, and their dance group, and the fourth and last on Friday evening, Feb. 22, by Clothilde and Alexandre Sakharoff.

To lovers of the dance the name La Argentina already spells all the enchantment of Spanish dance rhythms and clicking castanets for she has danced here several times before; the première of the "Fire Bird" will be one of the notable productions of the Ballet Russe, and Chicago is the only city in the United States that will witness this elaborate spectacle; Doris Humphrey is an Oak Park girl, and her partner is from Nebraska, so they are certain to be of interest to middle westerners, and the Sakharoffs are making their first American tour.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham is general chairman of the women's committee; Mrs. Ernest R. Graham is box chairman, and Mrs. Alfred Wolfe, whose father, Frederick Stock, is honorary chairman of the special committee, is the publicity chairman.

Frank P. Breckinridge is treasurer of the special committee which includes also as members, in addition to Mr. Stock, Mr. Ganz and Mr. Carpenter, Karleton Hackett, Raymond E. Durham, Felix Borowski, Henry E. Voegeli and Marx E. Oberdorfer. A large committee composed of men and women will assist in the sale of tickets.

Poole-Washburn Wedding on Friday.

Miss Barbara Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole of Lake Forest, and James Murray Washburn Jr., are to be married very quietly at 4:30 Friday afternoon in the chapel of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest. Only the immediate relatives will witness the ceremony which will be performed by the Rev. Herbert W. Prince.

A reception will follow at the residence of the bride's parents. Miss Nancy Poole, who will be at home from Sarah Lawrence college for Thanksgiving will be her sister's only attendant, and Herman Wilms will serve Mr. Washburn as best man. The bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Washburn, who recently moved to Lake Lure, N. C., will be here for the wedding.

Jane Lawrence to Be Bride Today.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of St. James' church Miss Jane Lawrence, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence, and Otto F. Schulz, son of Mrs. Otto Schulz, will be married at a quiet ceremony wit-

VETERAN SCHOOL TEACHER'S DEATH IS HELD ACCIDENT

Police Seek Driver Who Carried Away Purse.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest over Miss Florence Scully, 69 years old, 3922 North Keeler avenue, veteran Chicago teacher, who was fatally injured Sunday night when she was struck by an automobile in front of 5757 Irving Park boulevard.

John Wind, 1717 Fletcher street, driver of the automobile which struck Miss Scully as she walked around the rear of a street car, was released after the inquest. Irving Park police were asked to seek a motorist who took Miss Scully to the Belmont hospital, where death occurred. A bystander threw the injured woman's purse containing $200 into this motorist's car. It was not left with her at the hospital, attendants said.

Chicago Teacher 47 Years.

Miss Scully, for forty-seven years a teacher in the Chicago public schools, a sister of Former Alderman Thomas Scully, recently had been a teacher in the Glenwood School for Boys in Glenwood. She was credited with having organized the first school at the county jail in 1924 and helped Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb with their studies when they were held there for the murder of Bobby Franks.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 3918 Irving Park boulevard. Burial will be in Rosehill cemtery.

James R. Hayden, 65 years old, 4712 Central avenue, Western Springs, died of a fractured skull yesterday in the Berwyn hospital a few minutes after he was injured in an automobile collision at 47th street and Prescott avenue, Lyons. E. S. Jefferson, 59 years old, of Plainfield, Ill., driver of the other car, who was uninjured, was held by Lyons police for the inquest.

Death Toll Reaches 1,132.

Hayden's death and three others yesterday increased the Cook county traffic toll since the first of the year to 1,132. The other victims:

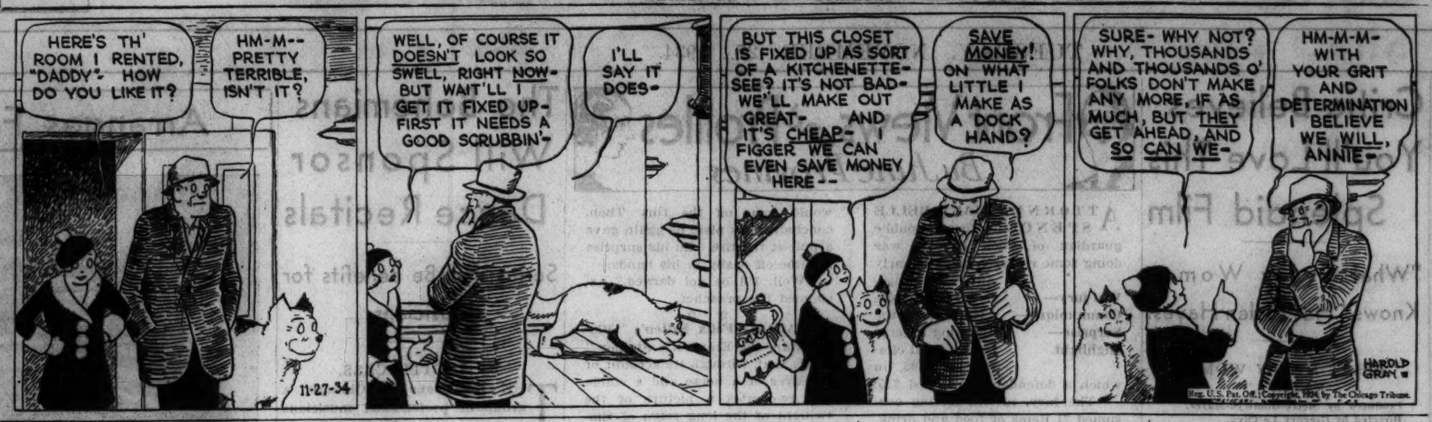
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Undaunted



ELIZABETH TRUE FUNERAL TODAY; Y. W. C. A. PIONEER

Funeral services for Miss M. Elizabeth True, 90 years old, for nearly fifty years treasurer of the Y. W. C. A., will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Interment will be at Graceland cemetery. Miss True died Wednesday at Springfield while visiting relatives.

Miss True's long service to the Y. W. C. A. was reviewed yesterday by Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, president of the association.

"When she began her service as treasurer there were only three Y. W. C. A.'s in Chicago," Mrs. Hodgkins said, "a boarding home at 288 Michigan avenue, a transient home at 362 West Jackson boulevard, and an employment bureau and dispensary at 184 Dearborn street. She used to walk to each of these and collect the money for deposit in a bank. In those days contributions sometimes took the form of groceries or house furnishings, and in her old reports we find listed such donations as 'six cans of corn, one sofa, one bedstead, a dozen sheets and pillow cases, and three young pigs.'"

BRITISH COLUMBIA SEA SERPENT WAS ONLY A SHARK

NANIMBO, B. C., Nov. 26.—(AP)—The sea serpent was only a shark, after all.

Dr. W. A. Clemens, director of the biological station here, today positively identified the remains of a sea monster found on Henry Island, south on Prince Rupert, B. C., as those of a basking shark. He said the mammal is frequently found in northern waters.

The discovery last week of the carcass by H. Sundstrom, a fisherman, led old timers to believe that perhaps it was the remains of one of the three serpentlike creatures which scores of observers have reported seeing in British Columbia waters.

William J. Burke Is Dead at 70 in Waukegan Home

William J. Burke, 70 years old, a retired farmer, died yesterday in his home, 405 Gillett avenue, Waukegan. Surviving Mr. Burke are his widow, Annie, and four children, Walter, William, Joseph, and Mrs. Frank Niemeyer of Lake Forest. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Anastasia church, Waukegan.

Cook county highway police carried on as usual during the fiscal year just ended, despite the fact that five months' pay for 1933 is still due them, according to the annual report of Chief William F. Collins submitted to Sheriff William D. Meyering yesterday.

Criminal and quasi-criminal investigations and arrests during the period compared favorably with other years, the report shows. Activity against traffic law violators showed an appreciable increase. There were 4,383 traffic arrests during the year ending Oct. 31, as compared with 4,005 during the previous year. Automobile deaths in the territory dropped to 83 as against 94 for the previous year.

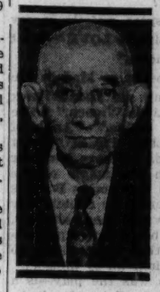
ROSWELL M. CLARK, HERO OF THE CIVIL WAR, IS DEAD AT 91

Roswell M. Clark, a veteran of the civil war, died yesterday at his home, 6650 Perry avenue. He was 91 years old.



ROSWELL M. CLARK

Born at Springfield, Ill., his parents brought him as a baby to Madison, Wis. At the outbreak of the war Clark enlisted at the age of 17 in the regular army and was assigned to duty in the 11th U. S. infantry. His most notable war exploit was his capture of the colors of the 12th Missouri confederate regiment. Clark donated the flag several years ago to the Wisconsin state museum at Madison.

On Oct. 15, 1865, he married Miss Algina White of Janesville, Wis. They started west in a covered wagon. Reaching McPherson, Kansas, they set up housekeeping in a sod house which Clark built. When the couple celebrated their 69th wedding anniversary last month, they laughed at the troubles of the depression when they recalled attempts to harvest a crop of grain. If a Kansas gale didn't blow away the seed, locusts or prairie fires destroyed the crop.

Clark later engaged in the manufacture of cutlery at Kansas City. Twenty years ago, after his retirement, he moved here with his wife and a daughter, Myrtle. They and three sons survive him. The other children are Addison, of Wichita, Kas.; Alvernon of Kansas City, and Rosroe, of Newark, N. J.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the chapel, 316 West 63d street. The body will be taken to Kansas City for burial.

Fried Chicken Debate Still Going Strong

Correspondent Boosts Corn Flour for Rolling.

"Two Mouths to Feed," a booklet containing recipes and suggestions for cooking for two, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Still come vibrations from that "a la McCutcheon" fried chicken recipe! This time it's a male who takes up the chorus. Mr. G. A. B. announces himself to be a "fifty year old bachelor cook" with a tip for John Mc. on his dipping and rolling. Says he:

"Here's one more suggestion for your 'a la McCutcheon fried chicken.' Use corn flour instead of wheat flour for the rolling. The quality of the gravy will be improved. In fact, there are frequent places in cookery where better results will be obtained by making this substitution."

Thanks, Mr. B. We'll try it!

By the by, have you decided upon the Thanksgiving day dessert? And is it to be pumpkin pie? I thought so! So here comes a suggestion for varying the old faithful and bringing it forth with all the old tingly flavor but with a fluffy new gown to bring it up to date. The answer—

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE.
With a Crum-Nut Crust

Filling—
- 2 tablespoons unflavored granulated gelatin
- ¼ cup cold water
- 1½ teaspoons mixed pumpkin pie spices
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups light brown sugar
- 2½ cups canned pumpkin
- 1 cup coffee cream
- 1 cup milk
- 2 egg yolks, well beaten
- 1-3 cup orange juice

Soak the gelatin in the ¼ cup water for 5 minutes. In the meantime, blend the spices smoothly with the 2 tablespoons of cold water. Add this paste, the salt, and the sugar to the pumpkin, mixing well. Add the cream, milk, egg yolks, and orange juice. Heat this mixture in a double boiler until almost scalding. Stir in the soaked gelatin and blend until thoroughly dissolved. Cool the filling, then pour it into the following prepared crust. Chill in the refrigerator until set. Serve cold with a border of whipped cream piped around the edge.

Crust for Pumpkin Chiffon Pie—
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1-3 cup light brown sugar
- 3 cups fine dry bread crums
- ¾ cup ground nut meats

Cream together the butter and sugar, then blend in the bread crums and the nut meats. Press the mixture firmly over the bottom and inner sides of a large pie tin, or over the bottom and one inch up the sides of a 10 inch spring form pan. Place in a slow oven [300 degrees F.] and bake for 15 minutes. Fill with the above pumpkin mixture.

But whether it's this pumpkin pie or another you already have cooked up in your mind's eye—add a grand cheese finish to the feast by topping the pumpkin with whipped cream blended with softened cream cheese. It's a tip worth tucking away.

The newest dodge [or maybe grandmother used it] for flavoring fruit cakes calls for the addition of chocolate. Also, I notice that on one of the ready-to-use fruit cake mixes, they suggest coffee as the combining liquid to be added to the contents of the package. Don't be a stick-in-a-rut. Give it a try!

The popularity of puzzle quilts has grown with amazing rapidity. They might even be considered more in vogue at present than they were years ago, if one is to judge by the large number of "puzzle" patterns being made. "Pullman puzzle" is a block especially suitable to an all-over pieced quilt, since the design itself creates an intriguing pattern on the completed coverlet.

Beauty Efforts Are Dictated by Men's Taste

Masculine Preference Also Factor in Dress.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Did you happen to see, in a recent issue of one of the smart fashion magazines, what men voted on as features in women of strongest appeal? You know the answers, if you did. If you didn't, then, after humorous comments were deleted, the vote stood for large mouths rather than small ones slim ankles, curved figures rather than straight, and eyes, beautiful eyes. I think the query put to the gentlemen questioned was as to what feature was first noticed by them.

Anyway, here you have a program on which to base an appeal campaign. That is, if you beautify to please the gentlemen. A vote among women about for whom they do their decorative work would be interesting, but probably would get us no further than the usual responses to whether women dress for men or for other women or for their own morale. It's pretty reasonable to assume that there's a man or men behind the makeup urge, let's say. Or, is it? Perhaps not! Perhaps it's the face that looks out from the mirrow pleading for a bit of color that can'e be refused. Or, maybe we women have so gotten the habit of paint and powder we feel undressed without it.

Take the reducing urge, then. A man may not be so importantly involved as woman's own distress on dress shopping days. I believe more figure remodeling has been prompted by dress sizes than by any other urge, when you find the 36 just won't meet, or the 38, and you're shunted over into the shop for large-sized women. Am I right? I've known dozens of women, after this experience, to scuttle home determined to get back into their favorite sized frock again. I know one right now who postponed the dress buying, determined that in four weeks she'd be back after it with the proper figure for it.

The large mouth preference indicated by the male vote is interesting and certainly modern in taste. The fine white teeth have done a great deal in popularizing the larger mouth.

A Light Touch in Handwriting Is One Sign of an Idealist

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1934: By Muriel Stafford.]

Idealism is a natural nobility of mind. People whose handwriting shows this trait are greatly to be admired. Money means little to an idealist as compared with other things.

A light pressure is invariably found in a truly idealistic handwriting. The upper loops of the letters "h" and "l" and "f" are always noticeably tall. The whole page seems to lack assertiveness as a rule, though occasionally you will find a progressive and busy welfare worker or an overworked clergyman whose handwriting shows initiative as well as idealism.

More idealists are impractical in a worldly sense, but their handwritings reflect happiness. If the handwriting droops with discouragement it is because of the writer's inability to live up to his or her ideals.

The capitals are simply and conventionally made, neither too large nor too small. These are people with gentle natures so that the letters are sometimes quite rounded at the top. Those who write this way are often loving, conscientious, and unselfish mothers.

Idealists must guard against being too perfect, if such a thing is possible. They are often so high minded that they cannot understand how any one could be otherwise. This is especially true if the handwriting lacks a sympathetic forward slant, as it may. Idealists do not always appreciate material needs because their minds are on the spiritual.

"My mother has plenty of money, but she never gives me a cent to spend!" exclaimed one irritated college boy. "She gives away thousands of dollars to charities and libraries, but she seems to hate to give me money for a new suit of clothes."

Poor boy! He could not realize that his mother was an extreme idealist who understood spiritual needs but not practical needs. Any virtue carried to an extreme can work unhappiness as surely as a fault.

GRAPHOLOGY COUPON
Your Handwriting Analyzed

Know your assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions. Obtain a personal graphology chart. Here are the rules:

1. Clip this coupon, attach a sample of handwriting and mail to Muriel Stafford, box 1539, Chicago Tribune.
2. Encose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Enclose a self-addressed STAMPED envelope, folded once.

Will you kindly analyze my handwriting

This is a typical idealistic handwriting. It shows culture and charm as well as spiritual aspirations. Notice the tall loops above the line and the light pressure. The terminals, or word endings, curve up in a gracious way, but the slant is not far toward the right. This is decidedly an impractical idealist and one possessed of fine qualities. She lives in a world of her own and doesn't always understand other people. This is her greatest handicap.

Effusions of Grownups Spoil Pretty Child

Parents Must Learn to Squelch Adulation.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Where did you get these lovely curls?"

"Are those eyelashes real—just let me see . . ." are only a few of the signs of admiration openly lavished on the pretty or beautiful little girl—or boy either, for that matter, though the latter slough it off more easily than the former. Sooner or later, with adoring friends foolish enough and parents not careful enough, that small girl will become self-conscious. And I know of nothing more utterly unlovely than to see a lovely child self-conscious.

In the first place, the parents will themselves avoid discussing the child's beauty or charming ways before her. There comes a time, to be sure, when a girl recognizes the fact that she is beautiful, though it by no means follows that the pretty child will be a pretty girl or woman. When that time comes, she can be guided to put the right valuation upon it. But not in little childhood, nor as the result of silly comments.

Next, the parents, when with other people can tactfully if possibly, forcibly if not, keep the conversation, when their offspring is present, on other subjects than the child and her charms of appearance. They can convey the idea that they do not want her to be the center of attention. People who are otherwise really intelligent need a little education in this respect, and will often accept it in the form of hints—or even plain-spokenness.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving sentence unjustly for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. Caermaen takes Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Stornack calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda, who is expecting a baby, leaves home and stays with friends of Caermaen, the Rawlings, in London. Her mother follows with a court order, placing Rhoda under her charge. Caermaen has his solicitor, Jarroman, start a private investigation. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where her son is born. The baby is left there when they return to London. Caermaen arranges to get Colin out of prison again for a few days. Rhoda flies with Colin to see their son. Her mother is at the aerodrome when they return and sees Colin. Her fear of scandal keeps her from turning him over to the police. Colin goes back to prison. Mrs. Cornboise arranges a visit to the prison to see Colin.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

THE MYSTERY CLEARED.

"Don't the men ever—try to escape?" Mrs. Cornboise asked the chaplain.

"One hears of it from time to time—from Dartmoor and Parkhurst. But I'm thankful to say that no attempt has ever been made to escape from Mardlehurst—at least since I have been here, and that is 25 years."

The mystery looked as if it were going to be insoluble. No prisoner had ever escaped from Mardlehurst. Yet the particular prisoner she had seen only a moment before had undoubtedly spent part of the previous week in Paris—had spoken to her at Croydon aerodrome.

"How very interesting!" gushed Mrs. Cornboise. "I know it must sound a very silly question, but how can you be sure of that? You have so many men here. If one were to slip away, isn't it possible that you might never know—or, at least, that you might not know for a long time?"

The chaplain permitted himself to laugh.

"Quite impossible! The men are under constant supervision while they are working. They are checked at the beginning of their work and at the end. And while they are in their cells they are checked every two hours, as the warders relieve each other."

"There is a new relief coming on now—and the men we have just seen on duty will have their dinner," he added.

They passed out into the courtyard, the chaplain protesting that he must be allowed to see Mrs. Cornboise to her taxi. There were more warders straggling across the courtyard. As one passed and saluted the chaplain Mrs. Cornboise caught her breath.

"O! I seem to know that face." She hesitated a moment and went on: "Of course, it can't be! But I could almost have sworn that was Capt. Caermaen."

"It was Capt. Caermaen," said the chaplain, "though, of course, he does not use his military title here. He is just an ordinary warder in training. He was sent to us from the R.A.F. We get a number of young men of that class. They become deputy governors. Would you like to speak to him?"

"I would rather!" she said quickly. "It seems rather unkind to pass him like that, just because he is a warder. But I hope it won't be a breach of prison discipline."

He turned round and called.

"Caermaen!"

"Caermaen turned, hurried up to the chaplain and again saluted.

"This is not a matter of duty, my dear fellow," added the chaplain in his most affable voice. "I think you and Mrs. Cornboise have met before."

Mrs. Cornboise was thinking back to that day when they had met at the Rawlings' cottage in London—was remembering Rhoda's air of knowing the young man a great deal better than she admitted. Already she had guessed a great part of the mystery. But if her guess were correct, she cared nothing about Caermaen—wished him neither well nor ill. To cross-question him in front of the chaplain would be to force a crisis."

"I believe you've forgotten me, Capt. Caermaen."

"Certainly not, Mrs. Cornboise!" he returned easily. "But you see I'm on duty here."

"Then I mustn't keep you. I only wanted to say 'how d'you do' and to tell you that we shall be delighted to see you any time you have the leisure to look us up."

Mrs. Cornboise took her leave of the very polite chaplain and got back into her taxi. Capt. Caermaen had been very clever and self-possessed, but she had not missed the flicker of dread in his eyes when he had come in response to the chaplain's order. Nor had he successfully concealed his surprise when she had merely spoken to him in terms of conventional politeness.

By 6 o'clock she was back in London.

She found Rhoda sitting in her room, mending some clothes. She came in, shut and locked the door. She intended to repay herself, in the next few minutes, for much that she had suffered at her daughter's hands.

"Hullo, mother! You must have had a gorgeous day in the shops."

"Hullo, dear!" Mrs. Cornboise went over to the dressing table, took Rhoda gently by both wrists and smiled down at her with a smile that made the girl shiver. "Such a clever little girl!" she mocked.

"What do you mean?" demanded Rhoda. "Why are you looking like that?"

"Now just let's see—just for the fun of the thing—whether you can tell me the truth, if you really try. Did that young man keep his promise to go back to prison?"

"Yes."

"How do you know?"

"O, I know he would! He promised me—and he'll keep his promise."

"He broke out of prison—some time last week, you said—and then he broke back again. Extraordinary conduct on the part of a convict, isn't it, to run back to prison! And don't you think it's very funny that none of the newspapers have anything to say about this remarkable convict?"

Fear clutched at Rhoda's heart.

"I think he slipped out without any one knowing he had gone; in fact, I'm sure he did," she said hastily.

"I didn't go shopping today, Rhoda," said Mrs. Cornboise. "I went to Mardlehurst prison. And I asked the authorities if it was possible for a prisoner to slip out without any one knowing—and then slip back again—and they proved to me that it was quite impossible."

"O——"

"Unless a warder did it all for him, Rhoda? Then, of course, it would be quite easy."

Rhoda clenched her hands. She must admit nothing and deny nothing, lest the denial itself be twisted into evidence against Jack Caermaen.

"I had quite an amusing time. I saw Colin Briarley and after that I met that charming young Capt. Caermaen. He looks quite nice in his dress as a warder." She waited, then drew on her imagination. "And afterward Capt. Caermaen and I had a little chat. He seemed to be rather afraid of me and in the end he told me exactly how it was done."

Rhoda sprang up, white lipped, and faced her mother.

"You have done that, have you!" she gasped. "Then you have shot your bolt, mother. There's nothing you can do now that I'm afraid of. I shall never speak to you again."

"My dear, dear child, what have I done! I have said good morning to Colin Briarley to make sure that he had kept his word. And I met Capt. Caermaen when I was with the chaplain and asked him to come and see us whenever he was in town."

"Then—then you didn't tell the authorities that Colin had taken Jack's place?"

"No, dear."

Possessiveness Can Ruin Son's Right to Marry

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It looks as if this is another "silver cord" mother bent on ruining a son's life. Allowing for the fiancée's possible prejudice, there still remains the fact that said son is 30 years old, and the mother's interest should be in his marriage, not in his continued bachelorhood.

The fiancée asks, "Should mothers interfere with love? Should a mother decide her son's future?" Then she explains that the man's mother and father have struggled to put the young man through college and into the profession in which he has achieved considerable recognition. Then, they met, the man and the girl. They fell desperately in love. But mother was always her son's pal before this girl entered on the scene. And she refused to relinquish her place. The son never did do anyth g in his life without first consulting his mother.

"Now he is in love, but his mother has decided that he should not marry. She has no objections to the girl's character or her social position. She is simply jealous of his attentions to any girl. What can a young man, who has been so closely attached to his mother, do for himself now?"

With thirty years of leaning on mother, being her close pal, can anything be done? We doubt it. We doubt it because, if the young man had the courage of his convictions, this whole problem would never have arisen. He would have married, mother's sanction or no. We're not without a certain sympathy for a parent who has given her every breath and thought for her boy, whose whole existence depends upon that boy of hers.

But, then, that's just been her bad judgment, also her failure to realize that a son's ultimate success is bound up with his marriage. No matter what she's done for him, what privations she may have suffered, she's still not the successful mother unless she wants him to pursue the normal desire to marry and found a home of his own.

Radio Revue.

Radio performers from Chicago stations will entertain tonight at St. Scholastica academy, 7416 Ridge boulevard, where a dance and card party will be held. The proceeds will be used for the chapel fund of the Sisters of St. Benedict. Helen Trent and Rube Appleberry of W-G-N are among the list of guest artists as are the Morin Sisters trio, Edward Davies, baritone, and Pat Flanagan.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

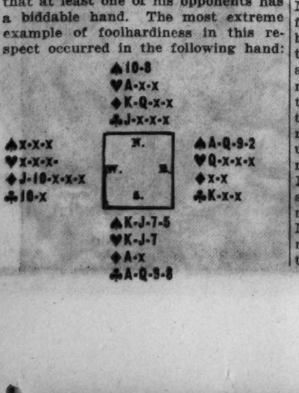
By P. HAL SIMS

DO NOT MAKE AIMLESS OVERCALLS.

Beware of making an overcall of an opponent's opening bid when you have only a four-card suit to bid. When vulnerable, and even when not vulnerable, you may well be offering your adversaries the opportunity to collect in penalties more than the value of a game. Their game may even be doubtful, but the penalty sure. Without a long suit in which to take refuge, either pass or possibly double if prepared to let your partner play the hand doubled in whichever of the unbid suits he may name.

Huge Penalties in Contracts for Only One Bid.

The most frequent bidding sequence which leads to a big set in a contract for one is when the bidding goes—one no trump [not a Sims no-trumper, you can be sure of that], double, pass, pass, pass. Down five is not uncommon under these conditions, and recently Wernher described to me a hand on which, partnered by Geoffrey Mott-Smith, the opponents were down six tricks vulnerable on just this bidding—and the no-trumper was not such a bad one, either, judging by auction standards. Nevertheless, I feel that there is much more excuse and sympathy due to the sufferer in these circumstances than when he incurs the risk after having been warned that at least one of his opponents has a biddable hand. The most extreme example of foolhardiness in this respect occurred in the following hand:



South, Johnny Rau, opened as dealer with a club. West passed. Wernher, North, bid a diamond. Now East, despite many warnings in the recent past, bid a spade. Double by South—pass, pass, pass.

It Was the Wrong Time to Incur a Risk.

In the first place, a Sims player had opened the bidding as dealer; his partner had made a response which might indicate a strong hand.

In the second place, East had enough in his hand to feel hopeful of defeating a slam if one should be bid.

In the third place, if the opponents should bid instead of doubling, a spade led by West would probably do more harm than good. A natural lead would be preferable.

A fourth consideration would be that Wernher and Rau can handle these situations effectively; it might be safer to select some other pair to which to offer such a chance, if one hoped to get away with something.

Down 2,000 Points.

Johnny laid down the ace of diamonds, then led a low heart, Wernher won with the ace and played the ten of spades. East held off, and now the jack of clubs was covered; the ace won and a second diamond lead put North in to lead spades again. East finessed, South won and played a spade back. Thus East made only two spade tricks, being finally compelled to lead away from the queen of hearts. Admittedly, East might have saved a trick in the play. My point is that this weak overcall involved a senseless risk, out of all proportion to the figures involved. The other three hands might easily be rearranged so that North and South could not even make a game, and yet one spade doubled might cost 1,400 points. Actually, the North-South hands are good for five no trumps. East conferred on them the equivalent of two rubbers.

nessed by relatives only. The Rev. Duncan Browne, assisted by the Rev. Charles Venable, will read the ceremony, and a small informal reception for the closest friends of the family will follow in the Lawrences' apartment at 190 East Chestnut street.

The bride will be attended by her sisters, Miss Mildred Lawrence, who will be married to Robert R. Harshe next spring, and Miss Barbara Lawrence, and Mrs. Elliot Goss, the former Lucy Stone, who has come from Waterbury, Conn., to be the matron of honor. Carl Schulz will serve his brother as best man and ushering will be two other brothers, George Henry Schulz and William Schulz.

Mr. Schulz and his bride will leave immediately after the reception for a wedding trip, and they will be at home after Jan. 1 at 2916 Pine Grove avenue.

Mirjane Strong Nuptials Today.

Another quiet wedding will take place a half an hour earlier this afternoon in Highland Park when Miss Mirjane Strong, daughter of Mr and Mrs. William Gillespie Strong, becomes the bride of Donald Kemmerer, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Kemmerer of Princeton, N. J. The Rev Samuel Chidester will read the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, 835 South Sheridan road, in the presence of relatives, and a small reception will follow at 5 o'clock.

Neither Miss Strong nor Mr. Kemmerer will have attendants. Mr. Kemmerer and his bride will go directly to Bethlehem, Pa., where the bridegroom is teaching at Lehigh university, and they will have their wedding trip during the Christmas holidays when they will go to Bermuda. Mr. Kemmerer's sister, Mrs. Erling Dorf; John Collins of Philadelphia and Mrs. Strong's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A Besley of Washington, D. C., are here for the wedding.

Another wedding that will take place in Highland Park shortly is that of Miss Dorothy Plant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marshal' Plant, to Lieut. Ralph Talbot III., son of Col. and Mrs. Ralph Talbot of Fort Leavenworth, Kas. The ceremony will be read at 8:30 p. m. Thursday night at the home of the bride's saunt Mrs. Cary Wood Thomas, on Linden avenue, with the chaplain at Fort Sheridan officiating.

Col. and Mrs. Talbot will be here for the ceremony, which will be a quiet one with just relatives and some of the officers and their wives at Fort Sheridan, including Gen. Frank C Bolles, commander of the 6th corps area, and Mrs. Bolles, present. Miss Elsie Plant and Lieut. Edward Schull will be the only attendants. Lieut Talbot and his bride will make their home at Fort Brady, Mich., where he is now on duty.

Reid-Chatillon Wedding Jan. 5.

One of the first important weddings of 1935—if not the first one—will be that of Miss Mary Elizebath Reid and Ralph F. Chatillon. This charming daughter of the Bryan S. Reids, who gave up a debut party for a wedding, and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lefens will be married on the afternoon of Jan. 5 at St. Chrysostom's church. Further details for the wedding are incomplete.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans Spalding are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Camilla, last Saturday at the Evanston hospital. The infant, who is a fifth generation Chicagoan, was named for the former Marian Holt's mother, Mrs. Charles S. Holt. She has an older brother, Francis, now five years old.

Mrs. Columbus Healy plans to leave the end of this week for her home in Seattle after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge of 209 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift and their daughter, Miss Marie Swift, and Miss Annie May Henry, sub-deb daughter of the Huntington B. Henrys, will be in Boston tomorrow night for the debut at the Somerset hotel of their relative, Miss Eleanor Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Swift of that city.

Miss Peggy Hambleton will leave today by motor with Mr. and Mrs. Dalies Frantz for a short stay in New York.

Many Parties for Princess Galitzine.

Every waking moment of this last week before Princess Galitzine leaves Chicago after a visit with her son, Prince Nicholas Galitzine, and her daughter, Princess Aleka Rostislav, is filled with party going, for every one who knows her seems to want to entertain for this delightful Russian woman before she leaves. She plans to depart next Monday to visit in Morristown, N. J., before sailing to Scotland. She is spending this week as the guest of the Barrett Wendells at 1260 Astor street.

Service Club May Reorganize.

At the Service club meeting yesterday morning at the Casino many plans for reorganization of the club and different ways and means of raising money were discussed. Mrs. John Dern, president, conducted the meeting.

Among the money raising plans discussed were those of taking over the first night of a Broadway production opening here as a benefit instead of giving the usual Service club revue, giving a series of tea dances, and giving a series of teas in private homes with welfare talks.

A rearrangement of dues was discussed also, and tentative plans made for making each member responsible for a sum of money to the treasury to be brought in by the sale of tickets to one of the revues, or by selling advertising space.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Lovely hands—kept that way with a rich, rather heavy almond cream that lives up to all its claims as a skin softener and whitener.

When a black jar of hand cream made its way to our overloaded desk we thought at the first glance that it could be moved right in to the just-another-hand-cream class. But we were wrong. It's one of the best we've ever tried.

It's an almond cream, white and rather heavy. It does not dry so quickly as most, but it is a better skin softener than most. Lately we've had a deep suspicion that some makers of hand creams have put a whale of a lot more thought into their fast drying virtues than their qualities as a treatment cream. Naturally a sticky cream isn't the thing to use during the day so some speed in drying is necessary — but we think there's a happy medium.

And this cream has struck it. At night when you are preparing to take off for the heavenly eight hours you can take the time to use it as a massage cream. It won't dry too quickly for that. Mold it in well, especially into the knuckles and the dry, cracking finger tips. You'll love the consistency and the almond smell of it, but best of all you'll love the fact that in the morning the skin of your hands will be satin smooth. There aren't many creams that will really work with one night's application, are there?

During the day, after the hand washings, this cream should be used in a very small quantity and worked in well. If you use too much you'll have to wait longer for the cream to disappear, but a little bit will fade away in no time—and it does a bang-up job of hand beautifying.

We've tried this cream on at least twenty women — in offices and in homes—and every one of them is enthusiastic about it.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Critic Praises 'Lohengrin' as a Great Show

Cast, Conductor Weber Score Success.

The cast:

King Henry	Chase Baromeo
Elsa	Maria Jeritza
Frederick	Carl Schlffeler
Ortrud	Eleanor LaMance
Lohengrin	Frederic Jagel
The King's Herald	Wilfred Engelman
Conductor	Henry Weber

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Putting its collective mind on the job of presenting an effective performance, the Chicago Grand Opera company did more last night. It put over a presentation of Wagner's most popular opera that was something in which to take pride this season or any other.

It was a good show from whatever angle one cared to approach it. Mme. Jeritza has sometimes been noted for the impulsive unexpectedness of her stage offerings. Here she was in the mood of restrained, chastened dignity, never stepping outside of her role, singing warmly, fervidly if you will, but always in the Wagnerian character. In fact, the best term that comes to mind for her performance is nobility.

And one imagines that Mr. Jagel has a mission in his operatic career. It is to sing every tenor role in the repertoire and make them all distinctive. I, for one, care to hear no better singing of Lohengrin than what he did in this performance. His voice is brilliant and full toned, yet brilliancy and power went to the expression of a character, consequently his personal success was the greater Likewise Miss LaMance, whose voice by nature is suave and carressing, succeeded definitly in making that same voice express the evil machinations of Ortrud. It was another success for her, and another example of the art one likes to find on the lyric stage Mr. Schlffeler, up to last night a stranger in our midst, will be so no longer. This reporter's ears have the evidence to prove that his engagement was a wise move on the part of the company. Mr. Engelman, in spite of a cold, dealt earnestly and well with the somewhat ungrateful music of the herald. Mr. Baromeo is one of the distinctive, fine, and thrilling artists of the present generation. Like Mr. Jagel, he sings all parts in all operatic languages, and is at ease in all of them. More than being at ease, he is distinctive.

But there was a climax to all these. The man who made the opera move, who gave it vitality, pace, expression, was Henry Weber on the conductor's stand. He has been a tower of strength at station W-G-N since he became its conductor this fall. Leaving the ethereal waves temporarily, he went back to his former associations in opera last night and proved himself an extraordinary conductor of Wagner. He was alert, he was alive, he was exact. He may also have been exacting, but his exactions were invariably in the direction of putting life into the score. Henry Weber is a personality in music.

TUNICS POPULAR

Tunics had it last night both behind and in front of the footlights of the Civic Opera house, for on the stage Lohengrin and the other men of the cast were wearing handsome, long ones, and in the audience many of the women wore shorter but just as handsome ones. Miss Janet Fairbank's stunning red and gold one came to her knees and below it showed a full navy blue taffeta skirt. Miss Jean Armstrong's black and silver striped taffeta tunic was shorter than Miss Fairbank's, but her skirt, of black taffeta, was just as full and swishy as Miss Fairbank's.

The usual fashionable Monday night audience was there to hear the first Wagnerian opera of the season, and a very enthusiastic one it was, too. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who occupies one of the main floor boxes in the center on Mondays, had with her last night her house guests, Miss Gertrude Stein and Miss Alice B. Toklas, and Thornton Wilder, Bernard Fay and John Palmer.

Among others in the main floor boxes were Mrs. Arthur Meeker—Mr. Meeker is recovering from the attack of bronchitis which he suffered recently but he was not well enough to attend the opera last night—Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, Mrs. C. Morse Ely and the Walter S. Brewsters.

One of the prettiest young women in the theater was Miss Fanny McPherson, debutante daughter of the Donald F. McPhersons, who was beaued by two young men. She wore her debut dress of ivory satin, made like a monk's gown, and vastly becoming to her serene type of beauty.

GRANT MALIGNED AS REPUBLICAN, SAYS McCORMICK

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Nov. 26.—Gen. Ulysses S. Grant has been maligned by "hereditary soldiers and the soldiers laboring under the hereditary tradition," Col. Robert R. McCormick of Chicago believes, because he was a Republican.

"But it was precisely because he was a Republican, a conscientious and conforming soldier of the republic," Col. McCormick adds in "Ulysses S. Grant, the Great Soldier of America," just published, "that he . . . survived the jealous attacks of his military superiors . . . and won the war."

Studies Grant's Exploits.

Col. McCormick, experienced in both politics and military affairs and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has for a quarter century studied the life and exploits of Gen. Grant.

His research has convinced him that Grant was a military miracle without precedent, a commander who never lost an objective, an almost magic rescuer of lost campaigns and a geneeral whose absence often left his subordinates helpless, but whose return resulted in sweeping aside the enemy.

As one of the reasons why Grant has been the victim of professional soldiers, Col. McCormick cites his remark to the crown prince of Germany, in the course of Grant's trip around the world.

"I'm More of a Farmer."

"The truth is," he quotes Grant as saying, "I am more of a farmer than a soldier. I take little or no interest in military affairs. I never went into the army without regret and I never retired without pleasure."

"If such a man should be accepted as great," Col. McCormick says, "all the structure of ancestry and professionalism, as well as the outward manifestations of bearing, stride, speech, and tinsel with which traditional militarism has built up and maintained its ascendance, would collapse.

"The pretensions of this upstart must be cradle killed, and whatever laurels must be conceded to champions in this war among Republicans awarded to a more conventional soldier.

Lists 10 Generals.

"Such a one was easily found. Robert E. Lee . . . was born as nearly an aristocrat as is possible to an American."

Col. McCormick points out that the charge of political influence was used too much in Grant's case and is not a "bar sinister" after all.

He lists 10 generals who would certainly be among the world's greatest —Alexander, Gustavus Adolphus, Charles XII, Frederick the Great, Napoleon, Hannibal, Cæsar, Marlborough, Wellington, and Von Moltke, and says none rose to command by demonstrated merit.

Summarizes His Achievement.

Grant's military achievement is summarized thus:

"In the west Grant came to an army in embryo, opposed to another of the same caliber. Organization had to be improvised; leaders had to be found. In these equal fields he towered over friend and foe. He went east to find an army bound up by mental and governmental red tape; he had to oppose a foe fired and freed by revolution.

KING CAROL'S SON WINS $10 PRIZE FOR ARTICLE ON COLUMBUS

As this is the first money he ever has earned, the crown prince will keep his bank note as a souvenir.

PERU SMASHES REBEL PLOT; 220 SEIZED BY TROOPS

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 26.—(AP)—A revolutionary plot in three parts of the nation died aborning last night, the government revealed today in announcing the arrest of 220 rebels. The interior department said all is quiet throughout Peru after discovery and prompt action of the plots at Lima, Hunacayo, and Ayacucho. President Oscar Raimundo Benavides said the plot was the result of "misleading political passions."

The official bulletin discloses the plot was the result of several weeks of revolutionary activities which the government watched closely. Search of those arrested revealed the existence of "operations orders" stating the movement would be carried out simultaneously in Lima and several of the provinces. Dispatches from Huancayo said 25 men attempted to seize the police station. Troops resisted and several shots were fired. The prefect, Buckingham, was wounded during this volley and two others were killed and two wounded.

VOTE STANFORD AS COAST TEAM IN ROSE BOWL

May Invite Pitt or Alabama.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Stanford university, undefeated champion of the Pacific Coast conference, yesterday was the unanimous choice of the conference committee of ten members to represent the west in the New Year's day intersectional football game in Rose Bowl at Pasadena. This choice was freely predicted by fans throughout the country because of the outstanding record of the Cardinals, but no such unanimity of opinion will be found during the discussion of Stanford's probable opponents.

Stanford has the right now to name its opponent and to conduct all arrangements for the game. If it were possible, Minnesota would be the choice on the basis of its great record of eight consecutive victories, but the Pacific conference has learned from its experience in other years that the western conference rule against post-season games means just what it says.

Break Rule Twice.

The only occasions on which conference teams have been permitted to break this rule occurred in 1931, the year of the five game Big Ten charity series, and in 1921, when Ohio State appeared in the Rose Bowl contest and was defeated by the University of California, 28 to 0.

The conference rule might have been changed before this except that the athletic directors and football coaches, who probably can muster a majority in favor, have no authority. The rule was passed and is maintained in force by the faculty committee of the conference. Otherwise, Michigan might have sent one of its great elevens in its championship years and certainly Minnesota might accept a proposition this year. But Frank McCormick, athletic director, and Bernie Bierman, coach, are in accord that there is no use raising false hopes among the alumni and fans who believe that Minnesota is the greatest team in the nation.

Princeton Still Out.

A year ago, when Columbia formally was named as the eastern team to oppose Stanford at Pasadena, there was conversation concerning the availability of Princeton, then undefeated. This same situation might have followed again this fall except that Yale whipped Princeton. However, it still is true that Princeton, by agreement with Yale not to engage in a post-season contest, is equally as inaccessible to selection as is any member of the western conference.

With Minnesota out of the running, and Princeton eliminated by reason of defeat, it would seem that Stanford should choose Alabama on the basis of its undefeated record, provided of course that the Crimson Tide can defeat Vanderbilt Thursday in its final game. Alabama, with this victory, will be the only other major undefeated and untied eleven in the country. Alabama's record to date follows:

Alabama, 41; Mississippi State, 0.
Alabama, 13; Tennessee, 6.
Alabama, 20; Georgia, 6.
Alabama, 34; Kentucky, 14.
Alabama, 40; Clemson, 0.
Alabama, 40; Georgia Tech, 0.

The criticism that shouldn't enter into the matter of choice but will, is that an eastern team, such as Colgate or Pittsburgh, might draw better. Another criticism is that Alabama has played only a southern schedule. In other words, it has not defeated an intersectional rival of importance. In rebuttal Alabama might present its victory over Georgia, which whipped Yale, and point out Tennessee's 1 point defeat by Fordham. Alabama defeated Tennessee.

Pitt's Record Poor.

Eastern sports writers seem agreed that Pitt or Colgate should be named. Against Pittsburgh is its record in other Rose Bowl games when the Panthers were badly beaten. Colgate has a clear record except for a 10 to 7 licking by Ohio State. Pitt, of course, was beaten, 13 to 7, by Minnesota. Either team might be acceptable to Stanford with Pitt in the lead because of drawing power. Pittsburgh's victories over Southern California, 20 to 6, and Navy, 31 to 7, lend support to the theory of Pitt power. The triumph over Navy came on the heels of the 10 to 6 victory by the Midshipmen over Notre Dame and the Irish last Saturday defeated Army. All of which is in Pitt's favor.

Columbia might be chosen despite defeat by Navy, for Columbia's victory over Yale and other victories might offset this reverse. More in particular, if Columbia is named Stanford then would have opportunity to get even for last year's defeat by the Lions. This angle might be the best gate attraction possible.

Stanford is expected to name its opponent by the end of this week.

Maloney, Former Boxer, Joins Miami Police Force

Miami, Fla., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Jim Maloney, who whipped some of the best heavyweights of his day, today held down another corner—in a policeman's uniform. Maloney, whose last big fight was in Boston the night he defeated Primo Carnera, has joined the Miami police department and has been assigned to traffic duty.

Hawks Battle Bruins Tonight for Hocky Lead

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The world champion Chicago Blackhawks and the Boston Bruins, who clashed in Chicago Sunday night, much to the distress of the latter, who lost 4 to 0, will play here tomorrow night. The teams are tied for the leadership of the American division of the National Hocky league, with eight points each.

The Bruins returned to their home port somewhat astonished at the treatment accorded them by the Chicago champs. They had heard about the ruthless 5 to 0 licking the Blackh vks suffered at the hands of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the Chicago home opener a week earlier, and although the Hawks subsequently shut out St. Louis, 1 to 0, the Bruins were confident of running over the Hawks in their first meeting of the season.

Gottselig Makes Trip.

The Boston management has been told that Clem Loughlin, manager of the Hawks, is en route with 14 players, including Johnny Gottselig, who was severely injured about the head and face in the closing minutes of Sunday night's game in Chicago. Doc Romnes, Leroy Goldsworthy, Joe Starke, and Tom Coulter did not leave Chicago with the team.

Romnes, who was a holdout until late last week, has not been reinstated. That is the principal reason he did not go east with the team, although it also is desired to give him some skating practice before he is inserted in a lineup, even should his suspension be lifted forthwith.

Meet Americans Next.

After they have concluded their business in this city the Hawks will go to New York where, on Thanksgiving night, they will meet the Americans, who are all pepped up about their Sunday night victory over their fellow townsmen, the Rangers.

One notable feature of the National league season to date is the absence of ties. Last year there was an epidemic of deadlocks, but in the twenty-eight games played in the league this season not one has come out even.

*Phantom Tackle Laughs * * * Kelly Calls Yale Scores*

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 26.—(AP)—The "phantom tackle" of Kansas university who helped defend the mid-west football title against Missouri in 1899 told today why he "disappeared" after the game instead of going back to the Lawrence campus to the hero's welcome that awaited him. Now he's going back—for the Kansas-Missouri game Thanksgiving.

"They said I didn't know anything about football until that season in Kansas. Well, maybe not, but I had played for five years at West Virginia university and on a professional team in Latrobe, Pa.

Yost Sends For Him.

"One year at West Virginia I was captain of the team, and two years I played side-by-side with Fielding Yost. And Yost was coaching the Kansas team when I went out there. Sure, I knew he was there; he sent for me."

Krebs was a sensation in that Kansas-Missouri game and his disappearance caused a furore that has built about him a tradition of mystery.

"Disappeared?" he asked with a grin. "I don't know what you mean. After that game in Columbia, Mo., I just caught a train and came home to the job that was waiting for me.

Just a Farm Boy.

"At Kansas, I matriculated as a farm boy from somewhere in Colorado—I don't remember exactly where, but some hick place. I had to be from somewhere, didn't I?

"I went out for the team, and Yost put me on the scrubs. I just stumbled around and when the ball came to me I'd be awkward, let it hit my chest and bounce off.

Quickly there followed the Nebraska and Washburn games which Kansas won by big margins. Then the big game—Missouri, for the title. Kansas won, 34 to 6.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond, Yale's head football coach, knew all the time that the Blue eleven would defeat Dartmouth, Princeton, and Harvard this season—a mysterious "Mr. Kelly with a green necktie from Chicago" had told him so.

"What's more," asserted Pond today, "he even told me the scores by which Yale would win from Princeton and Harvard—and we did. Here are the telegrams to prove it."

Wears Green Hat.

"I don't know much more about him," said Pond. "He isn't any relation to Larry Kelley, the sophomore end, and he wore a green hat and necktie the few times I saw him. I met him through Bill Webster, former Yale football captain, the day before the Dartmouth game.

"All he said was, 'Let me see the Yale team practice, and you'll beat Dartmouth. I'm the seventh son of a seventh son and I bring everybody I like good luck'."

Yale triumphed over Dartmouth the next day, 7 to 2, as Kelly watched the game from a seat near Pond.

Kelly Comes Through.

"I didn't see or hear from Kelly just before the Princeton game, when Webster told me his friend was in Chicago," said Pond. "I asked Webster to beg Kelly to come east for our game with the Tigers.

"The next I knew I was handed a telegram in our dressing room at Princeton with the message: 'I'm the seventh son of a seventh son, and you can't lose and the score is—7 to 0.'

"Last Friday, just when I was on the verge of a nervous breakdown, I received a message from Mr. Kelly which read: 'Let's make it two sevens today, wishing you lots of luck.'"

LINDBLOM-LEO CROWD SATURDAY MAY HIT 60,000

Public and Catholic Prep Champions to Meet.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Andy Pilney, Will Shakespeare, Jack Buckler, and their respective associates may have had 80,000 folks in to see them play last Saturday in their game at Yankee stadium, but that gathering, the largest crowd of the collegiate season, will not have much on the Army-Notre Dame battle of the Chicago high school season, which brings together the Lindblom and Leo elevens at Soldiers' field this Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

Ticket sales yesterday indicated a crowd of between 50,000 and 60,000 for this most important battle of the local prep season, which matches the champions of the Chicago Public and Catholic High School leagues. The game was assured of an attendance of at least 25,000 several days ago, when that number of student tickets, selling at 25 cents each, was distributed among the various schools of the two leagues. There's little doubt but what all of those 25,000 will be taken by the supporters not only of Leo and Lindblom, but of other schools as well.

Expect a Sellout.

More than 20,000 of the regular reserved tickets for the general public, selling at one dollar each, have been sold, and there is every prospect of a sellout before the game, in which event officials plan to have a batch of special tickets printed.

Increasing interest in the game has more behind it than the natural student fervor at the idea of an inter-league game. Whereas the revenue from the great majority of games is returned to the participants for the construction and maintenance of their own stadia and for such items as the upkeep of minor sports, the proceeds of Saturday's game will have a far more commendable destination—the needy children of Chicago. The game is being sponsored by Mayor Kelly as part of Chicago's Own Christmas benefit, and the anticipated proceeds of $50,000 will be used to buy warm clothing for the kids in question.

Series Is Even.

Saturday's game will not be the first bringing the two titleholders together, four other battles of this type already having been waged. The series was inaugurated in 1927 when Mount Carmel of the Catholic league defeated Schurz, city league champion of that year, 6 to 0. In the following year, a great Tilden team built around Jim Larkin and Dick Lutz set down De Paul's champions, 12 to 0. No games were played then until 1931, when Harrison Tech, headed by Andy Pilney, crushed Mount Carmel, 44 to 6. The latter came into its own last year when it defeated Harrison, 7 to 0. Thus, the 1934 game will be in the form of a rubber contest.

3 NOTRE DAME STARS TO BE OUT OF U. S. C. GAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Notre Dame football players were given a chance to rest their battered bodies today. Practice for the Southern California game will start tomorrow.

The price the Irish paid for the Army victory is rather high. Jack Robinson, George Melinkovich, John Michuta, and possibly Fred Solari, are not likely to play in the Southern California game. Andy Pilney, Bill Shakespeare and Bill Smith suffered minor injuries.

Twenty five students who slept through the time given them to greet the team were thrown in the lake this morning. Walsh hall sleepers barricaded themselves and the duckers laid siege, which ended when classes were resumed at 10 o'clock. More ducking is expected. The cold water is calculated to revive the lethargic Notre Dame spirit, so caustically described by alumni.

Mickey Walker Defeats Littman in 10 Rounds

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, former world welterweight and middleweight boxing champion, tonight won the decision over Tait Littman of Cudahy, Wis., after 10 rounds. Walker weighed 161 pounds and Littman 162½.

In the Wake of the News

SILVER FOOTBALL.

WITH the conference season ended, players on the various squads within the next week or ten days will select their candidates, one from each eleven, for THE TRIBUNE'S eleventh annual Silver Football, awarded to the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team during the season.

This honor, perhaps the greatest in the conference, is keenly sought. It is determined by a board of award consisting of 23 members. These are the Big Ten coaches, ten conference officials, Commissioner John L. Griffith, Wilfrid Smith, and Harvey T. Woodruff. Each member indicates his first and second choice with two points allotted for first and one point for second. Total number of points decides permanent possession of the sterling Silver Football, actual size, which is mounted on an ebony base, on the front of which is a silver design engraved with appropriate data.

In addition to the Silver Football, which becomes absolute property of the winner, are ten white gold footballs awarded to the ten boys honored by their teammates. These footballs are watchfob size, similar in general to those given members of championship squads by their athletic departments. Winner of the Silver Football is included in this list because the chief trophy, of course, is much too large to be worn.

As soon as the ten candidates for the Silver Football are named, secret ballots will be sent the board of award and the result announced as soon thereafter as possible.

"The Flying Trapeze."

[With apologies to Walter O'Keefe.]

Jack Beynon, Les Lindberg, the Flying Trapeze;
Ohio and Army and more besides these Succumbed to the Flying Trapeze.

They went up to Wisconsin the Badgers to tease,
Jack Beynon, Les Lindberg, the Flying Trapeze,
But those pesky Badgers had other ideas—
Plop! Went the Flying Trapeze.

LINDBERG ILLINI PICK; BADGERS HONOR KUMMER

Galbreath and Davis New Captains.

Two Western conference schools, Illinois and Wisconsin, last night selected their most valuable football players in the competition for The Tribune's Silver Football. Captains for 1935 also were named. The players honored:

Illinois: Most valuable, Les Lindberg. Captain, Chuck Galbreath.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special]—Les Lindberg, the "Flying Swede" of the University of Illinois football team, tonight was elected the most valuable player of the 1934 season by his teammates at the annual dinner given in honor of the squad by the Champaign Rotary club. Lindberg now becomes eligible for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE trophy, awarded to the player in the Big Ten adjudged most valuable to his team.

LES LINDBERG.

Charles [Chuck] Galbreath, tackle, was elected captain of next year's eleven. Galbreath, a junior from Tuscola, Ill., was probably the smallest tackle on a major university team in the country, weighing 177 pounds and standing 5 feet 9 inches.

He's an Iron Man

Lindberg, a junior from Lockport, Ill., has played two years for the Illini and has been a big factor in the successes which they have won in these seasons. Les is a rangy lad of more than six feet, and has a pompadour haircut that has led his mates to christen him the 'Baron' as they allege the bristling tonsure is reminiscent of the style affected by the nobility of the old world.

He is one of the iron men of Bob Zuppke's team. He played every minute of the major games against Ohio State, Michigan, Army, Wisconsin, Northwestern and Chicago.

He is a triple threat performer who runs, kicks and passes. Last year he was ranked as one of the three best punters in the Big Ten along with Regeczi of Michigan and Kabealo of Ohio State.

Think He's Best.

This year his punting improved and the Illini think his claim to supremacy in the conference can be substantiated. He added placing to distance this season and against Chicago placed the ball out of bounds beyond the reach of the dangerous Jay Berwanger.

Lindberg is one of the fastest backs on the squad and has many long runs to his credit. Against Northwestern this year his long dash paved the way to a touchdown that decided a close battle. He is equally good in line attacks and off tackle smashes.

This year Zuppke developed his passing ability and he shared the throwing responsibility with the deft Jack Beynon. He threw to Beynon over the goal line for Illinois' first touchdown against Ohio State and to Waller for a touchdown over the Northwestern goal.

On Basketball Squad.

Lindberg also has ability in basketball and was a member of the squad last season although he did not become a regular. He intends to be a candidate again.

Douglas R. [Gaga] Mills, former all-around athlete at Illinois and coach at Joliet High school, has been appointed to the staf of the Illinois athletic department, Athletic Director George Huff announced tonight.

Mills will assist in coaching football, but whether with the varsity or freshman squads has not been decided. He also will assist Coach Craig Ruby in varsity basketball, and will have instructional duties in the courses in physical education.

HONOR KUMMER, DAVIS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Milton Kummer, senior guard from Sheboygan, Wis., tonight was named by his teammates as the player most valuable to Wisconsin in the football season just closed. Kummer thus becomes eligible for consideration for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Silver Football award given annually to a Big Ten player.

The Badgers also named Ray Davis, Hamden, Conn., junior guard, as captain for 1935 at a meeting of the squad which preceded the annual football banquet. He succeeds Jack Bender, also a guard.

Davis Frosh Leader.

Davis is a non-fraternity man and prepped at Hilton academy, Stamford, Conn. He was captain of the 1931 Wisconsin freshman team. Davis played in 1932, then dropped out of school for a year. He was not a regular this season.

Kummer, who weighs 173 pounds, turned in exceptional performances in the Illinois and Minnesota games. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

MOONLIT NIGHT DOES NOT HELP IN DUCK HUNTING

BY BOB BECKER.

When the weather cleared up last week-end and the moon was able to shine on sloughs, ponds, and bayous of the Illinois river, it didn't help in duck hunting, according to reports from hunters. As is always the case during the full of the moon in November, the educated ducks feed by moonlight and then do little flying or decoying during the day, especially if the weather is pleasant.

On Saturday we were in a blind on Cuba Island, the hunting preserve owned by L. H. Barkhausen, Chicago, and located along the Sangamon river. It has much acreage consisting of open, flat marsh and also considerable timber. When the Sangamon river rose this fall it sent the water level way back into the marsh, so that ducks could light among the weeds and small willows where, in former years it was absolutely dry.

Located in Flat Marsh.

Our blind was located in this flat marsh filled with smart weed and other food plants. And how the mallards and pintails do like this big, open area, where the water is a couple of feed deep in most places!

We saw the sunrise Saturday morning from a seat in our duck boat, so we had a good chance to observe the early morning flight following a clear, cold night. With Jim Offield handling a paddle in the prow of the boat, we pushed through the marsh around 6 o'clock in the morning, our boat loaded with block decoys, cameras, three hen mallards, or Susies, and all the shells and guns needed for the morning hunt. The boat was white with frost because the temperature had dropped to 26 degrees the night before.

Ducks Are There First.

Although we thought we were getting into the marsh rather early, most mallards already had gotten out when we pushed our way east into the open water area, then followed a narrow, open slough or draw to the blind located in a clump of willows.

We could see a few flocks of birds silhouetted against the purple and gold sunrise sky, but the big flocks that had come into the slough the evening before had enjoyed a good feed by moonlight and then checked out when it was light enough to use their compasses.

Although it was pretty chilly out there in the marsh before the sun was up, the beauty of that sunrise more than repaid us for piling out of bed at 4:45 a. m. and hurrying into the blind.

The sky was so clear that the changing colors of the eastern sky were reflected in the water. All birds on the wing seemed to be flying around with the idea of showing us how beautiful they were, either vanishing into or coming out of the bright colors in the eastern sky.

SPEARS TO TALK AT AUGUSTANA TEAM BANQUET

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A civic banquet with Dr. Clarence Spears, present Wisconsin coach, who directed Minnesota's team when Shorty Almquist, Augustana coach, starred for the Gophers several years ago, as the speaker, has been planned in honor of the Norse eleven which claims the Little Nineteen title with six victories and no defeats or ties.

It will be held Dec. 5 by the Rock Island senior and junior chambers of commerce. Spears, who won all-American honors as a guard at Dartmouth, coached at Oregon when he left the Big Ten, but returned to the conference in 1933 and has been in charge of Wisconsin's football fortunes since.

SOUTH BEND PREP TEAM LEAVES FOR N. Y. GAME TODAY

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Twenty-two members of the Central High school football squad, headed by Coach Elmer H. Burnham, will depart tomorrow for White Plains, N. Y., for a Thanksgiving day game with that city's undefeated eleven. Two years ago Central and White Plains fought to a 7 to 7 tie.

White Plains completed its eight game Westchester county conference schedule undefeated last Saturday by beating Yonkers Central, 46 to 0. Central of South Bend closed its regular conference season undefeated and last Friday night whipped Whiting, 20-0, for the Northern Indiana High school conference championship.

The Central squad will stop at Buffalo, N. Y., tomorrow night, traveling to Syracuse Wednesday for a workout on Syracuse university's football field. The squad will arrive in New York Wednesday night and will stay at the Commodore hotel.

GENO SALVATORE IS DEFEATED BY FRED CHYNOWETH

John Mirabel beat Willie Dudlak [4].
Eddie Stiegel beat Mickey O'Shea [4].
Phil McQuillen beat Eddie Ward [4].

Mather Whitehead Elected Yale Football Captain

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Mather Kimball Whitehead of Westfield, N. J., was unanimously chosen captain of next year's Yale football eleven for next season by the twenty-three players who earned their right to vote by taking part either in the games against Princeton and Harvard.

Art Sykes and Adolph Wiater Fight Tonight

Two bouts at 10 rounds each will head the boxing show tonight at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, and Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., will clash in one. The other matches Frank Battaglia and Karl Ogren, Chicago middleweight fighters.

The meeting with Wiater will be Sykes' first effort since his unsuccessful attempt to defeat Joe Louis at the Arcadia, Oct. 24. He hopes to be able to whip Wiater and start a new winning streak. Sykes scored four consecutive knockouts and then lost a 10 round decision to King Levinsky prior to facing Louis. Wiater may ruin the Elmira boxer's hopes, however. He extended Louis for 10 rounds Sept. 26 whereas the latter knocked out Sykes after a hard battle.

Ogren will be making his first appearance in six months. Ill health necessitated the rest. After several weeks' drill Ogren believes he is in superb physical condition again. Battaglia knocked out George Black in his latest start Nov. 9. Supporting contests will involve Eddie Carroll and Al Pahl at 6 rounds and Milt Aron and Eddie Chinetti at 4.

Joe Louis, Detroit 190 pound boxer, went 6 rounds yesterday with two sparmates in preparation for his 10 round bout with Charley Massera at the Coliseum Friday. Observers predicted Massera's body punching will be a factor in the result and if absorbed by Louis he probably will win. Chairman Joe Triner and Packey McFarland of the Illinois boxing commission predict the match will be Louis' hardest. They contend that a decisive victory for the Detroit fighter will place him alongside King Levinsky, Steve Hamas, and Art Lasky as a challenger for Max Baer's title.

The state athletic commission yesterday sanctioned a 4 round exhibition bout between Mike Gibbons, former middleweight star from St. Paul, and his 20 year old son, Jack Gibbons, at Midway arena Monday. . . . Everett [Young] Rightmire arrived yesterday from Sioux Falls, S. D., to begin preparations for his 10 round main event with Tommy Paul of Buffalo, N. Y., at the Midway. . . . An opponent is being sought for Frank Sagilio at Cicero stadium on Dec. 14. . . . An amateur card is scheduled tonight at the Duncan Y. M. C. A., 1515 West Monroe street.

Hans Birkie, New York, and Joe Louis have been paired for a windup conflict at Detroit Dec. 14. . . . Ray Steele and George Tragos, heavyweight wrestlers, are booked to meet at Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7. . . . Other wrestling programs will be presented at Peoria, Dec. 5 and Quincy, Dec. 11. . . . Ray Pelloy, veteran California 160 pounder, has been suspended for 60 days. . . . Chick Rice has been ordered to appear before the commission Monday to help iron out a managerial snarl between Duke Barry and his welterweight charge, Jack Elverrillo.

Champion Max Baer and his party have delayed opening an exhibition tour for a week. . . . Max is to commence workouts this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium. . . . Harry Landfield of 3159 West Ainslie street is a brother of the late Kid Herman and not his father as reported Sunday. . . . Bob La Monte, west side welterweight, expects to box Sherald Kennard or Dick Demeray at Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 18. F. M.

Beal Battles O'Hanion to Six Round Draw

Micky Beal and Oscar O'Hanion fought a six round draw last night in the feature bout at the Midway arena. In the six round semi-windup, George Van Derheyden beat Johnny Fitzpatrick. Nester Bruggman beat Young George Dixon in four rounds, and Eddie Jackson beat Jackie Dallas. Frankie Keevil won a four round decision over Louis Maseca in another bout.

Brown Is Rated Strong Contender in C. Y. O. Final

One of the favorites in this year's finals of the annual Catholic Youth Organization amateur boxing tournament is Johnny Brown, 118 pounder from Holy Angels parish. Johnny, whose development since he won the novice crown last year has been the talk of trainers and officials at the C. Y. O. gym, is a 19 year old Italian youngster.

Brown holds the distinction of being the only one of the 32 finalists to qualify for the championship bouts without flinging a single glove. In the finals at the Stadium Dec. 5 he will meet as formidable an opponent as could be found at his weight—the Central A. A. U. bantamweight champion, Larry Strong. Strong showed up impressively in beating his opponents in the quarter-final and semi-final rounds of the tournament. Brown, who has not lost to a Chicago boy since he first put on a pair of gloves, will be sure to give Strong a formidable battle.

Brown first came to national prominence in the amateur field when he lost in the finals of the 1933 Golden Gloves tournament to Jess Levels of Cleveland in the 112 pound division and later was chosen on the Inter-City team which fought New York.

The 32 C. Y. O. finalists will be guests tonight at a banquet to be given by the Boston store, which is sponsoring this year's C. Y. O. tournament. The banquet will be held at the Boston store.

Along with the 32 finalists present will be members of the C. Y. O. staff, including judges, referees, timekeepers, and others connected with the boxing tournament.

Mrs. Raymond Again to Head Women's Golf

Mrs. Howard D. Raymond, Evanston, yesterday was reëlected president of the Women's Western Golf association at a meeting held at the Chicago Athletic club.

Several changes also were voted in the bylaws, including one by which foreign players in this country may compete in major tournaments at the invitation of the executive committee. Under the old regulations the junior tourney was limited to those under 18 years of age who had not competed in any other major tournament sponsored by the association.

The new listing of par 5 holes is 376 to 550 yards; par 6 is for more than 550 yards.

Confirmation also was made of the awarding of three tournaments next year. Westmoreland Country club will hold the junior; Northmoor of Highland Park will have the 72 hole medal play Derby, and Westwood club, Cleveland, gets the blue ribbon event. Only the open remains to be placed.

DEAL FOR SALE OF CARDINALS IS OFF, RICKEY SAYS

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said tonight he was satisfied that negotiations toward sale of the club to Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil man, had collapsed.

Rickey would not explain his opinion, other than to say recent telephone conversations with the wealthy Ponca City man had indicated the deal was at an end. Wentz, who two weeks ago conferred with Sam Breadon over the purchase of the Cardinals, announced at the close of those conversations that the purchase would not take place, but subsequent developments gave rise to a belief the sale was still in prospect.

BEARS GO INTO FINAL WEEK IN STRONG POSITION

Even Break with Detroit Will Clinch Title.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Bears took stock of their bruises yesterday, learned that Beattie Feathers might not be available for the two Lion games this week and went ahead with preparations for Thursday's contest in Detroit.

Feathers is undergoing treatment for an old shoulder injury aggravated in the early minutes of Sunday's game against the Cardinals when he was brought down by three men at the end of his 20 yard run around end. His place in the starting lineup will be taken by either John Sisk, George Corbett or Keith Molesworth.

The Bears will work out again this morning, meet for a chalk talk this afternoon and complete practice for Thursday's game tomorrow morning. They will go to Detroit tomorrow noon and return Thursday night to get in two full days of work before the final game of the season against the Lions at Wrigley Field on Sunday.

Offsets One Game Lead.

Possible loss of Feathers leaves the Bears at a disadvantage, but it has not had a depressing effect on the squad. Players regard his absence as offset to an extent by the one game lead they now hold going into Detroit. The Lions' defeat by Green Bay Sunday on Hinkle's 47 yard field goal reduced by half the job the Bears had contemplated a week ago. A split in the two games or a victory and a tie will give them the western division championship and the right to meet the eastern division winner for the title.

Detroit, however, must win both games to reach the title bracket. The only other hope Detroit can hold out is victory in one game and a tie score in the other, in which case a third game would have to be played a week from Sunday to decide the division championship. A tie, however, is regarded only as a remote possibility. National league teams have played 53 games this year without once ending up in a deadlock.

Fans Debate Teams' Power.

While the Bears and Lions set themselves for one final and desperate lunge toward the title, the topic of the hour for professional fans continued to be "What about Detroit and the Bears?" The best answer to all queries anent relative strength, speed and attack are found in the opinions of the men who have sent their teams against the two western division steam rollers.

Coaches Paul Schissler of the Cardinals, Curley Lambeau of Green Bay, Steve Owen of New York, and Lone Star Deitz of Boston give the Bears the edge if both teams are at full strength. Possible loss of Feathers, they point out, is counterbalanced to an extent by the condition of Dutch Clark, Detroit's outstanding back and field general, who is recovering from a knee injury received in the Cardinal game here. This injury may handicap his play against the Bears, but it will not keep him out of the game.

How They Compare.

Center—Kawal and Miller of Bears vs. Randolph and Bernard of Detroit: Equal strength.

Guards—Kopcha, Carlson of Bears vs. Bodenger and Emmerson of Detroit: Bears have edge with Detroit sacrificing heft and power by using small, fast men to pull out for interference.

Tackles—Lyman and Musso of the Bears vs. G. Christensen and Johnson of Detroit: Equal strength, because Christensen [right tackle] and Lyman, [left tackle], regarded as the best tackles in the league, oppose each other.

Ends—Hewitt and Karr of Bears against Ebbing and McKalip, of Detroit: Bears hold the advantage with Hewitt in the lineup, although the Lions' wingmen are regarded by some as the best pair of ends in the league. Hewitt and Karr are more rugged and stronger on defense.

Detroit Reserves Strong.

Backfield—Nagurski, Feathers, Ronzani and Brumbaugh of Bears vs. Clark, Caddell, F. Christensen, and Lumpkin of Detroit: The Bears are favored in this alignment, although Detroit is stronger in backfield reserve strength. The Detroit backfield is given a little edge in speed, but the tremendous power of the Bears' quartet is expected to more than balance the Lions' fleetness.

Packers Get in for Battle with Cardinals

Green Bay's Packers, once the strongest eleven in Pro football and fresh from a 3 to 0 victory over the Detroit Lions, will invade Wrigley field Thanksgiving day afternoon to meet the Cardinals. The game will mark the Cardinals' last appearance on their home field this season.

The Badger team arrived in town yesterday, ready to resume practice, but the inclement weather stopped them. Preparations were made for them to take their final heavy workout today, indoors, if necessary. Curley Lambeau, coach, announced that his squad came through the battle with the Lions without serious injury.

The Cardinals were not so fortunate. Phil Handler, a regular guard, definitly is out of the Packer game, an injury to his shoulder, sustained in the game with the Bears last Sunday, making it impossible for him to return to action this season.

Mike Mikulak, leader in the Cardinal attack, was badly banged up in the game, but trainers are hopeful they can patch him up for the Packer contest.

The game will be the rubber affair between the Packers and Cards.

All Roads Lead to Yale Game, Mr. Fan Finds

New York, Nov. 26.—(AP)—This is a favorite situation for the comic cartoonists, but Saturday it actually happened in the Yale bowl at New Haven.

An hour before the Elis turned back the Harvards in the Big Three climax, a huge fellow, swathed in a raccoon coat, pockets bulging, step unsteady, and eyes slightly aslant, came plodding up the all but vacant ailes. In his hat, twisted out of shape and considerably askew, stood a bright orange feather with a big "P" on it.

He sat himself down and organized his paraphernalia around him. He had more equipment to get through that ball game than Raphael needed to paint the Madonna. Once organized, he devoted himself for the first time to his surroundings.

He Warms Up Voice.

"Come on," said the man in the raccoon coat firmly, gaining confidence, "never mind about Yale, let's beat Dartmouth."

He looked around. No one was disagreeing with him, because no one had gotten there yet. His voice rose with added authority.

"Where Am I?" He Asks.

An echo supported him from across the stadium, and he looked around for the source of possible trouble. He looked again. A kind of incredulous, startled look came into his eyes. He brushed his forehead, looked again. From the press box you could see tragic realization creeping over him.

"Where am I?" he said — and paused.

"Where the hell am I?" he demanded again, in a half wail that started the echoes once more.

He looked up to the press box.

"'Zis ain't Palmer stadium," he announced belligerently. "Where's Palmer stadium? Where's Princeton? Where's Dartmouth? 'Zis 's Yale. What'm I doin' here?"

Nothin' But Yale Again.

No one knew, so he tried brokenly to explain. He had gone down to a railroad station, Pennsylvania station leading to Princeton, he thought, and had gotten on a football special with a lot of fine, exciting people who were going to a football game, Princeton-Dartmouth, he thought. Actually he had gone to Grand Central station, had gotten on a football special, all right, but a Harvard-Yale special. He was heartbroken.

"Waddeya think of that?" he muttered. "I'm a good Princeton man. I see Yale beat 'em last week. I wanna have revenge. I wanna see Princeton Tigers eat up Dartmouth. 'N here I am. Nothin' but Yale again."

He consoled himself with his packages. He protested all the time Yale was beating Harvard, with him having to watch. But when last seen, in the fourth quarter, he was still rooting for Princeton.

HARNESS HORSE GROUPS RETAIN 1934 OFFICERS

Meet Before Old Glory Sales to Discuss Plans.

New York, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Clearing the way for the three day stand of the 40th Old Glory Horse auction, starting in squadron A armory tomorrow, the three major governing bodies of light harness horse racing today re-elected their officers and discussed plans for the 1935 season.

E. Roland Harriman of New York, master of the Arden Homestead stable, again was chosen to head the Trotting Horse Club of America and the American Trotting Register association. David M. Look, also of New York, was reelected president of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders.

Discuss Lord Jim's Price.

While the officials of the sport were meeting in private sessions, scores of owners and trainers gathered in the lobby of a mid-town hotel to swap anecdotes and venture an opinion on the price Lord Jim, winner of the rich Hambletonian, would bring when he goes to the block Thursday.

Although not announcing plans for the coming season, it was said that the trotting horse club hoped to extend the grand circuit to the west and south, thus lengthening the season which ended this year with a meeting at Lexington, Ky., in September.

Name Other Officers.

Other officers elected were: Trotting Horse club, Dr. Ogden M. Edwards, Pittsburgh, first vice president; William H. Cane, Hackensack, N. J. second vice president; J. L. Dodge, Lexington, secretary, and Look, treasurer. Look also was named treasurer of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders and vice president of the American Trotting Register association. Dr. Edwards was re-elected first vice president, W. N. Reynolds, Winston-Salem, N. C., second vice president, and L. V. Shepard, Hanover, Pa., third vice president of the breeders' organization. Will Gahagan, Goshen, again was named secretary of the register and breeders bodies.

Carleton Five Faces Wildcats Monday Night

Four members of Northwestern's football squad will turn their attention to the basketball team, which opens its season Monday night against Carleton college at Patten gymnasium. The Carleton game is the first of six will play before opening their Big Ten season with Wisconsin Jan. 7.

Al Kawal, captain of this year's football team, also is co-captain of the basketball squad. He shares leadership with Lyle Fisher. Kawal, a regular guard for the last two seasons, is one of three letter men available, the others being Fisher and Milt Rosenfeld, forwards.

Will Report in Few Days.

Other football players who will report to Coach Dutch Lonborg within the next few days are Ollie Adelman and Eino Hayskar, guards, and Vern Anderson, center. Both Adelman and Hayskar are sophomores, while Anderson was a reserve on last year's quintet.

Loss of three members of the 1933-'34 team by graduation has caused Coach Lonborg to turn to sophomores to round out his first string combination. With the exception of Fisher, all other members of the starting lineup Monday will be first year men. Kawal is not expected to be ready to play until he has had additional practice.

The new men are tall and rangy, but do not possess the speed and shiftiness of Brewer, Culver, and Manske, who led the Wildcats into second place in the conference last year.

Some Big Boys Here.

The sophomores who will start against Carleton are Jess McAnally, 6 foot 5 inch center, Greencastle, Ind.; Guy Mercer, 6 foot forward, Oak Park; Babe Bender, 6 foot 6 inch guard, Kokomo, Ind., and Norman Vance, 6 foot 4 inch guard, Logansport, Ind.

RFC INDICATES IT WILL EXTEND BIG RAIL LOAN

Illinois Central Applies for $2,000,000 More.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—An announcement that the Reconstruction Finance corporation would probably extend the maturity of a $7,000,000 loan due from the Southern railway in February headed a list of railroad financing developments here today centering around the RFC and the Interstate Commerce commission.

Chairman Jones of the RFC discussed efforts to interest some railroads in the splitting up and purchase of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad, which has been in receivership for more than a decade, and remarked that he had recently discussed this matter with Ralph Budd of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy in an

U. S. PLANS VAST NEW LOAN; MAY BE 1½ BILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Huge government borrowings, running perhaps as high as a billion and a half dollars, are believed to be planned for Dec. 15 by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. Included in this sum will be a large block of money to help meet the heavy New Deal expenditures this winter. Out of the total over 992 millions will be for refunding an issue of treasury certificates which mature Dec. 15.

Indications that the treasury is planning this big borrowing drive came today when Secretary Morgenthau announced two changes in the preliminary financing plans. He disclosed, first, that none of the 300 million dollars of 4 per cent Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds will be called, and, second, that the treasury will make no move on Dec. 15 to refinance 1 billion 875 million dollars of Liberty bonds which mature April 15.

Clear Way for Big Loan.

The fact that Secretary Morgenthau has finally decided against these two refunding operations, neither of which is necessary at this time, was taken here as an indication that he is clearing the way for a large treasury loan for other than refinancing purposes.

Added weight was given this belief by the fact that the treasury's working cash balance today fell to 810 million dollars. This is the lowest the treasury's ready cash has been for some time, and the sum is not large enough to meet the anticipated winter expenditures, especially those for relief.

By ruling out the HOLC and Liberty bond refundings at this time Secretary Morgenthau has cut the Dec. 15 refinancing down to the single essential item, that of converting 992 million dollars' worth of 2¼ per cent treasury certificates which mature on Dec. 15 and which must be refunded or paid off on that date.

New Money to Be Borrowed.

Having reduced the refinancing needs, the treasury will be free to borrow up to 500 million dollars' worth of "new money" which will be added to its present cash balance.

The decision to follow this line of action was believed to have been reached this morning, when Secretary Morgenthau summoned the first meeting of the interdepartmental lending committee which President Roosevelt created two weeks ago. This committee on which every government financial agency is represented is to coordinate federal fiscal operations.

Earlier the government had been seriously considering refunding the 300 million dollars' worth of outstanding 4 per cent HOLC bonds. Although these obligations have many years to run before they mature, the treasury believes that they can be refunded for a lower interest rate and is anxious to do so at the earliest feasible time.

Delay Action on Liberty Bonds.

On the refunding of the 1 billion 875 million dollars of 4¼ per cent Liberty bonds the treasury has until April 15 to act. Secretary Morgenthau refused today to indicate when he might endeavor to refinance them.

An offer of $75,000,000 of 182-day treasury bills, dated Nov. 28, brought $314,910,000 in applications, of which $75,287,000 were accepted, Secretary Morgenthau announced tonight.

The accepted bids ranged from 99.004, equivalent to about 0.19 per cent per annum, to 99.880, equivalent to about 0.24 per cent, on a bank discount basis. Only part of the amount bid for at the latter price was accepted. The average price of bills to be issued is 99.886 and the average rate about 0.23 per cent.

REGULAR BUDGET OF U. S. MAY TAKE THREE BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Hearings on the government's routine budget by the budget bureau are virtually completed, it was learned today. About three billion dollars probably will be necessary to cover the so-called "regular" expenditures, exclusive of all the New Deal emergency costs. This will provide for only the routine departments and bureaus, leaving all of the alphabetical recovery agencies still to be paid for.

Some reductions have been achieved by the budget bureau as compared with the totals requested from congress last year. Most of these reductions are expected to be offset by increases elsewhere, notably in the navy where a heavy building program is contemplated.

As budget hearings neared their end, it was disclosed that the guiding spirit of most of the work has been A. E. Buck, former budgetary expert for the Institute of Public Information. After the resignation of Lewis Douglas, who disagreed with President Roosevelt on spending policies, the budget bureau was put under Daniel W. Bell, chief treasury accountant, who has had little time to supervise it.

President Roosevelt is giving the budget bureau no control over his emergency expenditures, such as relief and public works. He himself will write these estimates as he sees fit.

The insurance division of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday that October sales of Illinois life insurance companies totaled $43,032,000, a gain of $9,645,000 over September and of 9 per cent over October, 1933. Fifty-six per cent of Illinois companies reported October gains.

Oil Men Carry Code Fight to Supreme Court

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Contending that an emergency does not create the power to deprive a citizen of his constitutional rights, two oil producers today asked the Supreme court to declare invalid the oil code and a part of the National Industrial Recovery act.

The brief, filed by the Panama Refining company and A. F. Anding, an individual producer, was a forerunner of the fight to be staged in the high court on Dec. 10 by producers in the east Texas oil fields.

Denies Dictation Right.

The contention put forward today was that an emergency, such as congress declared to exist, would not create power whereby congress and the President could "dictate to the citizens of a state how much petroleum they can produce during any period, and the minimum wage they shall pay their employés while producing it."

It was proposed, the brief added, to prosecute criminally those who violated orders of the President to carry out the oil code.

The Supreme court has repeatedly held, the brief stated, that an emergency does not create power and that even during a state of war congress and the President cannot pass the limitations placed on them by the constitution nor deprive a citizen of constitutional rights.

Declares Title 1 Invalid.

The brief contended title 1 of the National Industrial Recovery act was invalid as an attempt by congress to regulate intrastate as well as interstate and foreign commerce; and as an unlawful delegation by congress of power to the President to prohibit interstate and foreign shipments of oil produced in excess of the laws of Texas, congress having no power itself to prohibit interstate and foreign commerce based on regulations made by states. The brief also supported a claim that regulations issued by Secretary Ickes to enforce a section of the act are invalid.

Having lost in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, the appeal was taken to the high court, where it will be heard with the appeal of the Amazon Petroleum corporation and other east Texas oil producers next month.

ROADS TO CARRY C. & E. I. CASE TO SUPREME COURT

The New York Central and the Louisville & Nashville will carry their fight to effect an operating agreement between themselves to the United States Supreme court, Sidney C. Murray, general counsel here for the New York Central, stated yesterday. The two roads have been seeking to overthrow a ruling by Joseph B. Eastman, federal railroad coördinator, refusing to permit the L. & N. to end an operating agreement with the Chicago & Eastern Illinois in favor of the Big Four—one of the New York Central lines.

Federal Judges Barnes, Evans and Sullivan recently upheld Coördinator Eastman by dismissing a suit brought by the New York Central and the L. & N. The court held that Eastman acted within his authority. In general, it is said that the case is the first test of the coördinator's powers to intervene in management of the carriers with respect to operation.

The L. & N. recently sought to end its arrangement with the C. & E. I. of some fifty years standing whereby the latter carried trains of the former over its tracks into Chicago from Evansville, Ind., and to transfer the trains to the Big Four route.

PLAN TRANS-ATLANTIC TRAVEL IN LUXURIOUS LINERS FOR $50 FARE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 27.—[Tuesday.]—A new era in Atlantic passenger travel, in which it will be possible to cross from Europe to the United States in a luxuriously appointed liner for $50 and have a choice of meals in a restaurant or grill room aboard on a "pay as you eat" system, is planned by a prominent group of British shipping and financial houses, it was revealed this morning.

The promoters propose to purchase a number of Red Star liners, at present controled by the American International Mercantile Marine, and it is understood that the new concern will be called the Red Star Navigation company, Ltd. The ships involved are the Belgenland, Pennland, Westernland, Minnetonka, and Minnewaska. Two new vessels also are to be constructed at a cost of $6,250,000 each.

The promoters believe that by running modern ships catering mainly to travelers of modest means they will show a profit. Negotiations between P. A. S. Franklin, head of International Mercantile Marine company, and Maj. Frank Bustard, former passenger traffic manager of the White Star line, representing the English group, are said to have reached an advanced stage.

FOREIGN GOLD INFLUX RISES TO 130 MILLION

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today reported the receipt of $13,867,100 gold from abroad, of which $7,773,600 was from France, $5,350,900 from India, and $742,600 from England.

No new engagements of gold abroad for shipment here were reported today. The total engagements which have been made on the present movement come to about 130 million dollars, including gold bought in India, as well as that taken from the Bank of France and other European central banks.

Transactions in foreign exchanges were quiet. French francs rose ⅛ point, to 6.59⅜ cents, but Swiss francs dropped 2 points, to 32.41 cents, which is beneath the gold import points and guilders eased 1 point to 67.62 cents. Sterling rose ¼ cent, to $4.99⅜.

At the closing quotation on the French franc the dollar was worth 59.38 cents, based on the old par of the franc, compared with 59.43 cents on Saturday. Calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was valued at $1.0060, against $1.0063.

Bullion brokers in London advanced the price of gold 1 penny, to 139 shillings 6 pence a fine ounce, based on the opening of sterling at $4.98⅞.

Let Roosevelt Define Plans, Business Plea

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—(AP)—A new call upon President Roosevelt to issue a statement of New Deal objectives in furtherance of the move for effective coöperation between business leaders and the administration was made today by C. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mr. Bardo issued a statement asserting that business "must have more definite ideas as to the direction in which the government is headed." The government, he said, "must project a course that can actually be followed." His statement, issued in New York, recalled the action of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in asking President Roosevelt to answer a six point questionnaire covering his policies for the future. The chief executive made no reply.

Wants Policies Clearly Defined.

"The President's recent assurance that the administration is not hostile to such fundamentals of American economy as private initiative and the profit motive is heartening," he said. "Confidence is the most important factor in any effort to chart the future trend of American business.

"If business is to get on its feet it must have more definite ideas as to the direction in which our government is heading. Our welfare not only for the immediate future but for years to come will depend upon the clearness with which these principles are set forth by the administration in Washington. The government must project a course that can actually be followed."

Seeks Basis for Coöperation.

Bardo's appeal was made with the stated purpose of providing a basis for an adequately planned coöperation to be developed at a "congress of American industry" scheduled for Dec. 5 in New York under the auspices of his organization. The meeting, to be attended by prominent industrialists, is directed at the formulation of "a platform for American industry."

The chamber's similar request was made in September well before the current effort at coöperation between business and administration was initiated. Although its view that such a statement from the chief executive would be of great value has not changed, the chamber has said nothing about it since the original request was made.

STEEL INDUSTRY OUTPUT RISES TO 28.1% THIS WEEK

New York, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Operations in the steel industry for the current week were estimated by the American Iron and Steel institute at 28.1 per cent of capacity against 27.6 per cent last week and 25 per cent a month ago. A year ago the operating rate was 26.8 per cent. This week's indicated gain over last week is ½ point, or 1.8 per cent.

Steel trade activity, as measured by the institute's figures, has shown a gradual but steady uptrend since early in September, when the year's low rate of 18.4 per cent was established. This week's indicated schedule is the highest reported since last July.

STOCKS RESUME RISE; BUSINESS NEWS CHEERFUL

Profit Taking Sales Well Absorbed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 26.—Against a brighter hued backdrop of business news Wall street opened the new week in a bullish frame of mind today and pushed prices of stocks on the "big board" upward from fractions to more than a point. In the course of a moderately active day some leading industrial shares were lifted to their best prices for the movement, and in some cases quotations found their best levels for more than a year.

In well defined contrast to the slow, heavy Monday market performances of a few weeks back the trading picture maintained a good tone throughout the day, with the ticker grinding out a turnover of 1,411,000 shares. Helping to keep sentiment in a cheerier tone was the increased volume in the recently laggard rails on the upside, coupled with greater willingness on the part of speculators to swing utilities into the advance.

Profit Taking Cuts Upturn.

The market rendered its best exhibition of strength in the morning and for a short spell after the noon hour, after which activity declined and prices were clipped on profit taking, but the volume of offerings was absorbed in creditable fashion. Most of the issues in the general list held a fair part of their gains, which at the highs for the day had lifted them fractions to almost three points above previous closing marks.

While speculators haven't abandoned hope for something in the way of credit inflation, stocks and other markets, it was said, are plainly drawing their stimulus from the lift in trade. Perusing the list, it was seen that the pace setting stocks now are those which stand to benefit most from bulging retail business, a revival in building construction, automobile manufacture, and equipment repair.

Several Issues at New Peaks.

Attesting the market's new found leadership, industrial stocks were well up in the van of the rise. The more optimistic feeling in the industry jacked U. S. Steel up more than a point on the day, and other steel issues proved good pace followers.

A variety of shares registered new highs for the movement and the year, among them Helme at 135, Liggett & Myers common and "B" at 110 and 111 respectively, Reynolds "B" at 50⅞, Woolworth at 55, and Spiegel-May-Stern at 72.

Public utility stocks rallied following publication of the Edison Electric Institute's statement that the activities of the Tennessee Valley authority were "palpably unconstitutional" in the opinion of Newton D. Baker and James B. Beck, retained by Thomas N. McCarter, president of the institute. Among leading power and light shares to gain were Consolidated Gas, United Gas Improvement, North American, and American Water Works.

American Telephone stepped out for a net advance of better than a point. At its high for the day of 110½ Telephone was about 10 points above its low in the November reaction on the news of the communications commission's intentions to inquire into the company's activities.

Special news also had a hand in the rejuvenated demand for railroad stocks, the report going abroad that the Reconstruction Finance corporation intends to bring about a six months' moratorium on receiverships for major carriers. Gains of more than a point were chalked by the pace-setting stocks of Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson and Union Pacific, while New York Central, Lackawanna and Southern Pacific made smaller gains. Equipments tagged along with rails.

Farm equipment stocks were in fair demand and merchandising issues were on the rise. Buoyancy marked tobaccos for a time. Liquors were quiet but steady, oils marked time for the most part, while chemicals were higher.

Big Business Working Hard to Develop Real Recovery

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A nation-wide movement, participated in by most of the big business and banking interests, is under way to bring about recovery by the orthodox method of boosting sales volume, increasing bank loans, and inducing investors to invest.

This is the essence of the new spirit of "coöperation" with the President which is presently being so much talked about.

It began early in October with whisperings from Washington of dinner table discussions between business leaders and Prof. Raymond Moley, adviser to the President and ex officio member of the "brain trust."

* *

Then, late in October came the annual convention of the American Bankers' association in Washington, where the new "coöperation" flowered into publicity with the President's speech exhorting the bankers to lend more money, the speech in which he explained that the government would have to go on spending in excess of its income unless and until business, with the banks assisting, should take up the slack in employment by expanding.

At this same meeting Jackson Reynolds, conservative president of one of the most conservative banks in the country, the First National of New York, appeared on the platform, presumably as spokesman for the big banks, and disclosed the extent to which the financiers were willing to concede the logic of the President's stand by agreeing, in effect, that the government would have to go on spending in excess of its income until business itself should put idle men to work.

* *

Prior to that time business men, through the National Association of Manufacturers and Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the big banks, through the federal advisory council, had publicly demanded a balanced budget and a stabilized currency as essentials to recovery.

These demands were met not by promises to balance the budget and stabilize the dollar, but by the President's explanation in his talk to the bankers that business men, if they wanted these things, would have to earn them by their own strenuous efforts. Before the budget could be balanced, they were told, relief expenditures would have to be tapered off and only by private industry's hiring idle workers could relief expenditures be reduced.

That left industry pretty much of a Hobson's choice. Some way had to be found to generate a big pickup in business if the danger of inflation through continued red ink in the government's expense account were to be removed. The election came along with sweeping Democratic victories, burying whatever hopes might have been entertained of tempering the administration's spending policies.

* *

Realizing now that the nation's chances of avoiding inflation lie in the success of their efforts to stimulate the volume of business activity, leading business men are going about the country staging pep meetings. There is no questioning the sincerity of these appeals. Individuals of all shades of political belief are urging coöperation with the President.

This is entirely natural. Business men want to do business. Bankers want to lend money. Bond men want to sell bonds. They can't make money by not functioning. If business is ever going to get better it has got to improve during the next year or so. Otherwise, as Dr. Sprague points out, there will probably be inflation through continued government spending in excess of income.

Since March, 1933, there has been an increase of nearly 6,000 million dollars in the national debt. The government after borrowing this money has spent it and it has been redeposited in the banks, swelling bank deposits by an amount approximately equal to the amount of the 6,000 million dollar borrowings.

This means that there has been brought about an inflation of bank credit. In Great Britain, where government expenditures have been pretty well balanced by government income, with the result that there has been little expansion in the government debt, bank deposits have increased little since March, 1933.

* *

The danger in this country is that if government borrowing continues too far, drastic currency inflation of the type that is difficult to control will occur. Hence the big effort on the part of business to bring about its own recovery even handicapped as it is by the discouragement of an unbalanced budget that only its own efforts can get back in balance.

The current pickup is encouraging. According to the federal reserve board's monthly report, business volume improved last month for the first time since last May and continued gains were noted early in November. There will be a concerted effort on the part of business men throughout the country to turn these modest gains into a genuine recovery sufficient to make possible a tapering off of federal expenditures.

NORTH AMERICAN VOTES 25C; DROPS STOCK PAYMENT

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Explaining its action by pointing out the diminishing need for property additions, the board of directors of the North American company at a meeting today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share in cash, deviating from its custom of paying partly in cash and partly in stock. In the three previous quarters the company paid 12½ cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock.

The company also declared 75 cents on the preferred. Both dividends are payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 5.

Protective Committee for Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company

Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds

DUE JULY 1, 1947

To the Holders of the above described Bonds:

The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company (commonly called the "Monon"), has, since December 30, 1933, been under the jurisdiction of the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, for the purpose of effecting a Plan of Reorganization in accordance with the provisions of Section 77 of the Bankruptcy Act.

At first it was thought that there were reasonable grounds for hoping that the difficulties of the Monon were temporary, and that no formal protective committee was either necessary or desirable. In the meantime an informal committee consisting of representatives of some of the largest institutional holders of these bonds has kept constantly in touch with the affairs of the railroad and all subsequent developments in the situation. Now that more than ten months have elapsed without the hoped for improvement in business conditions in the territory served and that unforeseen developments have so largely increased railroad operating costs, some readjustment of the Monon's financial structure appears to be unavoidable. It has, therefore, been decided that the present situation requires the organization of a formal committee under a protective agreement, and intervention by it in the court proceedings.

Accordingly, the undersigned investors' committee has been organized consisting of representatives of institutions and other large bondholders owning in the aggregate more than a majority of the bonds. The committee is not now asking for and will not at the present time accept deposits of bonds. It will, however, represent all bondholders who desire to have the committee act in their behalf, and invites all bondholders to give it their support in order that it may more effectively represent them.

Copies of circular letter explaining the situation more fully, of Protective Agreement dated November 9, 1934 under which the committee is acting, and of form of assent to the Agreement and authorization to the committee to act thereunder, to be executed by all bondholders who desire to be represented by the committee, may be obtained from the secretary of the committee and all inquiries should be addressed to him.

The members of the committee have agreed to serve in that capacity without compensation.

EXPORT TOTAL FOR OCTOBER BEST SINCE 1931

Favorable Balance of Trade Grows.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A heartening increase in America's export trade to an October total of $206,352,000 under conditions that led officials to expect further recovery in international commerce under the impetus of the reciprocal trading policy, was shown in an analysis made public today by the commerce department. The gain over September amounted to 8 per cent and the total was the largest since April, 1931.

A modifying consideration in the generally encouraging picture was a decline of 2 per cent in the value of October imports, as compared with the preceding month, to a total of $129,629,000, as against $131,665,000 in September. In October there is usually a seasonal increase of about 7 per cent in imports.

Ten Month Gain is 36%.

For the first ten months this year, the department's analysis showed, the total value of exports was $1,767,697,000, or 36 per cent more than in the corresponding period last year and larger even than for the 1933 calendar year. The ten month import total was $1,371,871,000, a gain of 16 per cent over a year ago.

The merchandise export balance for October was $77,000,000 compared with $60,000,000 in September and $42,000,000 in October, 1933. This latter showing occasioned no particular gratification in view of the administration's desire for a closer balance between exports and imports to the end that foreign purchasing power for the American products be increased. It was felt by officials generally, however, that this improved balance could be brought about through reciprocity treaties now being negotiated.

Trade Balance Favorable.

The trade balance in favor of the United States for the first ten months was $295,826,000, compared with $100,599,000 in the like period last year.

Gold exports during October amounted to $2,173,000 as compared with $34,046,000 in the corresponding month in 1933. Gold imports were $13,010,000 compared with $1,696,000 in October, 1933. Silver exports were $1,162,000 as compared with $2,281,000 last year. The October, 1934, volume was the lowest since last March. Imports stood at $14,425,000 compared with $4,106,000 last year.

Gold exports in the first ten months of this year totaled $52,309,000 compared with $352,880,000 in the like period last year. Imports amounted to $973,223,000 compared with $189,336,000.

In the first ten months of this year silver exports totaled $13,840,000 as compared with $17,987,000 in the like 1933 period. Imports stood at $79,004,000 as compared with $51,165,000.

The decline in general imports into this country in October was attributed mainly to the drop in Cuban sugar purchases, which fell below the abnormally high volume in September. The October decline was $15,700,000.

SEVERAL ROADS SHOW SEASONAL DROP IN TRAFIC

Seasonal declines in loadings last week have been reported by several carriers. The Chicago and North Western moved 21,200 cars of freight, compared with 22,334 in the preceding week, and 22,070 a year ago. The decline from a year ago was due principally to lower traffic in grain and grain products, and in forest products.

The Milwaukee showed a total of 22,769 cars, against 24,074 and 22,408. The Chesapeake and Ohio handled 27,621 cars of freight, against 29,406 and 27,293. The Santa Fe reported 21,660 cars against 24,647 a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Raw sugar quiet and unchanged today. Combination offerings of Cubas for processing this year at 3.08½c and for January processing at 2.45c failed to promote any demand from refiners and no sales were reported.

Price changes in futures were irregular. Following early steadiness the market reacted under increased tired, long liquidation with final prices unchanged to 2 points net higher. Sales were 20,400 tons:

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Prices of domestic corporation bonds were bid up briskly today with steel issues leading the van on official reports of improvement in the industry. The major gains for the corporation group ranged from 1 to more than 4 points. United States government and leading foreign loans were irregularly higher in quiet trading.

The Home Owners' Loan corporation 4s, which had a creeping advance for several days, closed today at 100 28-32ds, up 3-32ds point. Other issues of the government group closed up 3-32ds to down 2-32ds point. The turnover in the group, which was only $906,800, was the smallest since July 19, last.

Steel Liens Rise Sharply.

The sharp gains registered by steel bonds enabled several to reach new highs for the year. These included American Rolling mills 5s, Colorado Fuel and Iron 5½s due 1943, Inland Steel 4½s, series B, due 1981; National Steel 5s, due 1956, and Sharon Steel Hoop 5½s. Various other steel issues scored fractional gains.

The rails seemed to derive renewed hope from the statement of Chairman Jones of the RFC that the organization would not press the roads for repayment of loans. Gains of one to more than 2 points were made by Alleghany 5s, Baltimore and Ohio refunding 5s, Chicago and North Western 4¾s, Erie 5s of 1967, Illinois Central 4¾s, New York Central 4½s of 2013, Nickel Plate 6s, New Haven 4½s, Frisco 5s of 1950, Southern Pacific 4½s, Southern 6½s, and Wabash 5½s.

Utilities Also Firmer.

Utility and industrial gainers included Philadelphia company 5s, Manhattan Railway first 4s, International Telephone 5s, International Hydro-Electric 6s, Interboro Rapid-Transit 5s, Columbia Gas 5s, and American Water Works 6s.

The best strength in the foreign group centered in the obligations of Poland, Argentina, in several of the Australian state and municipal loans, and in some of the German issues. German government loans were up fractionally.

Activity was not pronounced. Transfers totaled $10,704,000, par value, against $11,362,000 last Friday.

Sparks-Withington.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me information pertaining to Sparks-Withington.—F. J.

Answer: In 1925 Sparks-Withington company began the manufacture of radios to supplement its established line of automobile horns which are standard equipment for many leading makes of automobiles. The radio line has since accounted for the major portion of its business. In 1932 it undertook the manufacture of electric refrigerators. Production of automobile accessories, however, still remains an important phase of the company's business.

In 1930 the radio market collapsed. Floods of bankrupt stocks of goods in the industry wiped out the profit margin in the business. Several years elapsed before the surplus was digested. In addition the company had to expend considerable money in developing and promoting its electric refrigerator.

Yr. ended. June 30.	Net sales.	Net loss.	com. shr
1934	$4,851,000	$ 344,000	$0.41
1933	2,500,000	285,000	.34
1932	3,865,000	1,931,000	2.17
1931	7,364,000	*126,000	*.12

*Net income.

In the June 30, 1929, year sales totaled $17,282,000 and net income was $2,510,000.

On June 30, 1934, current assets, including $536,000 cash assets, totaled $2,386,000. Current liabilities were $1,083,000, including $200,000 bank notes payable.

Nothing has been paid on the 3,637 shares of 6 per cent $100 par preferred since Dec. 15, 1932. Accumulations totaled $12 a share on Sept. 15, 1934. There are outstanding 900,674 shares of no par common. The preferred is speculative. The common is quite speculative.

GRAINS RECEDE; LIQUIDATION IN WHEAT IS CAUSE

Prices Fall About a Cent; Corn Loses Fraction.

Grain prices dragged lower on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, influenced largely by persistent liquidation in wheat, which lost about a cent a bushel for the day. Corn displayed more resistance, a characteristic which has prevailed for several days, but was unable to buck the trend and eased fractionally.

The market opened under fairly auspicious circumstances. Foreign prices showed a good advance over their previous close, but subsequently lost ground when Chicago prices failed to follow. Trading here was extremely desultory and news other than the routine grist was uninspiring.

Statistical Service Advises Selling.

The narrowness of trade now prevailing was pointedly reflected in one item of news. A statistical market service was said to have advised its clients to liquidate their lines of wheat, and subsequent selling was sufficient to initiate the down trend. Ordinarily such advice would have small effect as customers following it would not own a sufficient amount of futures to dominate the trade. But lacking anything decisive in the way of news speculators siezed upon it as a basis for their market operations.

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	.97⅝	.98¾	.99⅝
Corn	.86	.86⅞	.85⅝
Oats	.50¼	.50⅜	.50⅝
Rye	.73⅜	.75⅝	.70¾
Barley	.78	.79	.77

Wheat Off About a Cent.

Losses in wheat ranged from ⅞ to 1¼ cents; corn, ⅜ to ⅞ cent; oats, ⅛ to 1¼ cents, and rye, 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents. Barley was 1 cent lower to ½ cent higher. Winnipeg closed ¼ to ⅜ cent lower and Liverpool advanced ¼ to ½ cent.

Beneficial rains were received over the week-end, particularly in the southwest, which encouraged some profit taking in wheat.

Visible supplies again suffered a healthy slash last week. Wheat fell 2,415,000 bushels to around 93,000,000 bushels, or more than 43 million below the total prevailing at this time in 1933. Corn decreased sharply with a drop of 3,232,000 bushels, against a gain of 1,420,000 bushels for the same week last year.

World Shipments Show Shifts.

World shipments last week were slightly in excess of 10,000,000 bushels, about the same as in 1933. But this year the distribution has been radically changed. Russia was a fairly good exporter in 1933, but last week furnished nothing. North America, largely Canada, furnished 2,000,000 less than last year, while Argentina, which has been taking the market away from Canada, exported 3,824,000 bushels, compared with 482,000 in the 1933 period.

No. 1 white corn made a new high for the year in the cash market with a sale at $1.03 a bushel, a premium of 16 cents over December futures. This was a cent higher than the price paid for a car of No. 2 red winter wheat.

EUROPE ACCEPTS WHEAT PLAN, BUT NOT ARGENTINA

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The international wheat conference officially announced tonight that both the exporting and importing countries of Europe, including Russia, were "in general agreement" on new proposals under consideration for regulation of the wheat trade.

Argentina's refusal to accept the 1933 wheat pact as at basis for reducing acreage in the "big four" countries—the United States, Canada, Argentina, and Australia—continued.

Concerning this controversy a communique issued by the conference said: "It has not yet been found possible to reach an understanding concerning several points of view as to the selection of data upon which basic quotas should be assessed. Conversations between the four exporting countries are being continued."

The communique indicated that Canada and Australia also are not in total agreement. This leaves the United States only giving full support to the proposal as drafted.

LIGHT HOGS SELL LOWER, DUE TO EXCESSIVE RUN

Advancing costs of hog growing brought a flood of pigs and light hogs to the Chicago market yesterday that broke prices of these classes 15 to 25 cents. Heavy kinds were scarce and steady. Top grades sold at $8.25, including the $2.25 processing tax. The day's average price was 5 cents lower at $7.80.

Beef steers sold strong to slightly higher, due to light receipts. The top price was $9.65, but the bulk moved in a spread of $5.75 to $9. Butcher stock and calves showed little change.

Lambs jumped 25 to 40 cents on comparatively light supplies. Best offerings sold up to $7.35, the highest price since August. Prices were at least $1 above the lowest level last week.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES MOVE LOWER WITH GRAINS

Lard futures fluctuated in an erratic manner yesterday, breaking early on selling induced by the large receipts of hogs and lower prices at the stockyards, only to recover the loss later on aggressive commission house buying and then weakened toward the last in sympathy with grains. Closing trades were 5 points lower to 5 points higher, the latter on July. Bellies were unchanged to 10 points lower. Cash lard closed at 10¾ cents; loose and leaf at 10¼ cents, and bellies at 14.17 cents per pound. Prices follow:
